LOUD PROTESTS ARE MADE OVER CROSBY CHOICE

President Serves Notice, However, He Is Firm on Appointment.

White House Reveals All Declined to Serve as Commissioner.

COMMERCE CHAMBER OPPOSES ARMY MAN

Color Lent to Charges That City Conditions Are Bad, Is Contention.

The vortex whirling around the appointment of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as a District Commissioner yesterday produced a letter of protest from the Washington Chamber of Commerce, resolutions of opposition from the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association and criticism of newspaper and radio publicity, detrimental to the National Capital, that has arisen out of the selection of the military man.

Simultaneously, it was made clear that President Hoover intends to remain obdurate in his intention to appoint the Army officer. And it was also revealed at the White House that the President offered the post to seven Washingtonians without acceptance before Gen. Crosby was selected.

In his determination to appoint Gen. Crosby, President Hoover remains unshaken by the storm of protest that has swelled from various quarters of the city. The President is reported to have expressed himself as wholly satisfied that Gen. Crosby will prove himself to be the best available man for the post of Commissioner.

Rumors Disturbing, However.

President Hoover is perturbed, it was reported, by the idea seized by the country that conditions in the National Capital have demanded the appointment of Gen. Crosby. The President is reported to have been equally disturbed by the impression that a military man is being appointed to "wake up the Police Department" and assail the germs of organized crime that may be breeding in the Capital.

Before selecting Gen. Crosby, President Hoover offered the post to at least seven prominent men. Coleman Jennings, distinguished in the finacial world of Washigton; Newbold Noyes, associate editor of the Evening Star; Charles C. Glover, jr., vice chairman of the Republican State committee for the District; Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank; Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co., and Edwin C. Graham, president of the National Electrical Supply Co. The seventh man who received the offer was rumored to be Arthur Hellen, a local attorney.

In accordance with the opposition action recently taken by the board of directors, Charles W. Darr, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, yesterday wrote to President Hoover asking that further consideration be given the appointment of Maj. Gen. Crosby.

Letter in Full.

The letter follows:

"Dear President Hoover:

"At their regular February meeting, the Board of Directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce expressed hope that the newspapers were incorrect in representing you as considering the appointment of a gentleman at present an officer in the regular Army, to the position of Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

"Their sentiment on the board is based upon a profound feeling that the last remnant of local representation in the government of the District of Columbia—in the form of two appointive civilian Commissioners—should be preserved and that such officers should be civilian in the customary sense and as construed in the case Tyler vs. U. S. in which it was held that a retired military officer must be regarded as retaining a military status. It is their belief further that aspersions recently cast upon the City of Washington—with reference in particular to crime conditions—lack any substantial basis of fact and that the abandonment now of the time-honored custom in the appointment of civilian Commissioners would tend to clothe those aspersions with an appearance of truth which they in reality do not possess.

"In view of this sentiment of our board, I respectfully urge in their name and at their request that the appointment in question receive your further careful consideration before it is made final.

"Respectfully yours,
"CHARLES W. DARR,
"President of the Washington Chamber of Commerce."

Resolutions opposing the appointment were adopted at a meeting yes-

CHEST CARDS GIVEN FEDERAL EMPLOYES

Hoover Consents to Action as Clean-Up Drive for Goal Is Launched.

NO SOLICITING PLANNED

Reports on the first day's effort in the clean-up drive of the Community Chest campaign army will be made at a noon meeting in the Mayflower Hotel today.

Determined to reach the goal of $1,786,737.07, Chest workers yesterday continued solicitation in person, by telephone, by telegraph and by cable, and their efforts were greatly supplemented by many persons who saw the newspaper advertisements, clipped the coupons and brought or sent in their subscriptions.

E. W. Libby, chief clerk of the Department of Commerce, chairman of the Association of Chief Clerks of the Executive Departments and chairman of the Government unit of the Community Chest, distributed 60,000 pledge cards in the Government departments, sending a letter to the chief clerk of each department, urging his cooperation.

In his letter, Mr. Libby pointed out that while no actual solicitation is intended, many of the Government employes had expressed a desire to subscribe to the Community Chest through their respective departments, and stated that the President had authorized the distribution of the cards. Mr. Libby asked that the cards be distributed and collected by some designated persons, in order that the pledges might be reported at the Representative Quinn's Secretary Figures in Auto Crash.

WOMAN HURT IN MISHAP

Samuel Robert Young, secretary to Representative Percy E. Quinn, of McComb, Miss., a dry, was arrested at 7:30 o'clock last night on a charge of driving while drunk following a collision just outside the Capitol grounds in which a woman was injured.

The accident occurred at New Jersey avenue and B street northwest, just as Charles S. Walters, of 725 Kennedy street, who is employed at the Washington Navy Yard, was turning off the avenue into the street. Mrs. Walters, who was in the car with her husband, suffered shock, contusions of the forehead and a lacerated head and was taken to Providence Hospital. After treatment she was reported to have left against the advice of physicians. She is 45 years old.

Both autos were so wrecked by the crash that they had to be hauled from the scene. Neither Mr. Young nor Mr. Walters was hurt.

Mr. Young was arrested by Policeman H. G. Smith and booked at the Sixth Precinct station. After being lodged in a cell for a few hours, he was released under $1,000 bond, made by a professional bondsman.

The congressional secretary, who is 32 years old, achieved a great deal of notoriety a little more than a year ago when he thrice saved a Mississippi slayer from the gallows, only to

U. S. Health Aid Here Falls Victim to Parrot Disease

Harry Anderson, 45, Reported Dangerously Ill At Naval Hospital After Infection From Bodies of Birds Linked With Human Cases of Fever.

Parrot fever, the strange tropical malady which already has caused fourteen deaths throughout the Nation since it made its appearance several months ago, has invaded Washington with critical illness to the only known victim here.

He is Harry A. Anderson, 45 years old, an attendant of the United States Public Health Service at its hygienic laboratory, whose dangerous condition at the Naval Hospital yesterday led Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, as head of the Public Health Service, to issue a detailed statement yesterday.

The seriousness of the afflicted man's condition was attested by the report at the hospital that oxygen had been administered during the day and that he was "a very sick man."

Officials of the Public Health Service likewise termed as erroneous a report that four other persons in its hygienic laboratory had contracted the parrrot fever, also known under the medical name of psittacosis. Three of the persons mentioned as sick are all on duty, while the fourth is in Europe. Months ago they contracted undulent fever upon separate occasions without serious consequences.

The Public Health Service statement follows:

"Mr. Anderson first fell ill on Saturday, January 25, but remained on duty. He did not feel well on the following day, which was Sunday, nor on Monday morning, but in spite of that fact he returned to his work on Monday morning as usual. He was taken suddenly violently ill after being at work for about two hours on Monday morning, and was removed to the office of Dr. George W McCoy, the director of the laboratory, and from there to the Naval Hospital.

"The bodies of eight parrots which were associated with human cases of the disease have been received at the Hygienic Laboratory and it was probably from working with these parrots that Anderson contracted the infection.

"Healthy parrots have been exposed to material obtained from the bodies

G.O.P. DOOMED BY DRY POLICY, BECK PREDICTS

Pennsylvanian Says His Party Must Drop Arid Yoke.

REPEAL IS FORESEEN FOR VOLSTEAD ACT

House Member Declares Amendment Destroys Moral Fiber.

PROPOSAL OF FORT RAPPED BY SPEAKER

Justification for Law Must Be Found in Conscience of People, He Avers.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The uneasiness with which Republicans in wet centers are looking upon the development of the prohibition question was again reflected in the House yesterday when Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, declared that it was carrying the party to its ruin.

Asserting that the party's predecessor, the Whigs, fell because of turmoil over slavery, he declared it to be a "sinister omen for the Republican party even in this day of its great power."

"I say it with regret, but I say it as a necessary warning," he declared "that the Republican party can not longer afford to sell its soul to the fanatical drys, and if it does, and thus becomes a party of prohibition, it may have a like fate.

"The party did not emancipate the slave to put the white man in the chains of an intolerant policy.

Democrats Are Criticized.

"The Democratic party can retain its hold upon its rank and file by the vis inertiae of invincible prejudices, but the Republican party can not hold forever a large number of self-respecting men and women to whom the intolerance of pronibition is a moral affront.

"It can not forever be half wet and half dry."

Mr. Beck's speech made to a capacity House and gallery attendance was another of the series advertised as putting prohibition discussion on a higher plane, but which is really believed to be due to a developing situation that is forcing hitherto quiescent wets to emphasize their wetness.

A few days ago Representative Fort, of New Jersey, felt it necessary to make a speech, a dry one, but one telling the wets they could keep their home-brew.

And before him, Representative Graham, of Pennsylvania, whom one never thought to ask whether he was wet or dry, felt impelled to give the wets a propaganda hearing before his judiciary committee on their beer proposals. It would not be surprising, indeed, if Majority Leader Tilson did not feel the urge to make a wet speech or do something wet pretty soon, as he is from wet Connecticut.

Beck Warmly Applauded.

Mr. Beck was warmly applauded by wets and drys during his speech, and at the end given an ovation by the House and galleries alike.

His solution was the repeal of the Volstead act, asserting that the eighteenth amendment did not command the enactment of enabling legislation. Enabling legislation was within the wisdom of Congress, he declared, asserting that for the first century of the Republic Congress, in its wisdom, did not see fit to exercise the power given to it by the Constitution to regulate commerce.

"In other words," he explained, "the Constitution grants to Congress many powers, and states many objectives, but often leaves to the po-

POLICE JUDGES FEEL WRATH OF SUBCOMMITTEE

Receive Even MoreSevere Criticism Than Those of Higher Court.

PAY CUT THREATENED BY HOUSE MEMBERS

Municipal Justices Are Only Ones Praised by Finance Body.

TIME TABLE IS AGAIN FLASHED AT HEARING

Simmons Promises to Oppose Additions to Staff in Future.

Justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia were not the only ones who were subjected to censure from the subcommittee of the House appropriations committee, it was learned yesterday.

Police Court judges were criticized even more severely than those of the higher court, it was said.

In fact, it was learned, members of the committee believe the only court functioning in the District is the Municipal Court, and even threatened to cut the pay of the Police Court judges in order to raise that of the Municipal Court judges to a parity basis.

Judges Draw $8,000.

Judges on the Police Court bench now draw salaries of $8,000 a year, excepting the presiding judge, Gus A. Schuldt, whose salary is $500 additional. In Municipal Court all judges, except Judge Aukram, receive $6,000 a year. Judge Aukram, like Judge Schuldt and the chief justice of the District Supreme Court, receives $500 more per year than his associates on the bench.

There has been no criticism, it is understood, as to the manner in which the Juvenile Court functions. This, it is said, is due to the fact that the subcommittee apparently has centered its attention entirely on the courts where jury trials are provided. In fact, it is said, that the Juvenile Court has not even been given consideration by the subcommittee.

This view was given credence yesterday when Acting Chief Justice Wendell P. Stafford, of the District Supreme Court, issued a statement in which he declared that the subcommittee had made no criticism of his work and that of Associate Justice Alfred A. Wheat. "Both Justice Wheat and myself are in Equity Courts," said Justice Stafford, "and the members of the subcommittee, who are lawyers, appreciate that a judge of an equity court must spend more time off the bench than on it."

Time-table Flashed.

The subcommittee, at a meeting Tuesday, flashed a time-table on the justice of the District Supreme Court showing that for an entire week the average time spent on the bench by the justices checked on was three hours.

Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, told Acting Chief Justice Stafford and Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons last Tuesday, that he personally would oppose any additional judges until the present judges do more work. This statement followed one by Justice Siddons and Clerk Frank E. Cunningham to the effect that more justices were necessary.

Yesterday was a bad day to attempt any check of the time spent on the bench by the justices, since in most courts it was motions day. The subcommittee, according to a transcript of the proceedings last Tuesday, insist that the judges sit five hours a day on the bench.

The District Supreme Court, it was learned yesterday, is not the only

U. S.-BRITISH ACCORD IS ATTACKED BY HALE; FRENCH IRE ROUSED

British Statement Added to America's Covers Same Parity View.

Tardieu, Angry, Scouts Idea That "Leak" Fear Prodded Stimson.

ITALIANS ARE JOYFUL, SCENTING PRECEDENT

"Ratios Leading to Parity" Indorsed Now by Both Leaders, They Claim.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Great Britain put before the London Naval Conference today, in a statement issued this afternoon by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, an outline of her aims and plans for naval limitation which shows them to be in almost complete accord with those of the United States. Issuance of this statement confirms the inference that Secretary of State Stimson's pronouncement last night signalized Anglo-American agreement.

When the British statement appeared, the French delegation was already in a ferment over the circumstances surrounding publication of the American communication yesterday. The French feel that the initiative in the conference has been rudely torn out of their hands, that Stimson's statement should not have been issued without prior notification to them.

The British memorandum, in fact, is of little importance at present. It was written ten days ago, revised by MacDonald at Chequers last Sunday, submitted to the Dominions Tuesday, discussed by them Wednesday and approved with reservations from Australia and the Irish Free State.

Identical Aims Revealed.

But the choice of today for its publication shows the identity of aims between Great Britain and America, for on going through it point by point an American naval authority was able to discover only one item which he said the United States would dispute. This was the proposal to form a special category of small cruisers and limit them, and when the attention of the British was called to this tonight it was replied that this point had already been dropped in a subcommitee before the out-of-date memorandum appeared.

American naval advisers also object to the British suggestion that the aircraft carrier tonnage of each country be reduced from 135,000 to 100,000.

The British memorandum appears to place Great Britain in the position of arguing for an agreement to build smaller battleships, which the United States is understood to oppose. But the language of the British statement is designedly vague, asking only for "an exchange of views during this conference."

No Battleship Abolition.

It is understood that Great Britain would not herself attempt to insist on the size of future battleships being determined before the projected 1935 conference. It is Japan who is insisting on this. Great Britain at

SENATOR FREDERICK HALE.

Finish Fight in Senate Is Vowed by Leader of Big Navy Group.

POLICY ON CRUISERS CENTER OF ASSAULT

Naval Affairs Chairman Calls It Neglectful of U. S. Needs.

WHITE HOUSE CIRCLE SHOWS SATISFACTION

First Hurdle of Conference Past, Is Belief There; U. S. Victory Seen.

Administration gratification over Prime Minister MacDonald's acceptance of the American naval proposals covering all classes of ships, including cruisers, is diluted by big Navy objections, voiced today by Senator Hale (Republican), of Maine, chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, and by dissatisfaction among those like Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, who wanted reduction instead of expansion.

A survey of Senate sentiment indicates, however, that the American plan, if and when written into treaty form, will be ratified. Hale, adhering to the old American policy now abandoned, objects to surrendering the right to build big cruisers in exchange for the privilege of building small ones, which he calls unsuitable for American needs.

He declared that the American offer, announced late yesterday by Secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation, and accepted by the British today, "manifestly does not provide for our American naval need."

Radical Changes Involved.

His statement said:

"The Stimson offer involves very radical changes in the position heretofore taken by the Navy Department and the United States Government that our further cruiser demands call for vessels of the maximum tonnage and armament allowed under the Washington treaty.

"If our policy has been the correct one in the past, and if nothing has occurred to change the wisdom of that policy, then the Stimson offer, which contemplates the building of at least 11 six-inch gun cruisers at an additional cost over the 15-cruiser program of at least $58,000,000, while giving us substantial parity in the types of ships allowed, manifestly does not provide for our American naval needs.

"Should a treaty be negotiated along the lines of the Stimson offer, or indeed should any treaty be negotiated, the whole matter will be fully threshed out on the floor of the Senate and its committees before final action is taken on ratification.

Still Hopes for Success.

"I realize fully the difficulties that confront the American delegation in London. I have hoped and still hope that an agreement may be reached that will give us the parity that our country demands and at the same time will recognize our American needs."

Differences exist in the Navy Department over the indispensability of the big cruiser. Admiral Pratt, one of the advisers of the American delegation to London, represents the school which thinks the smaller or 7,000-ton cruiser with 6-inch guns as suitable to American defensive needs as the big or 10,000-tonners with 8-inch guns. But Hale and the other school arguing that the best defense is in an offense, and that American ships would have to operate in foreign waters to protect American shipping in war time, want the bigger cruiser with its greater gun range and cruising radius, especially since the United States lacks naval bases

BRAZIL LEADER SHOT, FIVE KILLED IN RIOT

Vice President Wounded in Political Clash That Marks Campaign.

14 INJURED ARE LISTED

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 7 (A.P.). — Vice President Mello Vianna of Brazil was wounded three times and several persons were killed today in a political dispute arising from the presidential campaign in the state of Minas Geraes.

The vice president was shot in the neck and head, but his wounds were considered not serious. It was reported that five persons had been killed and fifteen wounded in the fight, which occurred at Montes Claros, where the vice president had just arrived to launch the presidential campaign of the Conservative candidate, Julio Prestes.

Minas Geraes is the stronghold of the opposition party, whose candidate is Getulio Vargas.

Rafael Fiery, the vice president's secretary, was reported to be among the dead, and Moacyr Dolabella, a well-known engineer and sportsman of Rio Janeiro, seriously wounded.

Conflicting reports about the place of the fight were received. One version said that the shooting broke out in a banquet hall after a violent political discussion. Another said that the vice president and his party had been attacked while passing in front of the home of the chief of the Aliancista party.

The wounded were rushed by special train to Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes.

Receiving news of the attack, President Washington Luis hastened from Petropolis, his summer capital, to Rio Janeiro for an immediate conference with members of the cabinet.

He conferred successively with all cabinet ministers, the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House, the chief justice and the attorney general.

Vianna Castello, minister of justice, announced what had been learned officially. He said the exact number of persons wounded was 14, of whom two were women.

Vice President Mello Vianna and others wounded will be brought to

Pecan Shell Flipped in Eye May Cost Athlete's Sight

Bandages to Be Removed Today and Georgetown University Senior Will Know Whether He Will See or Be Blinded for Life.

A tiny piece of a pecan shell, innocently flipped into his eye by a schoolmate, may cost Harold P. Meenan, 21-year-old senior and athlete of Georgetown University, his eyesight. Physicians are awaiting the removal of bandages from the injured organs this afternoon to determine whether the sight of the football and basket ball player will be permanently impaired.

The accident occurred in a dormitory room at the Hilltop Thursday afternoon. A friend tossed a piece of the nut shell toward Meenan in jest. It struck him in the eye, severely cutting it. He was hurried to the office of Dr. Michael S. Kennedy, attached to the medical staff at the university. Dr. Kennedy ordered an immediate operation and had the athlete moved to the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, where the operation, said to be of a very serious nature, was performed.

Daniel F. Meenan, well known New York resident of Park avenue, was notified of his son's injury and immediately sent Dr. Grove, prominent New York eye specialist, here to confer with Dr. Kennedy. It was deemed necessary by the physicians to keep the injured eyes in bandages for 48 hours.

While but one eye was injured by the nut shell, it is the opinion of the physicians that Meenan's sight either will be saved entirely or he will be permanently blinded.

Meenan, who resides at the Fairfax, 2100 Massachusetts avenue, is a member of a prominent New York family. His father is closely associated with the Democratic leaders of New York and is said to be a close friend of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Young Meenan has been a member of the varsity football and basket ball teams at Georgetown the last three years. Until this year he was a regular with the court team, but has been unable to devote as much time to the sport this year and has been a first string substitute. He played in a majority of the Georgetown football games last fall and was awarded his letter. He expects to graduate in June.

Senator Swanson, ranking Democratic member of naval affairs, however, seems disposed to look more favorably upon the bargain, and its provision for American dominance in the Western Atlantic and Eastern Pacific. Looking at the bargain as a whole, with parity in battleships, and American superiority in 8-inch gun cruisers, some of the big navyists feel that it is excellent from the big navy standpoint. They emphasize that by putting American cruiser tonnage at 327,000, it calls for a new building program, estimated by Senator Hale to consist of eleven 7,000-tonners, with 6-inch guns, costing, however, $85,000,000 more than present building programs.

Senator Hale appears to wonder whether a new cruiser bill requiring this big additional outlay can be engineered through. He had trouble enough passing the fifteen-cruiser bill, and hates to sacrifice a third of it now, as the American offer provides, without being assured that the substitute program for the eleven smaller ships can be passed.

Senator Borah and others who have hoped for reduction complain that the bargain calls for expansion, but the Idaho senator appears to feel that any bargain to halt the cruiser race is better than none, even if it means more American construction.

U. S. Victory Is Seen.

President Hoover, though making no official comment, and State Department officials from Acting Secretary Joseph P. Cotton down think the first great hurdle has been successfully surmounted, and that the agreement all down the line with the British, the first time the two greatest naval powers have found common ground covering all classes of ships, is a victory and vindication for the tactics and approach of the American delegation. The hand of Dwight Morrow is seen here in the accord, and in the method of arriving at it.

That President Hoover approves is self-evident, since he has been kept informed of each step, and saw the Stimson offer before it was announced. Also, it is obvious that British acceptance of it was assured before it was made public.

It represents a drastic reversal of American policy since Geneva. Then agreement was impossible because the British would not concede and the United States would not compromise its demand for unrestricted right to build big cruisers within set total tonnage limits. Now the United States has agreed to a modification which limits it to 327,000 tons, made up of not more than eighteen big cruisers, the rest to be in smaller ones. The British at the same time are to have 339,000 tons, made of not more than 15 big and 35 smaller cruisers. As Senator Hale pointed out, to attain the quota the United States simply substitutes a new building program calling for eleven more 6-inch-gun cruisers in place of five big 8-inch-gun cruisers authorized by the fifteen-cruiser bill. And he estimates that these eleven small ones will cost $58,000,000 more than the five big ones which are given up.

Arkadelphia, Ark., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—G. D. Rushing, Gurdon, Ark., jeweler, today faced a 15-year prison term for murder, committed because of a price cutting war with a business rival.

A jury found him guilty of second degree murder after hearing testimony that Rushing shot David Hodges as a climax of long ill feeling. The antagonism, it was testified, had its inception in business competition that involved efforts of each to undersell the other.

FRENCH IRE STIRRED OVER PARITY ACCORD

ITALIANS ARE OVERJOYED

present is standing between the Japanese and American views.

No importance is attached to the British "wish to seek an agreement by which battleships will in time disappear altogether." This is regarded as intended for home consumption. It can be said on authority that Great Britain will not bring forward battleship abolition at the London naval conference.

Reticence was maintained today both at the American headquarters at the Ritz Hotel and at Grosvenor House, Japanese headquarters, on yesterday's American "suggestion" to Japan on battleship cuts and submarine reduction, but some facts were elicited tonight from the Japanese. Since the Japanese minister of marine and the country's leading naval experts are here in London, Tokyo has asked its delegation to decide itself on the admissibility of American ideas and then to pass the delegation's view on to Tokyo for final decision.

Maneuvers Are Cited.

It was also stated in reply to a question as to American views on submarine limitation that the Japanese figure of 78,000 tons, already put forward, is to be regarded as the absolute minimum, and on the cruiser topic a significant remark was dropped by a Japanese naval expert: During naval maneuvers in Japanese waters, he said, an "invading" fleet had been adjudged victorious when it attacked with a force of 10 to 7 in cruisers, but a fleet otherwise identical was pronounced beaten when it had force of only 5 to 3.

The apparent explanation of yesterday's issuance of Stimson's statement is that the American Secretary of State's hand was forced by a leakage of some sort, the exact character of which is not entirely clear. Whatever it may have been, it appears to have aroused fears in the American delegation that the glat of the American announcement was about to be published prematurely in quarters hostile to the conference. In this connection it is recalled that Stimson came to St. James' Palace on a surprise visit, dressed in evening clothes, on his way to a dinner engagement, to make his statement to the press.

The French angrily declare that the reported "leakage" was a pretext rather than a reason for sudden issuance of the American statement.

Tardieu Wrathy in Talk.

This is reported to be the attitude assumed by Premier Andre Tardieu in a stormy interview with Mr. MacDonald at No. 10 Downing street. This wrathful trip to the British premier's residence, reported to have been marked by bursts of fury, was made last night. Mr. MacDonald is understood to have told Mr. Tardieu that Mr. Stimson's hand had been forced by a "purloined document."

All these incidents may belong to legend, but Mr. Tardieu himself confirmed before leaving London for Paris today his sense of injury and grievance.

American acceptance of the French transfer principle pleases the French delegation, but this is a small silver lining to the dark cloud. The French speak of Anglo-Saxon hypocrisy in Mr. Stimson's statement pretending to be "suggestions" whereas it is obviously the result of an agreement. They say the accord has been in existence all the time, although denied.

Italians Are Joyous.

Practical French objections seemed boiled down to (1) that they are now forced to give their own figures, which they say will be done Monday or Tuesday when M. Tardieu returns from Paris. (2) That initiative at the conference has been rudely torn out of their hands by the action taken without giving them any hint of it although they had been promised by the Americans that they would be consulted at every turn.

The expression of joy at Italian headquarters was almost lyrical. Their raptures and praises of Mr. Stimson will fill the Fascist press tomorrow from correspondents here. For the Italians say that the United States has now persuaded Great Britain to accept the whole Italian program of "ratios leading to parity." After this, an Italian spokesman asked tonight, how can the United States deny to Italy what she has demanded and obtained from Great Britain and how can she object to Italian methods when these are the same as the United States has adopted? Italy, it was hinted, will accept in all classes of warships a 1.75 ratio with Great Britain and America provided France does the same—which France will not.

Japanese Remark Puzzles.

An incident of possible future significance occurred today in a meeting of the subcommittee debating limitation of total tonnage or by categories. The essential unimportance of this subject which filled the press for days was shown when France and Britain accepted a compromise on phraseology. The golden formula that brought them together was that figures in categories should be set down in tables "as agreed among themselves" instead of the British formula "on an agreed basis."

But when an attempt was made to agree that "oceanic powers" should put their cruiser tonnage in one table and the "continental powers" their tonnage in another, thus foreshadowing possible division of transfers into two classes, a Japanese expert quickly remarked that for the present and provisionally Japan would perhaps regard herself as a continental rather than an oceanic power.

The subcommittee adjourned and the experts are now wondering what the Japanese meant by this. A Japanese spokesman, when asked tonight, blandly smiled and said he didn't know either.

"Leakage" Story Widespread.

That Mr. Stimson's hand was forced by a "leakage" of some sort into issuing his statement prematurely last night was the story told everywhere today. It has some basis, but some of the yarns current are fantastic. Stimson hurried from the Ritz to Downing street yesterday afternoon to ask Mr. MacDonald's views on publication in view of alarm in the American delegation over the possibility of a "leak." Mr. Tardieu, when he appeared at the British premier's residence a few hours later to protest to Mr. MacDonald certainly got the impression that the prime minister believed unauthorized publication in quarters hostile to the conference of the American-British terms was imminent.

British Naval Cut Policy Announced by MacDonald

London, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The officially declared policy of the British government for the London conference as agreed to by the British dominions and the government of the United Kingdom was issued by Prime Minister MacDonald today. The text of the statement follows:

His majesty's government in the United Kingdom considers the naval conference of supreme importance. It believes the conference ought not only to reduce existing fleets and building programs, but put an end finally to competition in naval armaments and thus constitute an important step toward the ultimate elimination of the causes of war and toward establishment of peace on an unassailable foundation.

The policy of his majesty's government in the United Kingdom is to keep the highway of the seas open for trade and communication and, in relation to the political state of the world, to take what steps are necessary to secure this. In estimating its naval needs, the government has also to take into account its obligations under the covenant of the League of Nations; partly offset though they are by the security afforded under the covenant by its provision of mutual support.

There are also other commitments which have to be fulfilled in relation to the present state of the world. In deciding what these commitments amount to in terms of naval strength, the Government has to estimate the chances of war breaking out, because, unless this is done, fleets will be built which will never be of any use; will threaten rather than protect, and will at best be a waste of national resource.

The Government feels that if naval establishments are not to be a menace, an equilibrium must be maintained between them by means of international agreement. It feels, moreover, that this equilibrium will not be secured by mere numerical equality in ships and tonnage, but only by adoption of agreed programs based on considerations of requirements affecting dispersions, &c., and in which the menace will be reduced as much as possible.

This can not be done by any general formula or ratio. It must be the subject of conferences such as this and of agreements made for periods at the end of which they should be reviewed, and during which governments should be engaged in strengthening the foundations of peace.

It is, therefore, proposed that the general agreement resulting from this conference should run until 1936 and that in 1935 a further conference should be called to review the situation in relation to world relations.

In view of these considerations, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom suggests the following proposals for the conference:

The agreement should be not upon global tonnage, but upon the size of individual ships in the various categories and upon the tonnage used by each nation in each of these categories.

The categories should be capital ships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

An agreement by categories is necessary in order to obtain elimination of competitive building and the maintenance of equilibrium between fleet and fleet. These two points are essential if security is to be obtained. It is not only the total tonnage of a fleet which counts, but the use to which these tons are put, and an agreement on the latter point is called for.

At some time it might be convenient to allow a percentage of tonnage assigned to different categories to be transferred to other categories. The British government, however, does not favor a general transfer. It is opposed to transfer in regard to capital ships, aircraft and submarines. In regard to cruisers, it would permit the transfer out of the 8-inch class into the 6-inch class on a percentage which remains to be arranged. The object of this arrangement would be to take into account the special needs of countries which require a large proportion of small cruisers.

The Government proposes that the number of capital ships for each signatory as fixed by the Washington treaty should be reached within eighteen months of ratification of the treaty resulting from this conference instead of by 1936. It proposes that no replacement of existing ships should take place before the next conference in 1935 and that in the meantime the whole question of capital ships should be the subject of negotiation between the powers concerned.

The Government will press for reduction though, of course, without disturbing the Washington equilibrium. Its experts favor a reduction from 35,000 tons to 25,000 tons, and of guns from 16 inches to 12 inches. The Government also favors a lengthening of age from 20 to 26 years.

The government hopes that there will be an exchange of views on this subject during the conference; indeed, it would wish to see an agreement by which battleships will in due time disappear altogether, as it considers them a very doubtful proposition in view of their size and cost and of the development of efficacy of air and submarine attack.

The government would further limit the tonnage and gun caliber of aircraft carriers and suggests that ships of 10,000 tons and under should be included in the total tonnage of this category if used as aircraft carriers.

It proposes a reduction of total aircraft tonnage for the British and United States navies from 135,000 tons under the Washington treaty to (say) 100,000 tons and an adjustment of that assigned to other nations in the Washington treaties ratios. It further proposes that the maximum size of aircraft carriers should be reduced to 25,000 tons and that their age should be 26 years instead of 20.

It was assumed during the recent conversation between the governments of the United States and Great Britain that cruisers should be grouped in one category which, in turn, should be divided into cruisers carrying 8-inch guns and cruisers carrying 6-inch guns and under. It was also assumed during the negotiations that the requirements of the British Commonwealth would consist of a total tonnage of 339,000 tons divided into 50 cruisers.

A final arrangement will be governed by the decision of the conference regarding limitation in the size of units. The British government proposes that the tonnage limit of 8-inch cruisers should remain at 10,000 tons as provided for in the Washington treaty and that there should be a tonnage limit for smaller vessels at about 6,000 or 7,000 tons. It suggests that only a fixed proportion in the latter class should be built up to that limit and that the life of cruisers should be twenty years.

In regard to destroyers it is proposed that the limit assigned should be, for leaders, 1,850 tons, and for destroyers, 1,500 tons. The maximum size of guns for both classes of destroyers should be 5 inches. The present British building program of destroyers is for 2,000 tons ultimately, but this can be reduced if the submarine programs of other powers are reduced, for it is obvious that the size and total tonnage of destroyers must largely depend upon the size and total tonnage of submarines.

The government proposes the abolition of submarines. Its experts feel that the argument that the submarine is an arm solely of defense was destroyed by the experience of the late war and that in war conditions it is an arm of attack. If abolition can not be agreed upon, the British government will put forward proposals limiting submarines rigidly to defense requirements.

In any case, it will press for limitation of the submarine to the lowest possible limit, and it proposes to urge revival of the agreement, signed at Washington in 1922 but not ratified by the signatory powers, which would regulate in the interests of humanity the use of submarines against merchant ships.

In regard to auxiliary vessels not strictly entering into fleet strength the government proposes that they should be specified and that each government should publish yearly lists of vessels of this class in commission and laid down.

HEALTH WORKER IS STRICKEN BY CASE OF PARROT DISEASE

of the dead parrots and a certain number of them have shown some signs of illness. All, however, are recovering.

"More than 200 cultures, health officials reported today, have been obtained from the dead and experimental birds, but thus far no organism has been obtained which has proven to be the specific cause of the disease.

"Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State health commissioner of Virginia, today advised the United States Public Health Service that a case of suspected psittacosis is in the Buxton Hospital at Newport News, Va., and requested that an officer of the Public Health Service be sent to that place for consultation with the State and local physicians for the purpose of confirming the diagnosis.

Badger Is Due Today.

"The patient is reported to have been associated with a pet shop. Assistant Surgeon L. F. Badger is leaving Washington tonight and will arrive at Newport News tomorrow morning for the purpose mentioned."

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. William Royal Stokes, official of the city health department, suffering from what had been diagnosed as psittacosis, is in a critical condition, and the efficacy of a serum for the parrot fever, made by health authorities and given the physician last night, still is in doubt.

Dr. Stokes early today was reported improved, but later suffered a relapse which Dr. C. Hampson Jones, city health commissioner, at first said would prove fatal. However, the stricken man rallied and tonight was reported in a critical condition, but in no danger of immediate death.

Woman's Condition Serious.

The serum was manufactured by health department authorities from blood taken from victims of the strange malady, which was believed by them to have become immunized.

Mrs. Maud Alders, a woman admitted to a hospital late today suffering from what at first was reported to be psittacosis, also is in a serious condition. Definite diagnosis of her illness as that of the parrot fever has not been made by health authorities.

Dr. Daniels Hatfield, chief of the bureau of communicable diseases of the health department, who, like Dr. Stokes, is believed to have contracted the tropical disease while handling parrots believed infected, was reported much improved today.

COALITION HAS EDGE IN STORMY SESSION

Rate-Cutting Score Is Three to Two in Fevered Senate Wrangle.

CURTIS BUSY WITH GAVEL

(Associated Press.)

In one of the stormiest scenes yet witnessed in the long tariff struggle, leaders of the Republican and Democratic-Republican independent coalition fought over in the Senate yesterday the right of the opposition coalition to slash existing import levies.

With nerves on edge from the long months of wrangling, Republicans made a determined stand against further attempts by the coalition senators to cut present rates on which no testimony had been taken in committees.

Leaders of the Democrats and Western Republicans retorted with equal vehemence against what they termed the writing of tariff bills in secret.

At times two or three senators were shouting at once. Vice President Curtis was kept busy pounding the gavel.

Out of it all came a score of 3 to 2 on rate changes in favor of the coalitionists. They succeeded in cutting the duty on red lead, used in the manufacture of preservative paints, from 2½ to 2¼ cents a pound; in cutting the duty on litharge, a lead pigment used in glass and pottery manufacture, from 2½ to 2½ cents, and in reducing the levy on carbon black from 20 to 15 per cent ad valorem. One was decided by only one vote and another by two.

Republicans rallied their forces, however, and defeated, 38 to 37, an attempt to reduce the rate on white lead, used for exterior paint-making, from 2½ to 2 cents a pound. By 39 to 37 they also rejected an amendment to slash from 30 to 25 per cent the existing tariff on all lead pigments not specially provided for in the bill.

Hall-Mills "Pig Woman" Dies; All Money Gone

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 7 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Jane Gibson, the "pig woman" of the Hall-Mills murder case, an obscure person whom a succession of chances made a nationally known figure, died of cancer at noon today in the Jersey City Hospital. Late tonight her body still lay in the hospital morgue, and her relatives were worrying about where the money was coming from to bury her.

It had been just a little over four years since she had her great moment, when from a stretcher in the courtroom at Somerville, N. J., she dramatically accused Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her two brothers and her cousin, of the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills. Mrs. Hall is herself ill of cancer in a hospital in New York.

fall in the fourth attempt after he had taken the case to the United States Supreme Court. The murderer was Robert Percy Lofton, of Mongolia, Miss.

Mr. Young, who was practicing law at the time, was admitted to the Supreme Court only three days before he filed the brief in the appeal. By use of long distance telephone, air mail and telegraph, he was able to obtain three reprieves for Lofton. The man was hanged on December 1, 1928, after the Supreme Court had upheld the sentence.

Prior to this affair Mr. Young was secretary to Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, for some time.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN TAFT'S CONDITION

Jurist Not Out of Danger, However; Arrival of His Brother Cheers Him.

VISITORS BECOME FEWER

(Associated Press.)

Further improvement in the condition of William Howard Taft was noted last night by his physicians, Drs. Francis Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor.

In a bulletin issued at 7 p. m., they said the former Chief Justice and President had "a very comfortable day and is showing some improvement," but Dr. Hagner warned against placing too optimistic a construction on the progress made during the last two days by his patient.

While remarking informally that "it beginsto look as though he might get up and about again," Dr. Hagner said the ailment was extremely serious. Ability to take more nourishment and rest have brought the condition of Mr. Taft to a better stage than at any time since he arrived home four days ago from Asheville, N. C., it was pointed out, though the improvement was considered essentially comparative.

The celebrated jurist was able yesterday to recognize and talk for a few moments with his brother, Horace D. Taft, who arrived from Watertown, Conn., and several times called for his wife. These intervals during which he was able to recognize those about him were still rare, however, and after a few disjointed sentences he always lapsed quickly back into the state of semiconsciousness that has held him most of the time since he arrived home.

Slump Startles Cotton Exchange

Futures Tumble From $3 to $3.50 a Bale to Season's Low.

New York, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Near demoralization reigned on the New York Cotton Exchange today as the price of cotton futures tumbled $3 to $3.50 a bale, sinking to the lowest levels of the season. Since mid-January, when the present depression period began, cotton has declined about $12 a bale.

There was a slight show of stability at the start of the market today, attributed to steady foreign markets, but it did not last long.

There were no new bearish developments to account for the outburst of selling, and the prevailing impression was that the market was feeling the effects of factors which had been apparent since last fall, but which had not dislodged any great quantities of cotton, as holders evidently felt that the market would be sustained by the Federal Farm Board. Cotton for March delivery sold down to 15.05 cents a pound, compared with 15.85 cents yesterday, while the July price dropped to 15.53 cents a pound, as against yesterday's final quotation of 16.05 cents.

Chinese Seized in Raid Are Held to Grand Jury

Lee Gong and Lee Wem Hing, Chinese, who were arrested by customs inspectors and narcotic agents on January 15 at 318 Pennsylvania avenue northwest in connection with seizure of opium said to be worth $4,000 were given a hearing yesterday before Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and ordered held for action of the grand jury under $10,000 bonds.

The two Chinese, according to testimony given at the hearing, were arrested on information furnished to the narcotic agents and customs officials by Lee King, a Chinese informer, who was killed early in the fall. King was shot in an automobile and his body tossed into the street. Assistant United States Attorney Renah F. Camalier represented the Government, while Attorney E. Russel Kelly appeared for the Chinese.

Athens, Ga., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The University of Georgia administration officials said today they would not permit girl students to smoke in university buildings, although members of the Woman's Student Council yesterday adopted a resolution seeking an amendment to council rules against smoking. The amendment was passed and presented to university officials.

It was said about 50 of the 450 women students enrolled attended the meeting where the action was taken. The vote was 30 to 16 for the change. The dean of women has said many of the girl students have informed her they are opposed to girls smoking in the university building or anywhere else.

HOOVER NAMES FIVE FOR STUDY OF HAITI

W. C. Forbes Is Chairman; Marines' Withdrawal to Be Considered.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover took another step toward development of a new policy in the Caribbean yesterday by appointing a commission to study the question of when and how the United States should withdraw from participation in the affairs of Haiti.

W. Cameron Forbes, of Massachusetts, former Governor General of the Philippines, was named chairman of the commission. Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, former Ambassador to Rome and widely experienced in Latin-American affairs, was named as the second member of the group.

Other members are Elie Vezina, of Rhode Island, a student of Haitian affairs; James Kerney, editor of the Trenton, N. J., Times; and William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kans., Gazette. The commission will leave for Haiti late this month.

President Hoover also announced that he has requested Dr. R. E. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute, to study the educational system of Haiti with a view to recommendations for the future.

It is a possibility, the President said, that a member of the Senate and a member of the House may be added to the commission. He remarked that at present, however, congressional branches are disinclined to be represented in the investigation.

The treaty under which the United States maintains a force of Marines in Haiti expires in 1936. It is the hope of President Hoover that the commission will find some means whereby the United States may safely withdraw the Marines, but at the same time assure a stable government for the island.

Auto Crash Fatal To State Senators

Member of South Carolina House Also Hurt in Orangeburg Wreck.

Orangeburg, S. C., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Two South Carolina State senators, W. Claude Martin, of Orangeburg, and William S. Legare, of Charleston, were fatally injured late today in an automobile collision near here. A third legislator, Representative J. Rutledge Smith, jr., of Charleston, was seriously injured. Senator Martin was dead when residents of the Village of Wolfton, between Orangeburg and North, where the wreck occurred, reached his body. Senator Legare died in a hospital here tonight. The condition of Representative Smith was considered serious.

The legislators were returning to their homes for the week-end recess when the car in which they were riding collided with another machine. As far as could be learned here the occupants of the other car were not injured.

Senator Martin and Senator Legare were the second and third members of the General Assembly to figure in automobile accidents during the present session. Representative Tracey E. Fore, of Dillon County, was fatally injured a week ago while returning to his home for the regular week-end recess.

His bond of $100,000 was continued. Unable to raise the sum, Poggione has been in the county jail since his arrest.

RACIAL ISSUE RAISED IN SENATE DEBATE

RELIGION IS DISCUSSED

(Associated Press.)

After two hours of debate on religious and racial differences, the Senate yesterday agreed to appoint a committee of three to examine a letter by Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, on the question of intermarriage of whites and negroes in New York City, which he had placed in the Congressional Record.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, demanded that the letter be expunged from the record because of its references to New York State and city authorities, contending it was "offensive to the people of my State."

Senator Heflin objected and spoke for an hour, repeating his words in the letter and complaining against what he called "the Roman-Tammany regime of New York State and city." Finally, Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, suggested that Senators Heflin and Copeland agree to the appointment of a committee by Vice President Curtis to examine whether the letter violated Senate rules.

Everybody concurred and the Vice President left the appointment of the committee until today, with Senators Heflin and Copeland conferring meanwhile on the names of the committee.

"Nobody in my State desires intermarriage," said Senator Copeland. "The men in control of government in my State are men of the highest character."

Senator Heflin deplored intermarriage of the white and black races and condemned the Catholic Church for permitting whites and negroes to attend the same institution. He demanded that his letter be read. Mr. Copeland objected. But on a viva voce vote, the Senate decided to hear the letter.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, protested against attacks on churches, and asserted that Northern institutions all received negroes and whites on a basis of equality.

"Are we to close the doors of the church of God to those few colored people who came to the North," he asked. "God banished religious rivalry and jealousy from this land of ours. The sooner we forget these prejudices and hates, the happier this land will be."

The Heflin letter was written to Sam H. Reading, of Philadelphia, in response to a letter from Reading calling attention to the recent marriage of Phil Edwards, negro captain of the New York University track team, to a white girl.

The train was said to have been running about 40 miles an hour. Passengers were picked up by the Twentieth Century Limited.

COUPLE LEAVES ON TRIP

Passaic, N. J., Feb. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Rev. Louis J. Jeckert, curate of Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, of Passaic, has renounced holy orders for matrimony, it became known today. He handed in his resignation to the Rev. Edward F. Schulte, pastor of the church, last Saturday, and on Monday married Miss Theresa Marie Miller, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, of Clifton.

Father Jeckert, 33, is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth McClintock, of Nutley. His only sister is a nun in a New York convent and is known as Sister M. Grace Louise. Reared in a Catholic home, the boy early chose the priesthood as a vocation. He attended St. Benedict's Preparatory School in Newark, and in 1919 was graduated from Seton Hall College, East Orange. On May 25, 1923, he was ordained from Holy Trinity School and the next day he celebrated his first mass in Holy Trinity Church, where he had been assigned.

When his resignation came last Saturday, he gave no reason in his letter to the pastor. Monday morning he appeared with Miss Miller, a telephone operator, before the city clerk of Suffern, N. Y., and took out a license. In the application he gave his occupation as a clerk. With the couple were the bride's parents, who, because of the girl's age, had to give their consent. Later in the day, Mrs. Hugo Sauer and her daughter, both of Clifton, acted as witnesses to the ceremony which was performed by Justice of the Peace N. A. Hallett, of Suffern. They left immediately after on a honeymoon trip.

According to friends, the girl received an engagement ring Christmas Day. She told her friends at the time that she was engaged, but refused to say to whom. In a letter to a friend, an attorney in Passaic, the priest wrote:

"I suppose it's all up with our friendship, after you find out what I've done. I feel that while there is life there is hope. I can't bear to live a life which is absolutely not, and I know never was, my vocation."

'Affinity' Earle Pictures Love-Flight With Dancer

No Quarrel, Just Friendly Argument, Artist Says in Deposition.

Los Angeles, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Reading of the first of three depositions made by Ferdinand P. "Affinity" Earle, artist, denying charges of breach of prenuptial contract in a $30,000 damage suit brought against him by Dolores Salazar, Spanish dancer, was begun in Superior Court today.

Regarding their alleged love affair, Earle said, "She (Miss Salazar) fell into my lap like a ripe peach." Shortly afterward, reading of the deposition was halted and the jury excused to permit the lawyers an opportunity to peruse the remaining statements.

Earle, who is in Paris, is accused by the 24-year-old dancer of marrying her in a mock ceremony and promising to place $15,000 in trust for her. She claimed she never received the money.

Earle deposed that he first met Miss Salazar at Hollywood in April, 1926. He said he did not see her again until she called him by telephone of her own volition the following December.

Thereafter, he said, she came to his home almost daily. When he moved to Juarez, Mexico, he said, she followed him in February, 1927. They went to Mexico City, he said, and during dinner in a cafe, she created a "rumpus" and he slapped her.

Several days later the deposition read, they sailed from Vera Cruz for St. Nazaire, France, arriving in April, 1927. They spent a week touring France. On their return to Paris, they separated.

DOLORES SALAZAR.

"There was no quarrel, just a friendly argument interrupted by the realization by both of us that she had a rendezvous with an aunt," Miss Salazar, Earle said, did not return to the hotel that night. He said he pledged with her, but she remained adamant.

The next he heard from Miss Salazar, Earle deposed, was a letter written from Los Angeles. In it she asked him to return her clothes.

BECK WARNS REPUBLICANS TO THROW OFF DRY YOKE

Volstead Act Repeal Seen.

When the American people wake up to the fact that the eighteenth amendment does not command enabling legislation, Mr. Beck declared, he believed men would be sent to Congress, in the light of conditions under prohibition, to repeal the Volstead act.

The straight-away thing to do, he admitted, would be to repeal the eighteenth amendment, but he said this presented insuperable obstacles.

Replying to Mr. Fort's proposal that the drys be permitted to keep their law and the wets their home brew, Mr. Beck declared the breakdown of the home was one of the worst results of prohibition.

Foreign Countries Cited.

Accepting for the purpose of argument, too, Mr. Fort's contention that prohibition has been a great economic advantage to the country—although Mr. Beck doubted this inasmuch as "Germany, France and England, three of the most efficient industrial states in the world," have been able to do without prohibition, but assuming it to be true, "the American people, and especially those who labor with their hands, are not disposed to sell their ancent birthright for such a mess of pottage."

Prohibition's greatest wrong, he declared, is that it has broken down the moral fiber of the people and made them a nation of hypocrites. It has made mere police provinces of the States. He disagreed with Mr. Fort that ours are a lawless people. Indeed, they have shown commendable patience under the prohibition tyranny, Mr. Beck declared.

Asserting that the most despotic of all nations, Russia, had not been able to enforce prohibition, Mr. Beck declared:

Law Must Be Justified.

"A law, to be enforced, must find its justification in the conscience of the American people."

Asserting that the fanatical dry leaders hailed the Wickersham report with great glee, Mr. Beck said that if they realized the real significance of its "pointed allusions to the ancient traditions and experiences of the English speaking race and their application to the present situation," they would have rent their garments, sat themselves down in sackcloth and ashes, or possibly have had resort to the wine which on high scriptural authority 'gladdens the troubled heart of man.'"

Incidentally, Mr. Beck, former solicitor general and a constitutional authority, intimated that he would oppose the commission's recommendation to enlarge the powers of United States commissioners to eliminate jury trials.

Representative Loring Black, Democrat, of New York, suggested later that Mr. Beck would probably be "excommunicated by the party high command because of his speech. Mr. Beck had previously stated that he had received a letter from a constituent saying that if he made the speech he would be defeated the next time he ran, but Mr. Beck must not have taken that seriously.

General Enforcement Debate.

Mr. Beck's speech was made during the general debate on the bill to concentrate prohibition enforcement in the Department of Justice. A vote will probably come today, but there is a question as to what will finally be done about issuance of alcohol permits. Some House members want the Treasury to have full charge, others want the Treasury and Attorney General to prepare regulations jointly and still others want the Attorney General to have the full responsibility for the regulations, although alcohol supervision would remain under the Treasury.

In the meantime, there are indications that a modification of the Jones law may be recommended by the House judiciary committee, which is considering the bill to broaden the powers of United States commissioners.

Dean Pound, of Harvard Law School, admitted that the National Law Enforcement Commission, in recommending that district attorneys be given authority to proceed against a violator charged with either a misdemeanor or a felony, after he has demanded a jury trial, sought to follow the lines of the Jones law. He said this law now gives the district attorneys this discretionary power. In fact, Representative Stobbs, of Massachusetts, member of the committee, introduced a bill defining casual offenders and limiting their penalties to a $500 fine or six months imprisonment.

SUBCOMMITTEE CRITICIZES POLICE JUDGES' OPERATIONS

court on which the subcommittee has made a check. Similar investigations were made in both the Police and Municipal Courts. The story of the Police Court investigation was revealed exclusively in The Post the day before a similar story was carried regarding the probe of the District Supreme Court.

Judge Schuldt, of Police Court, and Judge Aukam, of Municipal Court, were both called before the subcommittee.

Judge Schuldt, it is said, was confronted with a time table showing the hours he and his associates worked during the period of the week investigated. The subcommittee is said to have considered this entirely too short a time for a judge of a Police Court to work. Figures as to the number of hours were not available.

Judge Aukam, however, it is understood, was highly praised by the committee for the manner in which he and his associates have kept up with their work. There was no criticism.

The subcommittee is understood to have told Judge Schuldt that there would be no more judges and no more pay for the present judges of the Police Court until more work was done. This was the same threat made in connection with the District Supreme Court.

Stafford Makes Statement.

In connection with the story published in yesterday's Post, Justice Stafford said:

"There was no criticism of Justice Wheat and myself, who preside over Equity tribunals," the senior Justice said. "The chairman of that committee is a lawyer and realizes that the bulk of the work in Equity trials must be handled in private session.

"Consultations with lawyers, reviewing of briefs and research consume many more hours than are actually spent on the bench.

"But I feel that the tabulators show an unfortunate week for the Criminal Court justices. In the instance of Justice Hitz, who was shown by the time table to have been on the bench less than eight hours during the week selected, I know to have been greatly hampered by the illness of one of the jurors.

"In criminal cases there are many factors that hinder the even dispatch of the trials on the dockets. Many times the district attorney's office will painstakingly round up a large number of witnesses for pending trials and the defendant will plead guilty, setting their work at naught.

"Unforeseen exigencies often arise in criminal actions which make some missing witness a vital hinge. More time is lost while he is being secured.

"I know from acquaintance with the fact," the justice concluded, "that the week chosen for the check-up was sorely beset by just such difficulties as I have enumerated. No fair average of daily time spent on the bench by the Criminal Court justices could have been computed from those figures."

Asks to Check Out.

Justice Jennings Bailey, when he adjourned his branch of the District Supreme Court—Circuit No. 2—stopped by the press room yesterday and inquired of reporters if he should check out. It was then 11:15.

Justice Stafford did not resume sessions of his court—Equity No. 1—after the noon recess.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, in Circuit No. 1 got in a full five hours with three minutes to spare, quitting at 3:45 after mounting the bench at 10 o'clock and taking a brief time out for lunch.

Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in Equity No. 2 put in more than his five hours, holding court until after 4:30.

Justice Peyton Gordon, in Criminal No. 1, had a tough day hearing lunacy cases. He was on the bench early and quit at 3:15 only after all cases had been disposed of.

Justice Hitz in Criminal No. 2, likewise had a full day, going on the bench early and quitting only at 3:40 after all work was disposed of.

FLYNN AND HERBERT HAVE VERBAL CLASH

Accuser and Accused in Dry Row Meet Face to Face in Borah's Office.

SENATOR TO PUSH QUIZ

The accuser and the accused in Washington's latest prohibition imbroglio came face to face yesterday at the Capitol, and a sharp verbal exchange was the result.

Capt. Frank Flynn, Prohibition Bureau employe who is about to be dismissed was sitting in an anteroom at the office of Senator Borah, of Idaho, when Col. John F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator for the Montana-Idaho area, walked in.

Capt. Flynn previously had told Senator Borah things about Col. Herbert that led the senator to denounce Col. Herbert on the floor and which are responsible for the latter's being here now.

Flynn Walks Out.

The nature of the verbal clash between the two could not be ascertained but at any rate Capt. Flynn walked out, leaving Col. Herbert in possession of the anteroom. A little later he conferred with Senator Borah.

Senator Borah said afterward that he was going to make his own investigation of Flynn's charges against Col. Herbert.

tention of giving Capt. Frank S. Flynn an open or public hearing on the charges which has resulted in the bureau's recommendation to the department that he be dismissed from the service," Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced last night.

"Neither have we any intention of reopening the case. To grant Capt. Flynn a public hearing or trial would be contrary to civil service law. As far as the bureau is concerned, the matter is a closed incident.

Allowed Reasonable Time.

"As required by the civil service rules, we have given Capt. Flynn a reasonable length of time in which to answer the charges preferred against him.

"Capt. Flynn has not seen fit to offer a defense against those charges. He has merely demanded a public hearing—something which the law forbids in a case of his kind."

Informed that Capt. Flynn had made public a second letter in which he denied the four specifications as contained in the charges and again demanding an open hearing, Commissioner Doran added:

"Interesting, if true. However, I have not received a second letter from Capt. Flynn. I can't very well discuss it until I have seen it. It may be in the morning mail—then after reading it I may have nothing to add other than his dismissal has been recommended."

Contrary to reports, Col. Herbert has not been ordered by the bureau back to his official post of duty at Helena, Mont. "Col. Herbert is on leave and I was given to understand today that it is his intention of remaining in the city for several days to come," said Dr. Doran.

meeting in the Willard Hotel Monday night.

In the meantime, a direct campaign to obtain the $325,911.49 which was needed Thursday night when it was decided to continue the drive until Monday, will be made by radio, through the courtesy of Stations WRC, WMAL, WOL and WJSV, with a list of distinguished speakers making the appeals. Last night the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, spoke over WRC, being introduced by Newbold Noyes, chairman of the special gifts committee. Huston Thompson spoke over WOL; Clarence Aspinwall spoke over WJSV, and Radford Moses spoke over WMAL.

Tonight at 6:15 o'clock Bishop John W. McNamara will speak over WRC. At 7:15 Mrs. Sidney F. Tallaferro, vice chairman of the special gifts committee, will speak over WMAL, and this afternoon at 4:40 o'clock, Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, will speak over WMAL.

All churches in Washington have agreed to cooperate to the uttermost in the clean-up drive. Through the Rev. John O'Grady, director of Catholic Charities, arrangements have been made for another letter from his grace, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, urging all Catholics to increase subscriptions where possible, and, if they have not contributed, to give as much as they can to the chest. William Knowles Cooper has organized the Protestant churches of the city and all pastors of Washington will discuss the chest tomorrow. In addition to these talks and letters, pledge cards will be distributed at all the churches in order that any person who has not subscribed may have an opportunity to give.

Oscar Leonard and Maurice Maser are in charge of the program for the Jewish churches and all rabbis in the city preached last night on the subject of the chest.

RUM CRUSADE ENDS IN 250 INDICTMENTS

Alabama Federal County Grand Juries Climax Far-Reaching Campaign.

BUYER HELD IN BOSTON

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Completing one of the most far-reaching dry crusades since enactment of prohibition in Alabama, Federal and county grand juries today indicted 250 persons for violating or conspiring to violate the prohibition law and distilling. All those indicted reside in central Alabama, a majority in Montgomery County.

Federal marshals and deputy sheriffs immediately began serving capiases on persons named in the indictments and not already in custody. Pending their arrest, identity of the persons indicted was not disclosed.

The Federal grand jury, in indicting 232 persons for prohibition violations, climaxed a crusade inaugurated several months ago by District Attorney Grady Reynolds against objectionable places. His campaign resulted in a number of places here and in southeastern cities being padlocked and the special grand jury being organized to complete the investigation. Mr. Reynolds indicated other padlock orders would be sought.

In order to facilitate the Federal grand jury's work, it was understood at the Federal Building that books of telephone companies and automobile dealers were examined to trace ownership of telephones and motor cars used in the liquor traffic.

Thirty-three persons as conspirators were named in one of the Federal indictments, it became known. Although beyond the fact that the conspiracy involved violation of the prohibition law, nothing could be learned "pending arrests." It was stated, however, that in order to make the clean-up more effective persons who had even a remote connection with the principals in the handling of liquor were indicted as conspirators.

The Federal grand jury indicted 240 persons, 8 of the number being for miscellaneous offenses. The county grand jury indicted 18.

Conspiracy Trial Nears End.

Oklahoma City, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Fourteen of the seventeen remaining defendants in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial in Federal Court here tonight had rested their cases. The opening statement of counsel for Randall Pittman, county attorney, a defendant, also had been made, paving the way for testimony in Pittman's behalf tomorrow.

Two defendants, Frank Fox, former sheriff, and J. W. Motzenbacher, who is alleged to have dispensed liquor at a place in Earlsboro, will present their case after testimony is concluded in Pittman's behalf.

The government charged that the county attorney and Fox were the leaders in an alleged widespread liquor conspiracy in Pottawatomie County where the flow of oil created markets for an increased flow of whiskey and beer.

Bay State Rumrunner Indicted.

Boston, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The first indictments in Massachusetts for purchase of liquor for beverage purposes were returned today by the Federal grand jury. The indictments were regarded by Elihu D. Stone, assistant United States attorney, as a test case.

The indictments charged James Farrar, of Watertown, with purchase and transportation of two pints of liquor. Frank Rotondo, a Cambridge storekeeper, was also indicted for sale of the liquor.

and coaling stations in foreign waters.

Senator Swanson, ranking Democratic member of naval affairs, however, seems disposed to look more favorably upon the bargain, and its provision for American dominance in the Western Atlantic and Eastern Pacific. Looking at the bargain as a whole, with parity in battleships, and American superiority in 8-inch gun cruisers, some of the big navyists feel that it is excellent from the big navy standpoint. They emphasize that by putting American cruiser tonnage at 327,000, it calls for a new building program, estimated by Senator Hale to consist of eleven 7,000-tonners, with 6-inch guns, costing, however, $85,000,000 more than present building programs.

Senator Hale appears to wonder whether a new cruiser bill requiring this big additional outlay can be engineered through. He had trouble enough passing the fifteen-cruiser bill, and hates to sacrifice a third of it now, as the American offer provides, without being assured that the substitute program for the eleven smaller ships can be passed.

Senator Borah and others who have hoped for reduction complain that the bargain calls for expansion, but the Idaho senator appears to feel that any bargain to halt the cruiser race is better than none, even if it means more American construction.

U. S. Victory Is Seen.

President Hoover, though making no official comment, and State Department officials from Acting Secretary Joseph P. Cotton down think the first great hurdle has been successfully surmounted, and that the agreement all down the line with the British, the first time the two greatest naval powers have found common ground covering all classes of ships, is a victory and vindication for the tactics and approach of the American delegation. The hand of Dwight Morrow is seen here in the accord, and in the method of arriving at it.

That President Hoover approves is self-evident, since he has been kept informed of each step, and saw the Stimson offer before it was announced. Also, it is obvious that British acceptance of it was assured before it was made public.

It represents a drastic reversal of American policy since Geneva. Then agreement was impossible because the British would not concede and the United States would not compromise its demand for unrestricted right to build big cruisers within set total tonnage limits. Now the United States has agreed to a modification which limits it to 327,000 tons, made up of not more than eighteen big cruisers, the rest to be in smaller ones. The British at the same time are to have 339,000 tons, made of not more than 15 big and 35 smaller cruisers. As Senator Hale pointed out, to attain the quota the United States simply substitutes a new building program calling for eleven more 6-inch-gun cruisers in place of five big 8-inch-gun cruisers authorized by the fifteen-cruiser bill. And he estimates that these eleven small ones will cost $58,000,000 more than the five big ones which are given up.

FRENCH IRE STIRRED OVER PARITY ACCORD

present is standing between the Japanese and American views.

No importance is attached to the British "wish to seek an agreement by which battleships will in time disappear altogether." This is regarded as intended for home consumption. It can be said on authority that Great Britain will not bring forward battleship abolition at the London naval conference.

Reticence was maintained today both at the American headquarters at the Ritz Hotel and at Grosvenor House, Japanese headquarters, on yesterday's American "suggestion" to Japan on battleship cuts and submarine reduction, but some facts were elicited tonight from the Japanese. Since the Japanese minister of marine and the country's leading naval experts are here in London, Tokyo has asked its delegation to decide itself on the admissibility of American ideas and then to pass the delegation's view on to Tokyo for final decision.

Maneuvers Are Cited.

It was also stated in reply to a question as to American views on submarine limitation that the Japanese figure of 78,000 tons, already put forward, is to be regarded as the absolute minimum, and on the cruiser topic a significant remark was dropped by a Japanese naval expert: During naval maneuvers in Japanese waters, he said, an "invading" fleet had been adjudged victorious when it attacked with a force of 10 to 7 in cruisers, but a fleet otherwise identical was pronounced beaten when it had force of only 5 to 3.

The apparent explanation of yesterday's issuance of Stimson's statement is that the American Secretary of State's hand was forced by a leakage of some sort, the exact character of which is not entirely clear. Whatever it may have been, it appears to have aroused fears in the American delegation that the gist of the American announcement was about to be published prematurely in quarters hostile to the conference. In this connection it is recalled that Stimson came to St. James' Palace on a surprise visit, dressed in evening clothes, on his way to a dinner engagement, to make his statement to the press.

The French angrily declare that the reported "leakage" was a pretext rather than a reason for sudden issuance of the American statement.

Tardieu Wrathy in Talk.

This is reported to be the attitude assumed by Premier Andre Tardieu in a stormy interview with Mr. MacDonald at No. 10 Downing street. This wrathful trip to the British premier's residence, reported to have been marked by bursts of fury, was made last night. Mr. MacDonald is understood to have told Mr. Tardieu that Mr. Stimson's hand had been forced by a "purloined document."

All these incidents may belong to legend, but Mr. Tardieu himself confirmed before leaving London for Paris today his sense of injury and grievance.

American acceptance of the French transfer principle pleases the French delegation, but this is a small silver lining to the dark cloud. The French speak of Anglo-Saxon hypocrisy in Mr. Stimson's statement pretending to be "suggestions" whereas it is obviously the result of an agreement. They say the accord has been in existence all the time, although denied.

Italians Are Joyous.

Practical French objections seemed boiled down to (1) that they are now forced to give their own figures, which they say will be done Monday or Tuesday when M. Tardieu returns from Paris. (2) That initiative at the conference has been rudely torn out of their hands by the action taken without giving them any hint of it although they had been promised by the Americans that they would be consulted at every turn.

The expression of joy at Italian headquarters was almost lyrical. Their raptures and praises of Mr. Stimson will fill the Fascist press tomorrow from correspondents here. For the Italians say that the United States has now persuaded Great Britain to accept the whole Italian program of "ratios leading to parity." After this, an Italian spokesman asked tonight, how can the United States deny to Italy what she has demanded and obtained from Great Britain and how can she object to Italian methods when these are the same as the United States has adopted? Italy, it was hinted, will accept in all classes of warships a 1.75 ratio with Great Britain and America provided France does the same—which France will not.

Japanese Remark Puzzles.

An incident of possible future significance occurred today in a meeting of the subcommittee debating limitation of total tonnage or by categories. The essential unimportance of this subject which filled the press for days was shown when France and Britain accepted a compromise on phraseology. The golden formula that brought them together was that figures in categories should be set down in tables "as agreed among themselves" instead of the British formula "on an agreed basis."

But when an attempt was made to agree that "oceanic powers" should put their cruiser tonnage in one table and the "continental powers" their tonnage in another, thus foreshadowing possible division of transfers into two classes, a Japanese expert quickly remarked that for the present and provisionally Japan would perhaps regard herself as a continental rather than an oceanic power.

The subcommittee adjourned and the experts are now wondering what the Japanese meant by this. A Japanese spokesman, when asked tonight, blandly smiled and said he didn't know either.

"Leakage" Story Widespread.

That Mr. Stimson's hand was forced by a "leakage" of some sort into issuing his statement prematurely last night was the story told everywhere today. It has some basis, but some of the yarns current are fantastic. Stimson hurried from the Ritz to Downing street yesterday afternoon to ask Mr. MacDonald's views on publication in view of alarm in the American delegation over the possibility of a "leak." Mr. Tardieu, when he appeared at the British premier's residence a few hours later to protest to Mr. MacDonald certainly got the impression that the prime minister believed unauthorized publication in quarters hostile to the conference of the American-British terms was imminent.

British Naval Cut Policy Announced by MacDonald

London, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The officially declared policy of the British government for the London conference as agreed to by the British dominions and the government of the United Kingdom was issued by Prime Minister MacDonald today. The text of the statement follows:

His majesty's government in the United Kingdom considers the naval conference of supreme importance. It believes the conference ought not only to reduce existing fleets and building programs, but put an end finally to competition in naval armaments and thus constitute an important step toward the ultimate elimination of the causes of war and toward establishment of peace on an unassailable foundation.

The policy of his majesty's government in the United Kingdom is to keep the highway of the seas open for trade and communication and, in relation to the political state of the world, to take what steps are necessary to secure this. In estimating its naval needs, the government has also to take into account its obligations under the covenant of the League of Nations; partly offset though they are by the security afforded under the covenant by its provision of mutual support.

There are also other commitments which have to be fulfilled in relation to the present state of the world. In deciding what these commitments amount to in terms of naval strength, the Government has to estimate the chances of war breaking out, because, unless this is done, fleets will be built which will never be of any use; will threaten rather than protect, and will at best be a waste of national resource.

The Government feels that if naval establishments are not to be a menace, an equilibrium must be maintained between them by means of international agreement. It feels, moreover, that this equilibrium will not be secured by mere numerical equality in ships and tonnage, but only by adoption of agreed programs based on considerations of requirements affecting dispersions, &c., and in which the menace will be reduced as much as possible.

This can not be done by any general formula or ratio. It must be the subject of conferences such as this and of agreements made for periods at the end of which they should be reviewed, and during which governments should be engaged in strengthening the foundations of peace.

It is, therefore, proposed that the general agreement resulting from this conference should run until 1936 and that in 1935 a further conference should be called to review the situation in relation to world relations.

In view of these considerations, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom suggests the following proposals for the conference:

The agreement should be not upon global tonnage, but upon the size of individual ships in the various categories and upon the tonnage used by each nation in each of these categories.

The categories should be capital ships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

An agreement by categories is necessary in order to obtain elimination of competitive building and the maintenance of equilibrium between fleet and fleet. These two points are essential if security is to be obtained. It is not only the total tonnage of a fleet which counts, but the use to which these tons are put, and an agreement on the latter point is called for.

At some time it might be convenient to allow a percentage of tonnage assigned to different categories to be transferred to other categories. The British government, however, does not favor a general transfer. It is opposed to transfer in regard to capital ships, aircraft and submarines. In regard to cruisers, it would permit the transfer out of the 8-inch class into the 6-inch class on a percentage which remains to be arranged. The object of this arrangement would be to take into account the special needs of countries which require a large proportion of small cruisers.

The Government proposes that the number of capital ships for each signatory as fixed by the Washington treaty should be reached within eighteen months of ratification of the treaty resulting from this conference instead of by 1936. It proposes that no replacement of existing ships should take place before the next conference in 1935 and that in the meantime the whole question of capital ships should be the subject of negotiation between the powers concerned.

The Government will press for reduction though, of course, without disturbing the Washington equilibrium. Its experts favor a reduction from 35,000 tons to 25,000 tons, and of guns from 16 inches to 12 inches. The Government also favors a lengthening of age from 20 to 26 years.

The government hopes that there will be an exchange of views on this subject during the conference; indeed, it would wish to see an agreement by which battleships will in due time disappear altogether, as it considers them a very doubtful proposition in view of their size and cost and of the development of efficacy of air and submarine attack.

The government would further limit the tonnage and gun caliber of aircraft carriers and suggests that ships of 10,000 tons and under should be included in the total tonnage of this category if used as aircraft carriers.

It proposes a reduction of total aircraft tonnage for the British and United States navies from 135,000 tons under the Washington treaty to (say) 100,000 tons and an adjustment of that assigned to other nations in the Washington treaties ratios. It further proposes that the maximum size of aircraft carriers should be reduced to 25,000 tons and that their age should be 26 years instead of 20.

It was assumed during the recent conversation between the governments of the United States and Great Britain that cruisers should be grouped in one category which, in turn, should be divided into cruisers carrying 8-inch guns and cruisers carrying 6-inch guns and under. It was also assumed during the negotiations that the requirements of the British Commonwealth would consist of a total tonnage of 339,000 tons divided into 50 cruisers.

A final arrangement will be governed by the decision of the conference regarding limitation in the size of units. The British government proposes that the tonnage limit of 8-inch cruisers should remain at 10,000 tons as provided for in the Washington treaty and that there should be a tonnage limit for smaller vessels at about 6,000 or 7,000 tons. It suggests that only a fixed proportion in the latter class should be built up to that limit and that the life of cruisers should be twenty years.

In regard to destroyers it is proposed that the limit assigned should be, for leaders, 1,850 tons, and for destroyers, 1,500 tons. The maximum size of guns for both classes of destroyers should be 5 inches. The present British building program of destroyers is for 2,000 tons ultimately, but this can be reduced if the submarine programs of other powers are reduced, for it is obvious that the size and total tonnage of destroyers must largely depend upon the size and total tonnage of submarines.

The government proposes the abolition of submarines. Its experts feel that the argument that the submarine is an arm solely of defense was destroyed by the experience of the late war and that in war conditions it is an arm of attack. If abolition can not be agreed upon, the British government will put forward proposals limiting submarines rigidly to defense requirements.

In any case, it will press for limitation of the submarine to the lowest possible limit, and it proposes to urge revival of the agreement, signed at Washington in 1922 but not ratified by the signatory powers, which would regulate in the interests of humanity the use of submarines against merchant ships.

In regard to auxiliary vessels not strictly entering into fleet strength the government proposes that they should be specified and that each government should publish yearly lists of vessels of this class in commission and laid down.

HEALTH WORKER IS STRICKEN BY CASE OF PARROT DISEASE

of the dead parrots and a certain number of them have shown some signs of illness. All, however, are recovering.

"More than 200 cultures, health officials reported today, have been obtained from the dead and experimental birds, but thus far no organism has been obtained which has proven to be the specific cause of the disease.

"Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State health commissioner of Virginia, today advised the United States Public Health Service that a case of suspected psittacosis is in the Buxton Hospital at Newport News, Va., and requested that an officer of the Public Health Service be sent to that place for consultation with the State and local physicians for the purpose of confirming the diagnosis.

Badger Is Due Today.

"The patient is reported to have been associated with a pet shop. Assistant Surgeon L. F. Badger is leaving Washington tonight and will arrive at Newport News tomorrow morning for the purpose mentioned."

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. William Royal Stokes, official of the city health department, suffering from what had been diagnosed as psittacosis, is in a critical condition, and the efficacy of a serum for the parrot fever, made by health authorities and given the physician last night, still is in doubt.

Dr. Stokes early today was reported improved, but later suffered a relapse which Dr. C. Hampson Jones, city health commissioner, at first said would prove fatal. However, the stricken man rallied and tonight was reported in a critical condition, but in no danger of immediate death.

Woman's Condition Serious.

The serum was manufactured by health department authorities from blood taken from victims of the strange malady, which was believed by them to have become immunized.

Mrs. Maud Alders, a woman admitted to a hospital late today suffering from what at first was reported to be psittacosis, also is in a serious condition. Definite diagnosis of her illness as that of the parrot fever has not been made by health authorities.

Dr. Daniels Hatfield, chief of the bureau of communicable diseases of the health department, who, like Dr. Stokes, is believed to have contracted the tropical disease while handling parrots believed infected, was reported much improved today.

COALITION HAS EDGE IN STORMY SESSION

Rate-Cutting Score Is Three to Two in Fevered Senate Wrangle.

CURTIS BUSY WITH GAVEL

(Associated Press.)

In one of the stormiest scenes yet witnessed in the long tariff struggle, leaders of the Republican and Democratic-Republican independent coalition fought over in the Senate yesterday the right of the opposition coalition to slash existing import levies.

With nerves on edge from the long months of wrangling, Republicans made a determined stand against further attempts by the coalition senators to cut present rates on which no testimony had been taken in committees.

Leaders of the Democrats and Western Republicans retorted with equal vehemence against what they termed the writing of tariff bills in secret.

At times two or three senators were shouting at once. Vice President Curtis was kept busy pounding the gavel.

Out of it all came a score of 3 to 2 on rate changes in favor of the coalitionists. They succeeded in cutting the duty on red lead, used in the manufacture of preservative paints, from 2½ to 2⅛ cents a pound; in cutting the duty on litharge, a lead pigment used in glass and pottery manufacture, from 2½ to 2⅛ cents, and in reducing the levy on carbon black from 20 to 15 per cent ad valorem. One was decided by only one vote and another by two.

Republicans rallied their forces, however, and defeated, 38 to 37, an attempt to reduce the rate on white lead, used for exterior paint-making, from 2½ to 2 cents a pound. By 39 to 37 they also rejected an amendment to slash from 30 to 25 per cent the existing tariff on all lead pigments not specially provided for in the bill.

Hall-Mills "Pig Woman" Dies; All Money Gone

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 7 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Jane Gibson, the "pig woman" of the Hall-Mills murder case, an obscure person whom a succession of chances made a nationally known figure, died of cancer at noon today in the Jersey City Hospital. Late tonight her body still lay in the hospital morgue, and her relatives were worrying about where the money was coming from to bury her.

It had been just a little over four years since she had her great moment, when from a stretcher in the courtroom at Somerville, N. J., she dramatically accused Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her two brothers and her cousin, of the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills. Mrs. Hall is herself ill of cancer in a hospital in New York.

He is charged with shooting her three times and turning the pistol on himself in an attempted suicide. The shooting occurred in August, 1927.

fail in the fourth attempt after he had taken the case to the United States Supreme Court. The murderer was Robert Percy Lofton, of Mongolia, Miss.

Mr. Young, who was practicing law at the time, was admitted to the Supreme Court only three days before he filed the brief in the appeal. By use of long distance telephone, air mail and telegraph, he was able to obtain three reprieves for Lofton. The man was hanged on December 1, 1928, after the Supreme Court had upheld the sentence.

Prior to this affair Mr. Young was secretary to Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, for some time.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN TAFT'S CONDITION

Jurist Not Out of Danger, However; Arrival of His Brother Cheers Him.

VISITORS BECOME FEWER

(Associated Press.)

Further improvement in the condition of William Howard Taft was noted last night by his physicians, Drs. Francis Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor.

In a bulletin issued at 7 p. m., they said the former Chief Justice and President had "a very comfortable day and is showing some improvement," but Dr. Hagner warned against placing too optimistic a construction on the progress made during the last two days by his patient.

While remarking informally that "it beginsto look as though he might get up and about again," Dr. Hagner said the ailment was extremely serious. Ability to take more nourishment and rest have brought the condition of Mr. Taft to a better stage than at any time since he arrived home four days ago from Asheville, N. C., it was pointed out, though the improvement was considered essentially comparative.

The celebrated jurist was able yesterday to recognize and talk for a few moments with his brother, Horace D. Taft, who arrived from Watertown, Conn., and several times called for his wife. These intervals during which he was able to recognize those about him were still rare, however, and after a few disjointed sentences he always lapsed quickly back into the state of semiconsciousness that has held him most of the time since he arrived home.

Slump Startles Cotton Exchange

Futures Tumble From $3 to $3.50 a Bale to Season's Low.

New York, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Near demoralization reigned on the New York Cotton Exchange today as the price of cotton futures tumbled $3 to $3.50 a bale, sinking to the lowest levels of the season. Since mid-January, when the present depression period began, cotton has declined about $12 a bale.

There was a slight show of stability at the start of the market today, attributed to steady foreign markets, but it did not last long.

There were no new bearish developments to account for the outburst of selling, and the prevailing impression was that the market was feeling the effects of factors which had been apparent since last fall, but which had not dislodged any great quantities of cotton, as holders evidently felt that the market would be sustained by the Federal Farm Board. Cotton for March delivery sold down to 15.05 cents a pound, compared with 15.85 cents yesterday, while the July price dropped to 15.53 cents a pound, as against yesterday's final quotation of 16.05 cents.

Chinese Seized in Raid Are Held to Grand Jury

Lee Gong and Lee Wem Hing, Chinese, who were arrested by customs inspectors and narcotic agents on January 15 at 318 Pennsylvania avenue northwest in connection with seizure of opium said to be worth $4,000 were given a hearing yesterday before Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and ordered held for action of the grand jury under $10,000 bonds.

The two Chinese, according to testimony given at the hearing, were arrested on information furnished to the narcotic agents and customs officials by Lee King, a Chinese informer, who was killed early in the fall. King was shot in an automobile and his body tossed into the street. Assistant United States Attorney Renah F. Camalier represented the Government, while Attorney E. Russel Kelly appeared for the Chinese.

Georgia School Firm On Girl-Smoker Ban

Athens, Ga., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The University of Georgia administration officials said today they would not permit girl students to smoke in university buildings, although members of the Woman's Student Council yesterday adopted a resolution seeking an amendment to council rules against smoking. The amendment was passed and presented to university officials.

It was said about 50 of the 450 women students enrolled attended the meeting where the action was taken. The vote was 30 to 16 for the change. The dean of women has said many of the girl students have informed her they are opposed to girls smoking in the university building or anywhere else.

HOOVER NAMES FIVE FOR STUDY OF HAITI

W. C. Forbes Is Chairman; Marines' Withdrawal to Be Considered.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover took another step toward development of a new policy in the Caribbean yesterday by appointing a commission to study the question of when and how the United States should withdraw from participation in the affairs of Haiti.

W. Cameron Forbes, of Massachusetts, former Governor General of the Philippines, was named chairman of the commission. Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, former Ambassador to Rome and widely experienced in Latin-American affairs, was named as the second member of the group.

Other members are Elie Vezina, of Rhode Island, a student of Haitian affairs; James Kerney, editor of the Trenton, N. J., Times; and William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kans., Gazette. The commission will leave for Haiti late this month.

President Hoover also announced that he has requested Dr. R. E. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute, to study the educational system of Haiti with a view to recommendations for the future.

It is a possibility, the President said, that a member of the Senate and a member of the House may be added to the commission. He remarked that at present, however, congressional branches are disinclined to be represented in the investigation.

The treaty under which the United States maintains a force of Marines in Haiti expires in 1936. It is the hope of President Hoover that the commission will find some means whereby the United States may safely withdraw the Marines, but at the same time assure a stable government for the island.

Auto Crash Fatal To State Senators

Orangeburg, S. C., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Two South Carolina State senators, W. Claude Martin, of Orangeburg, and William S. Legare, of Charleston, were fatally injured late today in an automobile collision near here. A third legislator, Representative J. Rutledge Smith, jr., of Charleston, was seriously injured. Senator Martin was dead when residents of the Village of Wolfton, between Orangeburg and North, where the wreck occurred, reached his body. Senator Legare died in a hospital here tonight. The condition of Representative Smith was considered serious.

The legislators were returning to their homes for the week-end recess when the car in which they were riding collided with another machine. As far as could be learned here the occupants of the other car were not injured.

Senator Martin and Senator Legare were the second and third members of the General Assembly to figure in automobile accidents during the present session. Representative Tracey E. Fore, of Dillon County, was fatally injured a week ago while returning to his home for the regular week-end recess.

His bond of $100,000 was continued. Unable to raise the sum, Poggione has been in the county jail since his arrest.

RACIAL ISSUE RAISED IN SENATE DEBATE

RELIGION IS DISCUSSED

(Associated Press.)

After two hours of debate on religious and racial differences, the Senate yesterday agreed to appoint a committee of three to examine a letter by Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, on the question of intermarriage of whites and negroes in New York City, which he had placed in the Congressional Record.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, demanded that the letter be expunged from the record because of its references to New York State and city authorities, contending it was "offensive to the people of my State."

Senator Heflin objected and spoke for an hour, repeating his words in the letter and complaining against what he called "the Roman-Tammany regime of New York State and city." Finally, Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, suggested that Senators Heflin and Copeland agree to the appointment of a committee by Vice President Curtis to examine whether the letter violated Senate rules.

Everybody concurred and the Vice President left the appointment of the committee until today, with Senators Heflin and Copeland conferring meanwhile on the names of the committee.

"Nobody in my State desires intermarriage," said Senator Copeland. "The men in control of government in my State are men of the highest character."

Senator Heflin deplored intermarriage of the white and black races and condemned the Catholic Church for permitting whites and negroes to attend the same institution. He demanded that his letter be read. Mr. Copeland objected. But on a viva voce vote, the Senate decided to hear the letter.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, protested against attacks on churches, and asserted that Northern institutions all received negroes and whites on a basis of equality.

"Are we to close the doors of the church of God to those few colored people who came to the North," he asked. "God banished religious rivalry and jealousy from this land of ours. The sooner we forget these prejudices and hates, the happier this land will be."

The Heflin letter was written to Sam H. Reading, of Philadelphia, in response to a letter from Reading calling attention to the recent marriage of Phil Edwards, negro captain of the New York University track team, to a white girl.

The train was said to have been running about 40 miles an hour. Passengers were picked up by the Twentieth Century Limited.

COUPLE LEAVES ON TRIP

Passaic, N. J., Feb. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Rev. Louis J. Jeckert, curate of Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, of Passaic, has renounced holy orders for matrimony, it became known today. He handed in his resignation to the Rev. Edward F. Schulte, pastor of the church, last Saturday, and on Monday married Miss Theresa Marie Miller, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, of Clifton.

Father Jeckert, 33, is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth McClintock, of Nutley. His only sister is a nun in a New York convent and is known as Sister M. Grace Louise. Reared in a Catholic home, the boy early chose the priesthood as a vocation. He attended St. Benedict's Preparatory School in Newark, and in 1919 was graduated from Seton Hall College, East Orange. On May 25, 1923, he was ordained from Holy Trinity School and the next day he celebrated his first mass in Holy Trinity Church, where he had been assigned.

When his resignation came last Saturday, he gave no reason in his letter to the pastor. Monday morning he appeared with Miss Miller, a telephone operator, before the city clerk of Suffern, N. Y., and took out a license. In the application he gave his occupation as a clerk. With the couple were the bride's parents, who, because of the girl's age, had to give their consent. Later in the day, Mrs. Hugo Sauer and her daughter, both of Clifton, acted as witnesses to the ceremony which was performed by Justice of the Peace N. A. Hallett, of Suffern. They left immediately after on a honeymoon trip.

According to friends, the girl received an engagement ring Christmas Day. She told her friends at the time that she was engaged, but refused to say to whom. In a letter to a friend, an attorney in Passaic, the priest wrote:

"I suppose it's all up with our friendship, after you find out what I've done. I feel that while there is life there is hope. I can't bear to live a life which is absolutely not, and I know never was, my vocation."

'Affinity' Earle Pictures Love-Flight With Dancer

No Quarrel, Just Friendly Argument, Artist Says in Deposition.

DOLORES SALAZAR.

Los Angeles, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Reading of the first of three depositions made by Ferdinand P. "Affinity" Earle, artist, denying charges of breach of prenuptial contract in a $30,000 damage suit brought against him by Dolores Salazar, Spanish dancer, was begun in Superior Court today.

Regarding their alleged love affair, Earle said, "She (Miss Salazar) fell into my lap like a ripe peach." Shortly afterward, reading of the deposition was halted and the jury excused to permit the lawyers an opportunity to peruse the remaining statements.

Earle, who is in Paris, is accused by the 24-year-old dancer of marrying her in a mock ceremony and promising to place $15,000 in trust for her. She claimed she never received the money.

Earle deposed that he first met Miss Salazar at Hollywood in April, 1926. He said he did not see her again until she called him by telephone of her own volition the following December.

Thereafter, he said, she came to his home almost daily. When he moved to Juarez, Mexico, he said, she followed him in February, 1927. They went to Mexico City, he said, and during dinner in a cafe, she created a "rumpus" and he slapped her.

Several days later the deposition read, they sailed from Vera Cruz for St. Nazaire, France, arriving in April, 1927. They spent a week touring France. On their return to Paris, they separated.

"There was no quarrel, just a friendly argument interrupted by the realization by both of us that she had a rendezvous with an aunt," Miss Salazar, Earle said, did not return to the hotel that night. He said he pleaded with her, but she remained adamant.

The next he heard from Miss Salazar, Earle deposed, was a letter written from Los Angeles. In it she asked him to return her clothes.

BECK WARNS REPUBLICANS TO THROW OFF DRY YOKE

Volstead Act Repeal Seen.

When the American people wake up to the fact that the eighteenth amendment does not command enabling legislation, Mr. Beck declared, he believed men would be sent to Congress, in the light of conditions under prohibition, to repeal the Volstead act.

The straight-away thing to do, he admitted, would be to repeal the eighteenth amendment, but he said this presented insuperable obstacles.

Replying to Mr. Fort's proposal that the drys be permitted to keep their law and the wets their home brew, Mr. Beck declared the breakdown of the home was one of the worst results of prohibition.

Foreign Countries Cited.

Accepting for the purpose of argument, too, Mr. Fort's contention that prohibition has been a great economic advantage to the country—although Mr. Beck doubted this inasmuch as "Germany, France and England, three of the most efficient industrial states in the world," have been able to do without prohibition, but assuming it to be true, "the American people, and especially those who labor with their hands, are not disposed to sell their ancent birthright for such a mess of pottage."

Prohibition's greatest wrong, he declared, is that it has broken down the moral fiber of the people and made them a nation of hypocrites. It has made mere police provinces of the States. He disagreed with Mr. Fort that ours are a lawless people. Indeed, they have shown commendable patience under the prohibition tyranny, Mr. Beck declared.

Asserting that the most despotic of all nations, Russia, had not been able to enforce prohibition, Mr. Beck declared:

Law Must Be Justified.

"A law, to be enforced, must find its justification in the conscience of the American people."

Asserting that the fanatical dry leaders hailed the Wickersham report with great glee, Mr. Beck said that if they realized the real significance of its "pointed allusions to the ancient traditions and experiences of the English speaking race and their application to the present situation," they would have rent their garments, sat themselves down in sackcloth and ashes, or possibly have had resort to the wine which on high scriptural authority 'gladdens the troubled heart of man.'"

Incidentally, Mr. Beck, former solicitor general and a constitutional authority, intimated that he would oppose the commission's recommendation to enlarge the powers of United States commissioners to eliminate jury trials.

Representative Loring Black, Democrat, of New York, suggested later that Mr. Beck would probably be "excommunicated by the party high command because of his speech. Mr. Beck had previously stated that he had received a letter from a constituent saying that if he made the speech he would be defeated the next time he ran, but Mr. Beck must not have taken that seriously.

General Enforcement Debate.

Mr. Beck's speech was made during the general debate on the bill to concentrate prohibition enforcement in the Department of Justice. A vote will probably come today, but there is a question as to what will finally be done about issuance of alcohol permits. Some House members want the Treasury to have full charge, others want the Treasury and Attorney General to prepare regulations jointly and still others want the Attorney General to have the full responsibility for the regulations, although alcohol supervision would remain under the Treasury.

In the meantime, there are indications that a modification of the Jones law may be recommended by the House judiciary committee, which is considering the bill to broaden the powers of United States commissioners.

Dean Pound, of Harvard Law School, admitted that the National Law Enforcement Commission, in recommending that district attorneys be given authority to proceed against a violator charged with either a misdemeanor or a felony, after he has demanded a jury trial, sought to follow the lines of the Jones law. He said this law now gives the district attorneys this discretionary power. In fact, Representative Stobbs, of Massachusetts, member of the committee, introduced a bill defining casual offenders and limiting their penalties to a $500 fine or six months imprisonment.

court on which the subcommittee has made a check. Similar investigations were made in both the Police and Municipal Courts. The story of the Police Court investigation was revealed exclusively in The Post the day before a similar story was carried regarding the probe of the District Supreme Court.

Judge Schuldt, of Police Court, and Judge Aukam, of Municipal Court, were both called before the subcommittee.

Judge Schuldt, it is said, was confronted with a time table showing the hours he and his associates worked during the period of the week investigated. The subcommittee is said to have considered this entirely too short a time for a judge of a Police Court to work. Figures as to the number of hours were not available.

Judge Aukam, however, it is understood, was highly praised by the committee for the manner in which he and his associates have kept up with their work. There was no criticism.

The subcommittee is understood to have told Judge Schuldt that there would be no more judges and no more pay for the present judges of the Police Court until more work was done. This was the same threat made in connection with the District Supreme Court.

Stafford Makes Statement.

In connection with the story published in yesterday's Post, Justice Stafford said:

"There was no criticism of Justice Wheat and myself, who preside over Equity tribunals," the senior Justice said. "The chairman of that committee is a lawyer and realizes that the bulk of the work in Equity trials must be handled in private session.

"Consultations with lawyers, reviewing of briefs and research consume many more hours than are actually spent on the bench.

"But I feel that the tabulators show an unfortunate week for the Criminal Court justices. In the instance of Justice Hitz, who was shown by the time table to have been on the bench less than eight hours during the week selected, I know to have been greatly hampered by the illness of one of the jurors.

"In criminal cases there are many factors that hinder the even dispatch of the trials on the dockets. Many times the district attorney's office will painstakingly round up a large number of witnesses for pending trials and the defendant will plead guilty, setting their work at naught.

"Unforeseen exigencies often arrive in criminal actions which make some missing witness a vital hinge. More time is lost while he is being secured.

"I know from acquaintance with the fact," the justice concluded, "that the week chosen for the check-up was sorely beset by just such difficulties as I have enumerated. No fair average of daily time spent on the bench by the Criminal Court justices could have been computed from those figures."

Asks to Check Out.

Justice Jennings Bailey, when he adjourned his branch of the District Supreme Court—Circuit No. 2—stopped by the press room yesterday and inquired of reporters if he should check out. It was then 11:15.

Justice Stafford did not resume sessions of his court—Equity No. 1—after the noon recess.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, in Circuit No. 1 got in a full five hours with three minutes to spare, quitting at 3:45 after mounting the bench at 10 o'clock and taking a brief time out for lunch.

Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in Equity No. 2 put in more than his five hours, holding court until after 4:30.

Justice Peyton Gordon, in Criminal No. 1, had a tough day hearing lunacy cases. He was on the bench early and quit at 3:15 only after all cases had been disposed of.

Justice Hitz in Criminal No. 2, likewise had a full day, going on the bench early and quitting only at 3:40 after all work was disposed of.

FLYNN AND HERBERT HAVE VERBAL CLASH

Accuser and Accused in Dry Row Meet Face to Face in Borah's Office.

SENATOR TO PUSH QUIZ

The accuser and the accused in Washington's latest prohibition imbroglio came face to face yesterday at the Capitol, and a sharp verbal exchange was the result.

Capt. Frank Flynn, Prohibition Bureau employe who is about to be dismissed was sitting in an anteroom at the office of Senator Borah, of Idaho, when Col. John F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator for the Montana-Idaho area, walked in.

Capt. Flynn previously had told Senator Borah things about Col. Herbert that led the senator to denounce Col. Herbert on the floor and which are responsible for the latter's being here now.

Flynn Walks Out.

The nature of the verbal clash between the two could not be ascertained but at any rate Capt. Flynn walked out, leaving Col. Herbert in possession of the anteroom. A little later he conferred with Senator Borah.

Senator Borah said afterward that he was going to make his own investigation of Flynn's charges against Col. Herbert.

tention of giving Capt. Frank S. Flynn an open or public hearing on the charges which has resulted in the bureau's recommendation to the department that he be dismissed from the service," Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced last night.

"Neither have we any intention of reopening the case. To grant Capt. Flynn a public hearing or trial would be contrary to civil service law. As far as the bureau is concerned, the matter is a closed incident.

Allowed Reasonable Time.

"As required by the civil service rules, we have given Capt. Flynn a reasonable length of time in which to answer the charges preferred against him.

"Capt. Flynn has not seen fit to offer a defense against those charges. He has merely demanded a public hearing—something which the law forbids in a case of his kind."

Informed that Capt. Flynn had made public a second letter in which he denied the four specifications as contained in the charges and again demanding an open hearing, Commissioner Doran added:

"Interesting, if true. However, I have not received a second letter from Capt. Flynn. I can't very well discuss it until I have seen it. It may be in the morning mail—then after reading it I may have nothing to add other than his dismissal has been recommended."

Contrary to reports, Col. Herbert has not been ordered by the bureau back to his official post of duty at Helena, Mont. "Col. Herbert is on leave and I was given to understand today that it is his intention of remaining in the city for several days to come," said Dr. Doran.

In the meantime, a direct campaign to obtain the $325,911.49 which was needed Thursday night when it was decided to continue the drive until Monday, will be made by radio, through the courtesy of Stations WRC, WMAL, WOL and WJSV, with a list of distinguished speakers making the appeals. Last night the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, spoke over WRC, being introduced by Newbold Noyes, chairman of the special gifts committee. Huston Thompson spoke over WOL; Clarence Aspinwall spoke over WJSV, and Radford Moses spoke over WMAL.

Tonight at 6:15 o'clock Bishop John W. McNamara will speak over WRC. At 7:15 Mrs. Sidney F. Taliaferro, vice chairman of the special gifts committee, will speak over WMAL, and this afternoon at 4:40 o'clock, Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, will speak over WMAL.

All churches in Washington have agreed to cooperate to the uttermost in the clean-up drive. Through the Rev. John O'Grady, director of Catholic Charities, arrangements have been made for another letter from his grace, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, urging all Catholics to increase subscriptions where possible, and, if they have not contributed, to give as much as they can to the chest. William Knowles Cooper has organized the Protestant churches of the city and all pastors of Washington will discuss the chest tomorrow. In addition to these talks and letters, pledge cards will be distributed at all the churches in order that any person who has not subscribed may have an opportunity to give.

Oscar Leonard and Maurice Maser are in charge of the program for the Jewish churches and all rabbis in the city preached last night on the subject of the chest.

RUM CRUSADE ENDS IN 250 INDICTMENTS

Alabama Federal County Grand Juries Climax Far-Reaching Campaign.

BUYER HELD IN BOSTON

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Completing one of the most far-reaching dry crusades since enactment of prohibition in Alabama, Federal and county grand juries today indicted 250 persons for violating or conspiring to violate the prohibition law and distilling. All those indicted reside in central Alabama, a majority in Montgomery County.

Federal marshals and deputy sheriffs immediately began serving capiases on persons named in the indictments and not already in custody. Pending their arrest, identity of the persons indicted was not disclosed.

The Federal grand jury, in indicting 232 persons for prohibition violations, climaxed a crusade inaugurated several months ago by District Attorney Grady Reynolds against objectionable places. His campaign resulted in a number of places here and in southeastern cities being padlocked and the special grand jury being organized to complete the investigation. Mr. Reynolds indicated other padlock orders would be sought.

In order to facilitate the Federal grand jury's work, it was understood at the Federal Building that books of telephone companies and automobile dealers were examined to trace ownership of telephones and motor cars used in the liquor traffic.

Thirty-three persons as conspirators were named in one of the Federal indictments, it became known. Although beyond the fact that the conspiracy involved violation of the prohibition law, nothing could be learned "pending arrests." It was stated, however, that in order to make the clean-up more effective persons who had even a remote connection with the principals in the handling of liquor were indicted as conspirators.

The Federal grand jury indicted 240 persons, 8 of the number being for miscellaneous offenses. The county grand jury indicted 18.

Conspiracy Trial Nears End.

Oklahoma City, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Fourteen of the seventeen remaining defendants in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial in Federal Court here tonight had rested their cases. The opening statement of counsel for Randall Pittman, county attorney, a defendant, also had been made, paving the way for testimony in Pittman's behalf tomorrow.

Two defendants, Frank Fox, former sheriff, and J. W. Motzenbacher, who is alleged to have dispensed liquor at a place in Earlsboro, will present their case after testimony is concluded in Pittman's behalf.

The government charged that the county attorney and Fox were the leaders in an alleged widespread liquor conspiracy in Pottawatomie County where the flow of oil created markets for an increased flow of whiskey and beer.

Bay State Rumrunner Indicted.

Boston, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The first indictments in Massachusetts for purchase of liquor for beverage purposes were returned today by the Federal grand jury. The indictments were regarded by Elihu D. Stone, assistant United States attorney, as a test case.

The indictments charged James Farrar, of Watertown, with purchase and transportation of two pints of liquor. Frank Rotondo, a Cambridge storekeeper, was also indicted for sale of the liquor.

British Envoy And Wife Dine With Hoovers

Retiring Diplomat Given Special Honor by President.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE President and Mrs. Hoover entertained at dinner last night in honor of the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard. So seldom are foreign envoys entertained at the White House except at state functions in their honor that this is regarded as a very graceful compliment to the distinguished diplomat, dean of the corps, who is so soon to retire, and to Lady Isabella Howard, who as chatelaine of the British Embassy has endeared herself to her associates in Washington.

The other guests at the dinner were the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon; the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce; Senator and Mrs. William J. Harris, Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Senator and Mrs. Jesse H. Sir Esme and Lady Isabella Howard will leave Washington on February 19 and will be continuously entertained during the remaining days of their residence here. On February 15 they will leave the staid old embassy in Connecticut avenue, which has been their home for six years, and will be guests of the Canadian Minister and Mrs. Massey at the legation until their departure for New York. That evening the Italian Ambassador and Donna Antonietta de Martino will give a dinner in their honor, the party returning later to the Canadian Legation for a musicale at which the Minister and Mrs. Massey will be hosts.

Women's Guild Review Is Held At American U.

Living Book Pageant Is Feature of Midwinter Dance Fete.

The annual benefit midwinter dinner of the Women's Guild of American University held last night at the college dining hall on the campus in the form of a "Living Book Review" proved a largely attended, and colorful event. The hall was transformed into a flower garden. More than 30 hostesses, each costumed to represent a book, participated in an entertainment program following the dinner, in which they appeared in a tableaux on a stage. Pack-Thorpe Betrothal Is Made Known

Army Debutante Is to Wed Diplomat of Great Britain.

Col. and Mrs. George C. Thorpe announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Thorpe, to Mr. Arthur Pack, commercial secretary of the British Embassy.

Miss Thorpe made her formal debut in the early autumn and has been much feted. The engagement of another of the season's buds, Miss Isabel Lamberton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Paulding Lamberton, to Mr. Jennings Bailey, jr., son of Justice Bailey, was announced a few weeks ago. And although Senator and Mrs. Couzens' daughter, Miss Margo Couzens, whose recent marriage to Mr. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., created no end of interest, had no formal debut, she was generally included in the debutante group.

The marriage of Miss Thorpe and Mr. Pack will take place in the early spring. Mr. Pack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pack, of London. He was educated at the University of London. Entering the British government service in 1911, Mr. Pack has held various appointments under the crown and has been attached to the embassy in Washington since 1925. During the war Mr. Pack was with the London Regiment and Machine Gun Corps, seeing active service in France and Belgium. He was a member of the British Military Mission to the United States in 1917-1918 and served as machine gun advisor to the Thirtieth American Division, under command of the late Senator Lawrence Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Comstock, of 791 Park avenue, New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mabel Wilson, to Washburne Wright, son of Mrs. Hamilton Wright, of Washington. Mr. Wright is a graduate of Yale of the class of '29. He is a grandson of the late Senator William Drew Washburn and a great nephew of the late Elihu B. Washburne, at one time Secretary of State and American Minister to France.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Busch, who are passing some time in Florida, entertained recently at their house on Palm Island in honor of Mr. John Baldwin Cochran and Mr. William Bowie Clarke, of Washington, afterward taking their guests to the Palm Island Club for a dance.

"Fine for dishes, too" says Mrs. W. C. Austin, Jr. 2015 Naylor Rd. S. E.

"I tried many soaps in my washer before I came to Rinso. There's nothing like it for speed! The clothes come so bright and snowy, they look like new. And Rinso is so economical; a little gives a lot of thick, lasting suds. I like it for dishes, too—it loosens grease in a flash. Lately I've been using Rinso for all cleaning, too, it's such a wonderful help."

MRS. W. C. AUSTIN, Jr., 2015 Naylor Rd. S.E., Washington, D. C.

Only Rinso gives gleaming, snowy Rinso whiteness! Its rich suds loosen dirt like magic. Clothes soak so white and clean, even boiling isn't needed.

Rinso is safe for your finest cottons and linens. The makers of 38 well-known washing machines recommend it. And economical! One cupful gives twice as much suds as one cupful of lightweight, puffed-up soap... because it's granulated, compact. Great for dishes, too. Get the BIG package.

MR. BECK ON PROHIBITION.

Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, yesterday contributed an agreeably literary address to the discussion of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. The House, without regard to wet or dry predilections, complimented Mr. Beck by liberal applause.

The burden of Mr. Beck's argument is that the eighteenth amendment conflicts with the spirit or genius of the people, and therefore can have no lasting vitality. The spirit of the people, thinks Mr. Beck, is to be distinguished from the verdict of a passing majority at the polls. Americans are individualists, and do not deify the state. They do not regard the will of the majority as infallible, or as an expression of divine right. Mr. Beck suggests that there is an unwritten law more potent than the law enacted by the majority, to which men can appeal when attempts are made to make morals by law.

Having set up this thesis, Mr. Beck impairs his case by appealing to the very majority that he derides. He admits the "insuperable difficulty" of securing the repeal of the eighteenth amendment; but he thinks a majority might be obtained for the repeal of the Volstead act. Congress could fail to pass an act for the enforcement of the amendment, and thus, by nonaction, the eighteenth amendment could be made a dead letter. "The great imponderable," concludes Mr. Beck, "is the right of every man in a true democratic commonwealth to live his own life, always provided that he does not injure the equal right of others to pursue their own true and substantial happiness."

Of course, if a majority should decide to repeal the Volstead act and made a dead letter of the eighteenth amendment, they could do so. The question simmers down, after all, to the question of majority rule; and there is no tyranny in that. Every man's "right to live his own life" is safeguarded, not destroyed, by the rule of the majority.

Mr. Beck observes that the people did not vote on the amendment, and that perhaps a majority did not favor it; but since 46 States ratified it, the presumption is that public opinion was overwhelmingly in favor of the amendment. In any event, it is a question for the majority to decide; and since Mr. Beck remarks that there is an "insuperable difficulty" in repealing the amendment, it seems fair to assume that he is not quite sure that a majority are in favor of repeal.

The nullification of the eighteenth amendment by the failure of Congress to enact enforcement legislation is not a good solution of the liquor problem. The proper thing to do is to repeal any law that is not approved by the majority. The majority gave, and the majority can take away.

Apparently the great majority of the American people are not willing to repeal the eighteenth amendment, or even the Volstead law. If they were really anxious to repeal the law they would elect a Congress pledged to repeal it. So long as the drys in Congress are enormously superior numerically to the wets, the only reasonable conclusion to be drawn is that the majority of the people are opposed to repeal of the Volstead law.

The task before the wets is to win over a majority of the American people. If they can do that, they will not need to adopt Mr. Beck's proposal to sidestep the eighteenth amendment.

UNSETTLING INDUSTRY.

During the week the Senate coalition, emboldened by the show of strength it has been able to muster, has embarked upon the project of reducing certain tariff rates beneath the existing law. Reduced rates have been voted in certain relatively unimportant items, such as litharge and red lead. Whether or not the changes will stand remains to be seen. The tariff is being considered in committee of the whole. Rates may subsequently be altered by the Senate itself and differences must be ironed out in conference. Nevertheless, the campaign to drive rates beneath the Fordney-McCumber level evidences the fact that politics has come to be the driving consideration in connection with the tariff. The coalition is maneuvering in the hope of realizing an advantage when an unsatisfactory tariff measure is enacted.

Both Democrats and Republicans in 1928 campaigned on a protective tariff principle. The Democratic plank was particularly noteworthy in this respect, inasmuch as the 1924 plank had condemned the Fordney-McCumber act as "unjust, unscientific and dishonest." Now, however, although their 1928 platform approved the prevailing tariff, Democrats have joined with Republican malcontents in what appears to be a campaign to alter the Fordney-McCumber levels. Items have been reduced on the Senate floor; interested parties have been given no opportunity to present their side of the case.

It is recognized that industry has the right to a hearing when the tariff is under consideration. Whether the intention be to raise or lower rates, interested parties are entitled to present their arguments in favor of increases or decreases. This right was recognized in connection with the argument that surrounded the question as to whether tariff hearings this year were to be in open or closed session. Open sessions of the finance committee were decided upon because it was realized that rates should be established following a careful consideration and weighing of evidence presented by all sides.

Is industry treated fairly or justly when tariff rates upon which it is dependent are changed on the floor of the Senate, without a hearing? Certain industries are adequately protected under the Fordney-McCumber law. They did not appear before the finance committee because they were led to believe that the existing rates would be continued. It comes as a shock to see senators voting to unsettle industries that have not been charged with enjoying excessive tariff protection.

THE SNOOPER SYSTEM.

The House District subcommittee made its contribution to the current discussion of court congestion and the law's delay by recommending that justices of the District of Columbia Supreme Court arrange their schedules so that they would spend more time on the bench. The suggestion was made in connection with the request for additional judges. It seems that snoopers have sat in the District Supreme Court keeping time on the judges. The report by the snoopers covers a period of one week, and shows what time each of the justices appeared on the bench, the exact time the court was recessed for lunch, the hour and minute when the afternoon session began and the time when the adjournment was taken for the day. The average per day of actual bench duty by a judge was three hours in this particular week. Who paid the wages of these snoopers?

Representative Simmons, chairman of the committee that holds the purse-strings of the District, says: "If I can stop it, there will be no more judges until we get some evidence that the judges we have already are working harder down there than this record shows they are." He does not make clear whether he paid for the snoopers out of his own pocket, or whether he has a slush fund with which to carry on secret investigations. Possibly he borrowed snoopers from the Prohibition Bureau.

If the snooper system is to be installed in Washington its operations should be universal. Spies should be put on the trail of Representative Simmons and all other members of Congress.

PUBLIC LANDS INQUIRY.

In spite of the aversion of many members of Congress to commissions, it appears that President Hoover's request for a body of experts to study the public lands question will be granted. A resolution authorizing an appropriation of $50,000 for the expenses of this commission passed the House last month and has been reported favorably by the Senate committee on public lands and surveys.

The House committee which handled this resolution took the position that Congress has insufficient facts at hand on which to base a constructive policy of dealing with the public domain. Members expressed the belief that appointment of a commission consisting of representatives of the principal public land States and some outstanding national experts would provide the most practical method of approaching the conservation question. Preservation of water resources, oil, minerals, forests and grazing ranges will be investigated. Presumably the commission will furnish the facts to Congress, and the problem of how conservation is to be brought about will be threshed out there.

This commission, if authorized, will have opportunity to perform a great public service. Most of the 190,000,000 acres in the public domain are without supervision. The House committee found that overgrazing of these lands has "greatly dissipated their value." Large areas have been denuded and almost ruined. Watersheds, on which the West is entirely dependent for future development, have been seriously impaired.

The original idea behind creation of this commission was to work out a plan by which the surface rights to Federal lands in the West might be turned over to the States. For various reasons this may prove to be unfeasible and unwise. Any plan for turning over vast areas of debilitated land to the States offers little hope for genuine conservation. But the findings of the commission should be of material aid in formulating a definite policy in Congress respecting the public domain.

LIFE PENALTY FOR THIEVING.

Every community which is watching operation of the Baumes laws in New York will be interested in the sentence of life imprisonment on Mrs. Ruth St. Clair. The young woman is reported to be the first of her sex to be sentenced to life confinement under these laws. Her crime was shoplifting, for which she was convicted four times.

The theory behind the Baumes law, providing life sentences for the commission of four felonies, is to protect society from dangerous professional criminals. There is general agreement that four crimes of violence are sufficient to justify the State in confining a person so that he can do no further damage. But there is widespread disagreement as to whether this statute should operate so as to condemn to life imprisonment persons guilty of crimes in which no violence is involved, even though such crimes may be repeated four times.

The original charge against the woman in question is that she stole two dresses. On two different occasions she pleaded guilty to theft of coats, and the last charge against her was stealing merchandise from a department store. Does this woman deserve equal punishment with the man guilty of four crimes consisting of robbery, assault, or perhaps murder?

Women have been sentenced to life imprisonment in other States for repetition of minor offenses. Those cases in which prohibition has been involved has brought a great outcry from the people. But the issue is not one of prohibition. There are other crimes in the list of felonies for which life imprisonment is too severe a punishment. Law enforcement can not be improved by drastic penalties out of all proportion to the seriousness of the crime. If the Baumes law against fourth offenders is regularly invoked to incarcerate shoplifters, bootleggers and other law violators of this class, the movement to limit its operation to crimes of violence is certain to gain ground.

A NEW RETIREMENT PLAN.

A new plan of Federal retirement legislation has been worked out by Representative Lehlbach, chairman of the House civil service committee. His bill would supersede the Dale-Lehlbach bill now before that committee. It is more liberal than any other plan that has been worked out, and appears to be more satisfactory to Federal employes.

Mr. Lehlbach's proposed schedule of annuities is based on the length of service and the salaries of the beneficiaries. Low paid employes would be especially benefited. The minimum annuity would amount to $450, and no employe who had served 30 years or more would receive less than $900 per year. On the other hand, annuities running as high as $3,000 would be available to the higher-salaried employes, compared with a maximum of $1,200 under the Dale-Lehlbach bill. This would be accomplished by fixing a basic annuity of $30 for each year that each employe has served the Government. The additional amount of the annuity would depend upon the sum that each employe contributes to the general retirement fund.

This plan seems to be fair to every one, and is not extravagant. Most of the cost would fall on the employes themselves. It would not be good business for Congress to refuse to contribute its share.

One other feature is essential, however, before the provisions for retirement of Federal employes will be complete. Optional retirement should be allowed at 60 years for a great majority of employes under the existing law. The present system keeps many men and women who are not physically or mentally able on the pay roll, and forces into retirement others who are competent and anxious to work. The Government should not try to measure all its employes with the same rule. Optional retirement at 60 with a liberal scale of annuities would relieve the departments of worn-out workers, and would not deny opportunities to those less affected by senility.

The Chicago lady who married the cop who gave her a ticket for overtime parking carried revenge a bit too far.

R-R-RIGHT, FACE!

From the New York Herald Tribune.

One may wonder whether in normal circumstances a Quaker President would appoint a chief of cavalry to have charge of police in the District of Columbia. It seems hardly likely. In the announcement of Gen. Crosby's designation for the job there is none of the highfalutin about a "clean-up" that ushered Gen. Smedley Butler into a similar post in Philadelphia, but the intimation is plain that he is expected to do in Washington what Gen. Butler so signally failed to accomplish in Philadelphia—run the bootleggers out, close the speakeasies, treat the habits and morals of the Capital as Leonard Wood did the streets of Havana.

The chances in favor of Gen. Crosby's success in Washington are no doubt greater than they would be in any other city in the country. Washington is governed by a commission appointed by the President and answerable only to him. Its inhabitants have no votes and can exert only the most indirect political influence on their rulers. If any civilian population in the United States is susceptible of strict military discipline they are it. But being Americans, one may question whether even they can be regimented on the Volstead model and made to set an example to the Nation.

And of what value will that example be if set? Will other communities tumble over themselves to follow it or will they be inclined to cling all the more tenaciously to those attributes of self-government that save them from a like fate? For, after all, the demonstration that is being attempted is one not of the strength of democracy to order the lives of the people but of autocracy to compel their obedience; and democratic self-government is still an ideal in this land.

The experiment will be well worth watching from every point of view. As a further step in our prohibition education it should prove invaluable.

TO CLEAN UP WASHINGTON.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In accord with his announced policy to make the City of Washington a model of law enforcement, President Hoover has selected Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, now chief of cavalry, to head the Public Safety Department after his retirement to civil life next month. Mr. Hoover expresses the highly optimistic opinion that Gen. Crosby's administration "will be a guarantee that the Capital of the Nation will be free from organized crime."

It would be pleasant to be able to share the President's confidence that a military man can clean up the Capital. But it will be remembered that a brother cavalry officer, Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, had an unhappy experience as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement. The difficulties encountered by Maj. Gen. Butler in his employment of military methods as director of public safety in Philadelphia will also be recalled. But it is technically as a civilian that Gen. Crosby will undertake his new and difficult task. When the London metropolitan police force was so sorely in need of reorganization and a firm hand at the helm, the government not long ago made Gen. Lord Byng its chief administrator. His troubles have been many and he has temporarily retired for recuperation. It is to be hoped that Gen. Crosby will be more successful than these other military men in administering a highly responsible office which involves duties so different in many respects from those of an Army officer.

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE.

Probably most persons who rose early to hear an international radio broadcast of the opening session of the naval conference did so from curiosity, observes the Indianapolis News. Some people got up at what they considered an unearthly hour so they could tell their neighbors that they had heard the King of England talk. It was the first time that the king ever faced a microphone for the purpose of talking to the citizens of America as well as to his own countrymen. Thus the propaganda possibilities of radio became more interesting. The king's speech was broadcast at an unfortunate time, from the American point of view, but the demonstration was satisfactory. It is possible for the head of one country to talk to thousands, and even millions, in another. International broadcasts show the need for a common language. Germany might wish to broadcast a message to the people of France, but the French could not understand German. The same thing is true of other European countries.

THE PARROT.

Oh, lovely bird of plumage gay
What is this news they spread?
Despite the words you've learned to say
You are a thing to dread.

I wonder, parrot, can it be,
As doctors claim to know,
That one so beautiful to see
Can be so harsh a foe?

They say your feathers red and green
Are but a gay disguise,
Where unsuspected and unseen
A deadly poison lies.

Oh, parrot, you but prove again
That what is fair to see
And tempting to the eyes of men
A cruel snare may be.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Last night, when you came off undefeated in a free-for-all argument, one of your friends accused you of being hard-headed.

I expected you to flush with resentment, but you seemed to think it a compliment.

Perhaps it was so intended, but your complacent acceptance of it gives me the duty of calling your attention to the difference between a wise man and a donkey.

The wise man who is right, and knows he is right, must cling to his convictions to preserve his manhood; but it doesn't follow that another man who clings to his convictions is either right or wise.

A proper father will uphold his son in the right, but the father who upholds his son in the wrong is the boy's worst enemy.

In short, stubbornness is not a virtue in itself, and is respectable only when employed in a respectable cause.

The more stubbornly a man defends error, the worse fool he is.

The honor is not in holding your position, but in having the right position to hold.

Youngsters of your age, having learned to think for themselves, nearly always develop pride of opinion; and the habit of defending their opinions frequently develops a belligerent mental attitude that makes the defense seem more important than the opinion itself.

If you develop that mental attitude, you are sunk.

I am not exaggerating. Your mind will grow no more and the future will promise you nothing if you develop the habit of thinking your opinions final.

The world is full of people whose minds haven't grown since they were your age—ignorant, stupid people whose heads are sealed tight to prevent the entrance of a new idea.

They are proud of being hard-headed. They think their stubborn rejection of new ideas is virtue. But the truth is they can't grasp new ideas. They are incapable of seeing a new truth. Long habit has robbed them of the ability to think in new channels.

I think them the most unfortunate and most pitiable of all afflicted creatures.

Would a man long accustomed to looking down be proud of his inability to lift his head? Would a man long accustomed to the roar of machinery be proud of his inability to hear other sounds? Now that you have learned so much in school, would you be proud if you knew you never could learn anything more?

That is the state of "hard-headed" people. They have set a limit to their growth. By developing a satisfied mental state, they have lost the capacity to learn.

There is no greater tragedy, dear. I'd rather have you blind than to have your mind closed. Love,

DAD.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Naval Problems Too Much for This Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For a long time before and ever since the London naval conference I have been seeking a solid viewpoint from which to get wise to what it is all about, but I am now more at sea than ever.

For instance, Secretary Stimson in his recent statement, after an explanatory shifting of British and American battleships and big and little cruisers on the conference-checkerboard, says:

"We have not made proposals to the French and Italians, whose problems are not so directly related to ours that we feel it appropriate at this time to make suggestions to them." A settlement of Italian and of French problems is essential, of course, to the agreement contemplated."

Am I to gather from this that later suggestions to the Italians and French will be easily settled so far as we are concerned? But suppose they are, and suppose that England's diplomats find that her problems are more directly related to those of Italy and France than ours are? Will that make necessary further warship readjustment? Then how about the problems of Japan in relation to the other nations of the big five? And how about the big final problem of world peace as involved in the relationship of these minor problems?

Am I right in assuming that war with England is considered more likely than with other nations and that, as members of the heavyweight class, England and America are merely providing against any unsportsmanlike disparity of fighting bulk? Does the same arrangement hold for France and Italy? Are future scraps between nations to be limited to pugilistic categories?

Honest; it looks to me like a Col. Ruppert and Babe Ruth settlement for the amusement of the fans. But then I guess I was never born to shine as a doctor of diplomacy.

C. R. APPLETON.

Washington of the Future, Reaching From Mount Vernon to the Patuxent, "Some City!"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is, indeed, a fascinating preview which is inspired by John J. Daly's article of last Sunday, commencing The Post predictive series, "What Will Washington Be in 1980?"

On the south old Alexandria, with its colonial antiquities, solidly joined to Washington and solidly built up in the direction of Hunting Creek and beyond, Mount Vernon will be practically a part of the Capital. In addition to the Mount Vernon boulevard, the streets of the city will radiate far into Virginia, and on the Maryland side of the Potomac will connect Potomac Falls with the Patuxent, with a proportionate extension of streets northward.

The Government's building program already has been far enough disclosed to furnish a vivid idea of what will be the magnificence of its development, with the erection of hotels, apartment houses, private dwellings, schools and churches, in their bright setting of monuments, parks, fountains and parterres, keeping pace with that development throughout the widespread city.

In contemplation of all this, I can only exclaim with Mr. Daly, "Say! It will be some town!" And my hope is that I will live to see it.

OLD TIMER.

Chicago Going Ahead With World's Fair for 1933, Broke or No Broke.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Though Chicago may be financially embarrassed, it is going ahead with the world's fair that is to be staged there in 1933. The Windy City is "broke," but its people are not. Chicago held the first really great world's fair nearly 40 years ago, and disregarding the progress made since that time, Chicago hopes that history will repeat itself.

The directors announce that no appropriations will be sought from any city, county, State or Federal legislative body, because by so doing the door is opened wide for politics to enter. In the words of Manager L. R. Lohr, "The minute you tie up by accepting appropriations you have opened wide the door for politics to enter, and politics is not going to enter this fair." The "sesqui" fair at Philadelphia, which was a total failure, was probably caused by politics. Chicago is taking the proper attitude in prohibiting politics from entering into the fair.

The future of the world's fair rests in the hands of Chicago. If the fair to be held in 1933 proves a success, there will probably be others in the future, notwithstanding the general opinion that movies have brought the world's wonders to the people and made fairs obsolete.

Wet Says Drys Employ Better Strategy and Suggests That the Wets Follow the Example.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Being a wet myself I am forced to admit that the wets are stupid.

I admire the drys for one thing. They are shrewd, know what they want and how to go after it.

The latest piece of boneheadedness on the part of the wets is to try to get a repeal vote in Congress on the eighteenth amendment.

With great glee the drys will assist them and then swamp them with votes, with a corresponding decrease in wet prestige.

The wets should concentrate on getting a vote on an amendment to the iniquitous Volstead act. A minor amendment to start, anything as an entering wedge.

This has always been the policy of the drys, carried through with marked success.

Five Cities Employ More People Than Western Half of the Country.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Grundy knew what he was talking about when he told the Western senators about backward States.

ORTIZ RUBIO ATTACK KEEPS NINE IN JAIL

Score Reported Arrested in Inaugural Shooting; Some Are Released.

FLORES' BROTHERS HELD

Mexico City, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Nine persons, including Daniel Flores and two brothers, are under arrest in connection with the attempted assassination of President Ortiz Rubio, Wednesday.

Earlier reports were that nearly a score were held, and it is not known whether some were released when found not to be implicated. Flores, who fired the shots that wounded Ortiz Rubio and grazed his wife and niece, is in prison here, while his brothers are held in San Luis Potosi.

Police say that Flores remains somewhat of an enigma. Little information can be obtained from him, except that he insists he acted independently in the shooting. Agents now are at Charcas, his home, endeavoring to learn his affiliations.

A public statement from Senor Ortiz Rubio today said he hoped to take up his duties soon. Talking through Gen. Augustin Mora, the president said the wound in his jaw was healing. He asked newspapermen to express his deep appreciation for the sympathy shown him from over the world.

The two brothers of Flores and several other persons arrested in San Luis Potosi are being brought to Mexico City under heavy guard for questioning.

Besides Flores, Senorita Guillermina Ruiz, former secretary of the Vasconcellist women's committee, has been held here.

The condition of President Ortiz Rubio was reported to be good tonight.

Zoning Board Discusses Eight-Story Apartments

Discussion of the proposal of the operation building association to amend the zoning regulations to permit eight-story apartment houses where only five stories now are permitted occupied the principal attention of the Zoning Commission at an executive session yesterday. No decision was reached.

The commission refused to change the zoning of the rear 40 feet of a property at Macomb street, Ordway street and Connecticut avenue from 40-foot A residential to 60-foot C area. The change was discussed at the December meeting of the commission, but decision had been delayed.

HOOVER ADAMANT ON CROSBY PROTEST

terday afternoon by the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association. The resolutions referred to the President's intentions as "not in compliance with the spirit of the law."

The association expressed opposition to the appointment of any Army officer, active or retired, to succeed either of the present civilian Commissioners.

The interpretation by newspapers and radio speakers that the appointment of Gen. Crosby is intended as an instrument to "clean up" the National Capital, was severely criticised in a statement by Russell T. Edwards, educational publicity man and director of the educational section of the American Tree Association.

Mr. Edwards declared that the furor over the appointment of Gen. Crosby is bringing a lot of bad advertising for Washington, and recommends that "steps be taken to counteract such absurdity." His complaints are lodged particularly against a humorous song rendered recently by a popular radio entertainer in which Gen. Crosby was painted as the man who is "to wash up Washington and take the permanent out of the crime wave." Mr. Edwards refers to this type of publicity as a "black eye" for business and for the city.

BRAZILIAN OFFICIAL IS WOUNDED IN RIOT

Rio Janeiro. Late dispatches from the town of Corintho reported the death of Moacyr Dolabella.

The political situation was further complicated by reports from Bahia saying that V. Soares, candidate for vice president on the administration ticket for the coming election, is seriously ill and is expected to die.

The wounding of Vice President Mello Vianna is the second political clash that has stirred Brazil during the present preliminary presidential campaign. On December 26 Deputy Souza Filho, of Pernambuco, was shot and killed by Deputy Simoes Lopez, former minister of agriculture, after a violent political discussion in the corridors of the chamber.

Deputy Filho was one of the foremost leaders of the administration group in the chamber, while Deputy Lopez is the chief of the Liberal party's executive committee. Lopez was arrested.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THERE are contrasts, ladies and gentlemen, on every hand and everywhere.

There is the contrast of fall and spring; there is the contrast of the morning and afternoon air.

There is the contrast of day and night; there is the contrast of happiness and despair.

There is the contrast of life and death; the contrast of the poles.

There is the contrast of a well-ordered existence and one that is beset by woes.

INDEED, there are contrasts. They break the monotony of existence, the vista of the eye. They punctuate the monotone of speech; they make for song with first the low notes and then the high.

There are the contrasts of mind that cause so much strife; there are the contrasts of the tongue, some of them controlled and others like a rattling gun.

There is, in fact, no end of contrasts, and one could go on without end.

THERE is the contrast of the moon and the sun, the contrast of the trees and the buildings that one sees in everyday life.

There is the contrast of the mode of living now and 25 years ago; there is the ever-contrasting mode of women's dress.

There is the contrast of the major political parties, though it is hard to discern; there is the contrast just now of Mr. Hoover and Senator Borah, which is a cause of grave Republican concern.

* * * *

THERE is the contrast of the East and the West, so pronounced that it is difficult to keep them under one political tent. There is the contrast of sincerity and pure political bunk.

There are sheer contrasts and slight ones; there are contrasts of words and the multiplication of them.

There is contrast in getting to one's point and rambling along ad lib.

There is the contrast of sense and nonsense—and that, ladies and gentlemen, is what was afforded yesterday by the speeches of Mr. Beck in the House and Mr. J. Thomas Heflin in the Senate.

Joe Opportunity, Himself, Boosts Tomorrow's Post

Campaign Chief of Staff Enumerates Features of Capital's Favorite Newspaper in Sales Talk to Prospective Subscribers and Contest Entrants.

"We didn't see you last evening," remarked a reporter as Old Man Opportunity parked himself on the corner of a desk in the city room.

"No," acknowledged Joe. "I was really too busy last night to come down to the office at all. You see my $20,000 campaign depends upon part-time work and as most candidates have only the evening hours in which to secure subscriptions it calls for considerable night work on my part."

"But I thought your job was accomplished when you had knocked on the doors of candidates," said the reporter.

"Oh, no," replied Opportunity. "That's really where my work begins. After that I have to call on many more thousands of people to apprise them of the Opportunity of securing this newspaper while at the same time helping a friend to secure an automobile or radio without cost."

"The wonderful features to be in Sunday's Post," he continued, "made it even more imperative that I visit nonreaders of this newspaper and tell them about its many superiorities and exclusive articles."

"For instance: In tomorrow's tabloid magazine there will be an article on 'Abraham Lincoln's Home Town,' by Edgar Lee Masters. This is an intimate and illuminating article which lends a touch of intimacy to a subject that is highly appropriate for the week of Lincoln's birthday."

"Then, there is David Rankin Barbee's informative article. This week he tells how the playful gesture of a Californian who bounced a brick off the head of a Filipino has brought to a boil the question that has constantly simmered since the days of McKinley's 'benevolent assimilation.'"

"And every one," he continued, "will love a new feature, edited by Alice Dakin, which recalls the 'good old days' and the major interests of those dear gay 90's, with illustrations and trimmings to match."

"'What will Washington be in 1980?' is the second in a series of forward-looking articles by John J. Daly, setting forth the views of civic leaders as to the probable development of the National Capital. Col. U. S. Grant 3d has provided most of the material for this article," he added. "And of course we must not forget the new installment of 'Dale Plays the Game,' a thrilling romance by Ann Forester; 'The Backstage Jewel Robbery,' by Gretta Palmer; 'Almost Perfect Crimes,' by Joseph Gollomb, nor the concluding article in 'What Is to Be Done About Divorce?' which gives the views of Bertrand Russell."

"Let me remind you, too," said Opportunity, "of the eight pages of colored comics and the distinctive Rotogravure Section. Add this to the quantity and quality of local and world news covered by 'The Capital's Greatest Newspaper.'"

"Wrap it up and I'll take it," interjected a member of the group.

"You don't have to take it," snapped Opportunity. "We deliver it at no added cost, and that gives a carrier boy an 'opportunity' to earn some money."

"I wonder where my assistant, C. D. Chance, is remarked the old man.

"I forgot to tell you," said a copy boy. "He phoned that he would be late as he is disguising his police dog as an airedale. It will take him quite a while as he is cutting off the dog's tail a little piece at a time so that it won't hurt so much."

CHICAGO DECLARES WAR ON CRIMINALS

Merchants Offer Reward of $5,000 for Conviction in Meagher Slaying.

DEMAND OFFICIAL ACTION

Chicago, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Chicago business men stacked $5,000 and a new committee against crime today.

Listening to the story of the crime situation as told behind closed doors by State's Attorney John A. Swanson and William F. Russell, police commissioner, the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce resolved that "the time has come," and took the first two steps of its own campaign to end shooting, bombing and racketeering.

A reward of $5,000 was posted for the arrest and conviction of the attackers of Philip H. Meagher, a construction superintendent, who was critically wounded by gun fire while at work Wednesday.

Appointment of a "committee of citizens of known courage and action" was authorized to study the situation and prepare a definite plan of action to be submitted to the executive body of the association by February 21.

With it's program the executive committee issued a statement observing that Chicago, on a per capita basis, still reposes far down the roster of large American cities in number of serious felonies, but adding:

"Hundreds of indictments without subsequent convictions, countless felonies where no arrests have followed, the almost total failure of responsible agencies to halt bombings and other criminal attacks upon legitimate business, and the attempt during the past few days of paid killers to murder Philip H. Meagher, a Chicago builder of unquestionable reputation and long service to the community, indicate conclusively that the time has arrived when legally responsible authorities must be called upon either to show why they cannot carry out their oath of office, or for the citizens of the city to take steps to assure the maintenance of justice and a definite curtailment of crime."

Byrd Instruments In Sea Hop Found

Barograph Among Articles Discovered in Home of Fisherman.

Ver-Sur-Mer, France, Feb. 7 (A.P.). Gendarmes conducting an investigation in the home of Jules Letot, a fisherman, today discovered several instruments belonging to Rear Admiral Byrd's airplane America, which made a forced landing on the seashore here after crossing the Atlantic in June, 1927.

Among the instruments was a barograph with Admiral Fyrd's initials on it, apparently showing that Byrd and his companions attained an altitude of nearly 15,000 feet during the flight.

Letot asserted that he had found the instruments at low tide on several different occasions. He had had no intention of stealing them, but merely kept them as souvenirs of the landing of the American aviators. He was not arrested.

WHOZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He came to America on the Mayflower.

2. He took a prominent part in the establishment of the colony at Plymouth, Mass., and was magistrate there for many years.

3. In one of Longfellow's better known poems he is cast in the unhappy role of a man who undertakes to plead the cause of another with a woman with whom he is himself in love.

COUZENS APPROVES HIS NEW SON-IN-LAW

son, Frank, and my other son-in-law. They had to make good on their own."

The other son-in-law is William Rumer Yaw, of Detroit, who married Madeleine Couzens.

Senator Couzens met young Chewning for the first time yesterday. The runaway couple had made a quick motor trip here after the bride had learned that her brother Frank was in town on a visit.

The meeting took place in the Senate Office Building. First the bride rushed into her father's arms, and then she introduced her husband.

"He seems to be a very nice young man," the senator said afterward. "However, I want to have a long, long talk with him later on."

Refusing the senator's offer of lunch because the Senate restaurant was "too public," Mr. and Mrs. Chewning went to the Mayflower Hotel. There they went through a rehearsal for the Bachelors Cotillion, which is to take place Monday night, and then journeyed back to the Chewning ancestral home at Fredericksburg, Va.

Will Return Today.

They will return today and probably start buying furniture for their tiny apartment at the Rutland Courts, 1725 Seventeenth street northwest. They rented this before they eloped to Baltimore last Saturday to escape a formal and "messy" wedding.

In an interview with a reporter of The Post in Norfolk last Sunday, Mrs. Chewning said she was going to do without a maid and was going to do all the cooking, sewing and other work herself.

The Chewning apartment is on the fifth floor and overlooks a maze of chimneys, rooftops and aerials.

It consists of one room, kitchen and bath, and has just been newly painted and papered.

Noise is prohibited after 11 o'clock, and cats, dogs and children under 12 are barred.

WOMAN ASKS TRUCE IN CEDAR TREE WAR

Viola Dandridge, Carried Off "Battlefield" Twice, Ready for Rest.

HAD CUTTERS ARRESTED

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Feb. 7.—The "Battle of the Cedars" in this area appeared to be over today, so far as spectacular physical demonstrations were concerned, with a statement from Miss Viola Dandridge, most outstanding of the protesting combatants, that she took it upon herself to "send a flag of truce, accompanied by a herald proclaiming the underlying sanity of mutual understanding and sympathy. I request in the name of the community that 'Armistice Day' be proclaimed in Shepherdstown immediately and also in Morgantown; that the officials in Morgantown be invited to come into our midst with a flag of truce; and I swear us all over to keep the peace, although not exactly having a magistrate's commission to do so, as I am not sure whether I am under arrest at the present time."

Miss Dandridge, who was arrested twice Thursday in her last effort to halt the cutting of cedars on her property by State cedar cutting crews and who was forcibly removed from one tree by the crew and taken from the field twice, added:

"We are really good sports and I am seriously ready to employ every Sunday school scholar I ever tried to bring up in ways of peace and respectability to pull off cedar balls with passionate determination from every cedar in our midst."

It developed today that Miss Dandridge had had the cutting crew arrested Wednesday evening, the day before she made her final stand, for trespass on the ground that she, as a new owner of the Lemen place on which they were to cut trees, had not been warned of the intent to cut. Jefferson County authorities, however, advised the cutters to go ahead.

Miss Dandridge added today that she had no further plans for strenuous physical resistance to the cutting, saying her methods and the attendant publicity had seriously embarrassed some of her very good friends in the cause. The cedar cutting has been carried on under a State law to check the spread of cedar rust to apple orchards.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 6.

How to report the return of a minor is a subject of frequent inquiry. The revenue act specifically provides that every individual that has a net income of $1,500 or over, or $3,500 or over, depending upon his marital status, shall file a return. However, whether the minor has been emancipated—allowed control of his income—by his parents and the source of the minor's income are material factors in determining how the income shall be taxed. Most minors are unemancipated. In such instances, the parent has the legal right to the minor's earnings and must include them in his return.

A minor living in the home of his parent may be emancipated. If the minor pays his board and otherwise supports himself, there is an implied emancipation. The same rule governs if the minor is carrying on a business for himself and the parent exercises no control over his earnings. Emancipation may be expressed or implied, general or limited. However, generally, and in the absence of proof to the contrary, a parent is assumed to have the legal right to the earnings of his minor child, and the minor's earnings are taxable income to the parent.

On the other hand, any income to an unemancipated minor not analogous to earnings, such as interest, dividends, rents, royalties, &c., from a bona fide trust fund or from property possessed by the minor, are not to be included in the parent's return. Instead such income must be reported on a separate return of the minor and be taxed to him as in the case of any individual. The return is to be filed either by the minor, or his parent, or by the trustee of a trust fund in behalf of the minor.

U.S. Church Talked By Presbyterians

General Council Discusses Construction Here of National Shrine.

A committee of the General Council of the Presbyterian Church, together with a selected group of ministers and laymen of Washington, met yesterday at the Willard Hotel to consider the building of a National Presbyterian Church in Washington. Considerable discussion centered around the contemplated national church and its connection with the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Joseph Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Church, spoke on the "Place of the National Church in Washington." Others who were heard included Dr. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago; Dr. Charles Erdman, of Princeton, N. J.; Dr. William H. Taylor, of Rochester, N. Y.; Dr. Beatty Jennings, of Philadelphia, and Dr. William Foulkes, of Newark, N. J., chairman of the committee.

This first conference on the subject adjourned following a lengthy consideration of the advisability of the plan, postponing all action until a future meeting.

TOLL IN MINE BLAST STANDS AT 20 DEAD

Nine of 29 Trapped in Depths Escape Deadly Fumes From Gas.

FIVE RESCUED BY CREWS

Salt Lake City, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Twenty dead was the definitely established toll tonight of the gas explosion in the mine of the Standard Coal Co. at Standardville, Utah.

Nine of the 29 men in the mine when the explosion occurred last night, survived. Five were rescued by crews today and the other four escaped last night. The five taken out today had bratticed themselves from gas fumes, and had left notes directing their rescuers where to find them. Two of the rescued, M. H. Clelland and B. A. Johnson, were in a hospital suffering from the effects of the gas, but were expected to recover.

Explanation of the explosion advanced by members of rescue crews is that a pocket of carbon monoxide gas became ignited by spontaneous combustion.

Bodies of the dead were removed to Price, Utah.

Many of the dead in last night's disaster were married men with large families.

Offers of aid poured in on them today, but Gov. George H. Dern expressed the belief that it would not be needed, since the State's workingmen's compensation fund would care for their wants for some weeks to come. The Carbon County Chapter of the Red Cross had a representative on the scene to arrange for necessary relief.

One aspect of the tragedy stood out today with peculiar vividness. That was the realization, with the discovery of Frank Pritchett among the little company that had erected a barricade against the deadly mine gas, that his brother, T. E. Pritchett, had sacrificed his own life in a useless effort to find him among the menacing fumes.

T. E. Pritchett was among the fortunate few who escaped last night. He reentered the workings to seek his brother. He was among the dead discovered in the mine today.

Andy Doherty, pump boss, might also have been in that number had it not been for a friendly pool of water. Rescuers came across Doherty, who, overcome by the fumes, had fallen face downward, but they were prevented by the gas from approaching him. When they reached him later they found the water had protected his life.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

To stand a car anywhere on the street or public highway constitutes parking in the sense given that term by the traffic regulations.

It does not matter whether there is some one at the wheel. The regulations simply mean that standing the car where parking is prohibited is a violation of the law.

Example: A driver halts for a few minutes where a sign at the curb reads "No parking at any time." He keeps his engine running in the belief that he is not parked if he is prepared to move. This gesture does not relieve him from the penalty for having broken the regulations.

Westfield, Mass., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Three young children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dorman lost their lives today when fire swept through the small five-room house in which they had been left by their mother, who had gone to a neighbor's to use the telephone.

They ranged in age from 4 months to 3 years.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ANSWERING critics, Gen. J. G Harbord told the Senate committee that the R. C. A. has more than 50,000 telegraph customers and hundreds of thousands daily use its devices in the entertainment field. "Not one of these has appeared before you to complain of the treatment he has received," the general declared. "Not one will likely appear."

Take it from Vernon Bartlett, chief commentator of the British Broadcasting Corporation, the naval parley is secret.

"It is the most secretive affair since the peace conference," he remarked, "whose secrecy we surely don't want to follow as an example."

THE radio revealed this week the change that has taken place in the voice of a great singer. Even in her heyday there were those who questioned her singing qualities, but surely all grounds for controversy are now past.

Are the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture interests of New York and Los Angeles going in for radio? This question was raised when, among others, Louis B. Myer had as his dinner guests W. D. L. Starbuck, radio commissioner for the Eastern zone; Harold Lafount, commissioner for the Pacific Coast zone, and T..ad Brown, of Ohio, general counsel of the Radio Commission, who is gainin" quite a name for himself as a go-getter when anybody wants anything at the commission.

The orchestra of Station KUKU (burlesque from WJZ) made history when it finished Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

THE rivalry between the two chains inspires all sorts of stunts. Harry C. Butcher, Washington representative of Columbia, who, on Lincoln's Birthday, will for the first time place a microphone in the house where Lincoln died, conceived the idea of broadcasting the Washington's Birthday exercises direct from Mount Vernon.

However, Butcher had to back down on this when he found it would cost $7,000 to install the wire and pick-up facilities.

M. H. Aylesworth, president of the three-year-old National Broadcasting Co., is now supposed to receive $75,000 a year salary.

DURING her radio skit somebody asked Fannie Brice what kind of a doctor her family had.

"When my little brother has the whooping cough," she replied, "our doctor says to my mother, 'Cheer-op,' and when my sister has the measles he says, 'Cheer-op.' So I suppose he is a 'Cheer-op-odist.'"

We extend our thanks and appreciation for the many enthusiastic comments on the contest which the bridgers of this city have made and invite all the people of this city to read Mr. Work's bridge articles which appear daily in this paper. There is a wealth of bridge interest and information in each day's release. If you haven't the Milton C. Work daily bridge article habit, form it now and read Mr. Work's article every day for instruction, entertainment and information.

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

Because of space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy the intense interest in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48-page booklet entitled, "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written up Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced text books, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps, to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored. Address: Milton C. Work, care Washington Post, Washington, D. C.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

THE following practical hints are taken from "Building the Baby" by Carolyn Van Blarcom.

To cure chafing: Clean the chafed areas well. If they are very raw this can be done satisfactorily with cold cream, thus avoiding the action of water on the thin, raw, tender skin. After cleansing and drying expose the chafed area to sunlight and air. The drying effect of air is beneficial. Sunlight is even more so.

To make acidified milk: Heat whole milk until it begins to boil. Remove the scum or pellicle which forms on the surface. Cool. Add lemon juice or pure lactic acid, drop by drop, actively all the time. The result is a thick liquid filled with fine curds. The amount of acid to use is 1 teaspoon of lactic acid or 1 to 3 teaspoons of lemon juice. Other acids such as orange juice, vinegar or even mineral acids can be substituted for lemon juice or lactic acid. Manufacturers make an acidified milk powder. This is composed of milk acidified as above and then evaporated to a powder.

In Miss Van Blarcom's book there is no reference to the addition of lime water to milk. This one time popular addition to the baby's milk has been pretty well abandoned. Acidified milks have replaced the alkaline product. Vegetable juices can be used to replace orange juice in the dietary of a young baby.

To make vegetable juice: Chop the vegetable into small bits with a meat chopper. Add an equal quantity of cold water. Let stand for a few minutes. Crush the vegetables. This can be done with a potato masher. Place the mixture of chopped mashed vegetables and water in a cheesecloth bag. Squeeze out the juice. In using vegetable juices, including tomato juice, the quantity given per day must be twice that of orange juice.

Canned tomato juice can be used instead of juice from fresh tomatoes. The mixtures to be fed a baby depend on the size and age of the child and his peculiarities and are best determined by a physician of experience in baby feeding.

Miss Van Blarcom makes the following general suggestions:

Start giving the baby orange juice and cod liver oil at 1 month of age. Thin cereal at 3 months. Yolk of egg and strained vegetable soup at 5 months. Cereals, zwieback and vegetable pulp well mashed at 6 months. Liver at 7 months. Beef juice, toast, baked potato and strained prunes at 8 months. Scraped beef and crisp bacon at 10 months. Undiluted milk at 11 months. Soft boiled or coddled eggs and soup with rice or macaroni at 12 months.

SUGGEST A FATTY TUMOR.

T. Y. writes: I am 21 years of age and in good condition but there has developed on my head a small lump which has me worried. It seems to be movable to the touch.

What has caused it and how can I get rid of it?

I have heard of several people who had similar lumps on their heads and they seem to get bigger as time goes on.

Are they hereditary? My grandmother has two of them.

REPLY.

If the lump is fatty it is not dangerous. Your description suggests a fatty tumor. There may be an element of heredity. However, since there are lumps and lumps—some as innocent as a baby and some as deadly as an automobile—you should learn what kind you have.

WHAT DEMENTIA PRAECOX IS.

D. R. writes:

1. Can a person have dementia praecox without mental deterioration? Intellect seems unaltered, but has morbid fears.

2. What is dementia praecox?

REPLY.

1. Yes. There are minds of the praecox type who fit into society moderately well and for many years.

2. According to Stedman's dictionary it is "progressive mental weakness tending to dementia occurring especially in adolescents."

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:50 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger period is from 2 p. m. to 3:40 p. m.

Success will be spelled with capital letters on this date and you will touch things with a magic hand. Young people are especially favored by astrological influences and romantic affairs will turn out well. It is a most auspicious time to seek favors.

A child born on this February 8 will be very talkative, full of energy and vivacious. It will like to take an active part in everything and will never play the role of "wall-flower." It will be companionable, affectionate and kindly.

You are both witty and caustic and possess great insight into the actions and motives of human nature. You, as a student, profess a philosophy all your own, and, as time goes by, are apt to become cynical. To avoid this tendency, it behooves you to seek the sunshine of human character, rather than the drab aspects.

While bubbling over with good ideas, you lack the necessary self-assertiveness and push to put them into execution. You are afraid, in many instances, "to take the tide at its flood." You possess great imagination, but apparently suffer from an inferiority complex, which makes you see all the difficulties and none of the "ways out."

Your character is a sterling one, and your word is as dependable as your bond. Your nature is sympathetic and tolerant. Distress always makes a strong appeal to you—and never in vain. The emotional side of you is well developed, and though you are neither gushing nor mushy, you feel very keenly, and are not ashamed to display your feelings. Home life—with its congenial and natural atmosphere—is very dear to you, and if your mate were born in May or August, great felicity and pleasing palship may be safely anticipated.

Successful people born February 8:

James W. Webb—Journalist; one of the founders of Whig party.

Edwin D. Morgan—Merchant; one of the war governors of New York.

William T. Sherman—Federal general.

Richard W. Gilder—Author; editor of the Century Magazine.

John Clayton Gifford—Forester.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

MILK FOR THE OLDER CHILD.
(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

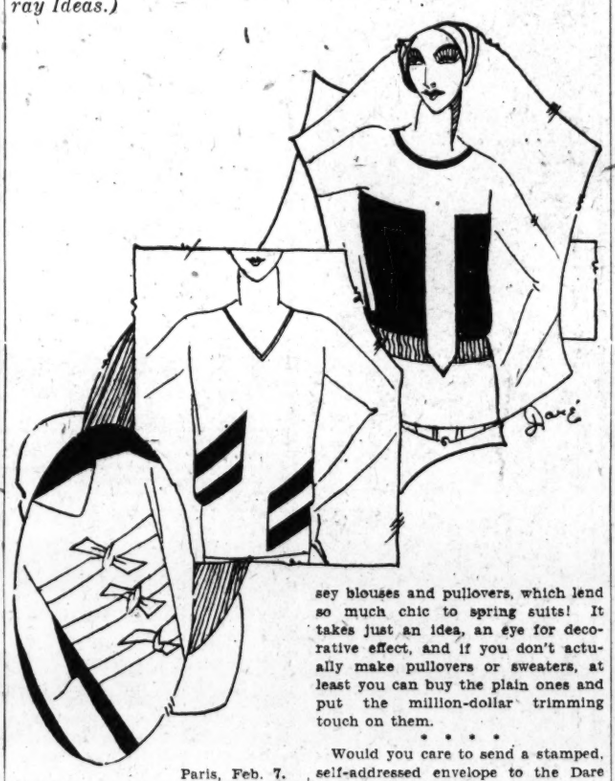
Concerning the nourishment of children over 2 years of age two things can be stated absolutely: First, milk is an essential food for their proper growth and development; and, second, the milk should be clean, fresh whole milk. Every child is better and more cheaply nourished if he is given clean, fresh, whole milk, either as a drink or in the cooked food in his daily diet. The value of milk for children lies in its richness in calcium and in vitamin A, and in the superior quality of its proteins.

A quart of whole milk every day is now considered the "optional" amount for the best development of bones and teeth in the average normal child. A pint and a half of whole milk every day is the least amount thought necessary for adequate nourishment of a child from 18 months to 12 years of age when the rest of the diet is balanced.

If good raw milk or Pasteurized milk from a reliable dairy can not be obtained, canned milk, either dried or evaporated (unsweetened condensed) should be used. If canned milk is used it should be used relatively soon after canning, and the original milk should be fresh, clean and of good quality. This can best be assured by purchasing it from a reliable firm.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Slip-ons, pull-overs and jackets are chic for spring! (Dahray Ideas.)



Paris, Feb. 7.

WE speak of them so often you must be sick of hearing about sweaters, blouses and jackets . . . and how smart they are and how practical and how economical and how . . . well, everything.

'N just about when we think there couldn't possibly be another jacket and sweater suit on earth, we view a Jane Regny collection and see the most delightful sweater suits, and fancy little tweed suits with jersey blouses, and sweaters and pullovers of every description. 'N then we call on the Maison David to chercher something for the "Present Interest," who inadvertently has a birthday at this off moment, and there we are shown the very "latest" in sports wear for ladies—and find our familiar and beloved sweater suits.

At Louiseboulanger's, Heim's, Drecoll-Beer, and we don't know how many others you can find sweater suits for spring.

By the way, do you know what a sweater suit is? Don't be discouraged if you don't, because I don't think any one else does either—almost every kind of sports suit with jacquette or vestee of any knitted material is called a "sweater suit!" Actually you would call any kind of sports suit, consisting of separate jacket and skirt and any but a linen or crepe de chine blouse, a "sweater suit."

• • • •

And they are quite easy to make, these awfully smart sweaters and jersey blouses and pullovers, which lend so much chic to spring suits! It takes just an idea, an eye for decorative effect, and if you don't actually make pullovers or sweaters, at least you can buy the plain ones and put the million-dollar trimming touch on them.

• • • •

Would you care to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for eight million-dollar trimming ideas for spring jackets and sweaters? They're all waiting for you in this week's illustrated leaflet, my dear. Adorable slip-ons, pullovers, jackets—a way to "smarten" and still make more snug a sweater that has lost its shape—a darling bolero idea—well, these and a lot of other awfully smart sports suit gadgets are in the leaflet. You won't be sorry if you send for it!

The Couturier.

There used to be two famous Paris couturiers, one Drecoll and the other Beer. And then, as you should know by this time, if you are an ardent Dare fan, they merged and became the house of Drecoll-Beer—and now they are pronounced "dray-coll beer."

• • • •

Some odd sweater suit ideas are illustrated for you today if you feel inclined to copy them.

• • • •

We just couldn't live without an adorable red leather traveling case six inches square, containing—what do you think? Not only the usual cosmetics and lotions but also shampoos and a tiny electric battery. Oh wise and lovely lady, who realizes that no party is worth the candle if she must neglect her loveliness!

• • • •

And here's the reminder to look in The Washington Post's big Sunday edition tomorrow for the weekly Dare fashion letter.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

NOTED guests from the film colony have been the rule of the week in the Capital.

On Wednesday, as previously reported in this column, Louis B. Mayer, vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in charge of production, was registered at the Mayflower, ostensibly to sign Grace Moore to an M-G-M contract for the third or fourth time.

Contemporaneously with Mr. Mayer's visit to Connecticut avenue, Mr. and Mrs. John Barrymore (Dolores Costello) were at the Carlton, although few enough were aware of the fact, because these shrewd and much-pestered celebrities were crafty enough to register under their real names of Mr. and Mrs. John Blythe.

No sooner had the others left town than William Fox arrived at the Willard, looking fit as a couple of fiddles and a bass viol, despite the hectic experiences of the last few weeks in the chambers of Judge Coleman in the Woolworth Building, New York, where Fox financing has been the topic of white-hot discussion.

Speaking of Fox, John McCormack's first Movietone picture, now completed, has finally been given the presumably permanent title of "Song o' My Heart," after having been known throughout the period of production as "I Hear You Calling Me."

Ten songs are sung by the famous tenor during the action of his first screen subject, including "I Hear You Calling Me," "A Story by the Fire," "Just a Corner of Heaven to Me" and "Little Boy Blue."

Winfield Sheehan, in charge of Fox production, announces a New York premiere for Monday, March 17, although no theater has been definitely decided upon.

And that reminds me. "Song o' My Heart" is one of several Fox pictures planned for spring release in which extensive use has been made of the new "Foxcolor" process, exclusively developed and controlled by this company.

For several years Fox Films, Inc., has been experimenting with its color process, which is now said to be perfected. At least, development has been sufficient to warrant the establishment of two color laboratories, one in Hollywood and one in New York, for the exclusive production of Foxcolor prints. Just as Fox was the pioneer in outdoor sound production, so, it is claimed, will it be in blazing a trail to new uses of color.

From Horace Heidt, who, with his Californians, recently scored as great a local success as any novelty orchestra ever heard in the Capital:

"Just a line to let you know that we have just arrived safely in Paris and also to express to you my sincere appreciation of your interest in my boys. We have never played any city in our lives where the people were so kind, and the engagement will always remain in memory as our most enjoyable. Believe me, it is our one wish to play there again on our return.

"We have been working awfully hard on a series of new numbers. One, a harmonica band, has proved quite successful.

"Please accept our best wishes, and if we're lucky enough to do any good for ourselves in Paris, will let you know. Sincerely (signed),

"HORACE HEIDT."

I should have appreciated a word as to the health of Lobo, the scholarly police dog!

In person a week from today at the Earle it will be Little Jack Little, the radio favorite, made famous through Station WLW, Cincinnati.

Jack Connolly, European manager of Fox Movietone News, home on one of his periodic flying visits, is lunching at the Press Club today with a batch of old cronies. Mrs. Connolly and all of the two little Connollys remained in Paris, where they are probably having lunch, too.

John J. Payette, general manager for the Warner Bros. in Washington; Fallas Broche, manager of the Metropolitan Theater, and Stephen L. Elbacher, manager of the Tivoli, have their pictures in the February 1 issue of the Exhibitors' Herald-World, published in Chicago.

Howard Hughes, the youthful Croesus whose "Hell's Angels" has not yet been released after three years of production effort, is dickering with First National for the purchase of Billie Dove's contract, which still has three years to run.

Loretta Young and Grant Withers have decided not to be talked out of their recent marriage by Loretta's irate parents or anybody else.

"Come, come, darling, eat the pretty spinach, and mamma'll take you to a movie!"

Wives of Tomorrow

"A Soldier in Love."

DEAR Miss McDonald: I have been a reader of your column for quite a while, but never had any cause to write you until I went home a few days ago. I am in the Army. Some people do not like a soldier because some of them fall so low at times, but I am not a soldier of that kind. I went home a few days ago to see the girl I love. She "loves me with al her heart," she says, but she lets another fellow come to see her and he gave her a pretty watch for a token of love. She accepted it, and has given him quite a few dates since that. Do you think I should still write her and go home to see her—or just quit? I love her and I don't think I could give her up. I will appreciate your advice.

SOLDIER TRUE TO HIS LOVE.

Well, now, if I were a soldier it seems to me I would not run away or even walk away from the very first problem life handed me, especially if that problem concerned the one I loved.

You know war and love are very near kin, and very, very much alike. There is the glamour to camouflage the real picture, there is the chance to win and the chance to lose, there is the likelihood of being hurt badly or coming out a hero with a lot of glory that is soon over with, and the years and years ahead to remember. You are an expert on war, so you should not waver in sight of love. Just go in and find out what it is all about. The girl may love you, or she may love wrist watches. She may have used the wrist watch to let you know that there existed such a custom as the presentation of gifts to young women. One never knows what is in the mind of a fair one who displays the gifts of one lover to the gaze of another. But one would be safe to guess that she might be bent upon a gentle hint, or intent upon inspiring jealousy.

Now neither one of these motives reflects any vast degree of credit upon the lady fair, but such things have been known to work. Sometimes a lover, after such a hint, has been known to sally forth to the jewelers and return forthwith carrying a small velvet box. Sometimes he just sallies forth and does not return at all. Sometimes he writes to the newspaper, and sometimes he turns woman-hater.

Is this girl of yours worth the effort you must make to understand and win her? If she is—go to it. If all of her motives are on a par with the wrist-watch incident; if she is just a shallow little thing out to accumulate a few cheap trinkets and a few cheap love affairs, then stick to soldiering and forget her. But do not give up because of another man. Be a soldier!

CHECK PAYMENTS DROP, SAYS REPORT

Statement Shows Cotton Receipts Were Larger Than Previous Week's.

LINOTYPE STOCK RISES

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Check payments continued to recede during the week ended February 1, and were also smaller than for the corresponding week of 1929, the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce showed yesterday. Receipts of wheat and cattle were also smaller than during the previous week, wheat receipts also being smaller than a year ago.

Receipts of cotton and hogs, however, were larger than during the previous week, hog receipts being substantially greater than for the corresponding week of 1929. Movement of goods through primary channels as reflected by freight carloadings during the latest reported period continued below the corresponding week of last year. The general index of wholesale prices declined from the previous week and was also below the corresponding week a year ago.

U. S. Income Totals $90,000,000,000.

Income of the people of the United States in the aggregate now is at least $90,000,000,000 annually, the Lincoln National Bank's review of business issued yesterday reveals.

"For 1929," the review states, "it is believed the figure will approach $95,000,000,000 when all data are tabulated. This is because of the extraordinary activity of business and industry during most of the year which sent the totals of wage payments, interest and dividend disbursements, and business earnings to new high levels for all time.

"The increase for the most part, however, is a continuation of the steady process of growth which has expanded the national income more than 200 per cent in two decades. The income received by the American people in 1909 totaled approximately $29,600,000,000, according to studies made by the National Bureau of Economic Research. By 1919 the aggregate rose to $65,900,000,000. For 1928 it is placed at $89,400,000,000. On a per capita basis the share of each person in the country increased from $295 in 1909 to $745 in 1928."

FAIR STOCK MARKET SEES RAILS ADVANCE

Prices in Other Sections Are Divergent and Vacillating.

DUPONT LOSES GROUND

New York, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The stock market was rather jumpy today, reflecting indecision on the part of professional traders. Rails gave the best account of themselves in weeks, generally reaching new peak levels for 1930, but price trends in other sections of the list were vacillating and divergent. Trading was of moderate proportions, total sales falling short of 3,400,000 shares.

The reduction in the New York rediscount rate, announced late yesterday, inspired more profit taking than buying, as did the reduction in the Bank of England rate in the previous session. Traders were inclined to feel that both the improved business and credit situations had been amply discounted for the moment in the marked recent rise, and were disposed to test the present levels before launching any further bull campaigns.

Although the latest freight car loadings reports have not been particularly cheering, the prospect of further progress in rail consolidation in the comparatively near future, announcement of a 4-for-1 split-up in Canadian Pacific, and the fact that the rails have participated but slightly in the recent market advance, caused a diversion of bullish attention to this group, when the market turned stale in other sections.

Retail and Wholesale Trade Lags.

The week-end mercantile and business reviews indicated that conditions remain rather spotty, despite the progress that has been made toward recovery in steel and some other important lines. Dun's, however, pointed out that these are "phases which are natural to periods of economic transition." Both retail and wholesale trade continued to lag, due in part to unfavorable weather.

The lower Reserve Bank rate had the natural consequence of further easing in credit conditions, call money renewed at 4 per cent for the second time in two years and held at that figure. Time money eased moderately. There were no changes in commercial paper rates, but it is expected that prime names will be quoted as low as 4½ per cent by next week. Institution of a 4 per cent rediscount rate at Chicago, and reductions from 5 to 4½ at Cleveland, Minneapolis and Dallas were in keeping with the trend.

Canadian Pacific was the buoyant feature of the market, shooting up more than 18 points to 220¼, a new high for the year, although it sold above 265 last year. Chesapeake & Ohio, Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson, New York Central, Norfolk & Western and Union Pacific, were among issues rising 1 to 4 points to new 1930 tops.

Stone & Webster Strong.

Some of the utilities were strong for a time, notably Stone & Webster, and its affiliate, Engineers Public Service, which mounted 6 and 4 points to new tops for the year, although most of these gains were lost before the close. American Can, American Bosch, American Tobacco B, and Mack Truck were other shares to meet with strong buying. Gillette rallied sharply in short covering prompted by an optimistic statement from the management, contradicting disconcerting rumors, which have been circulated of late.

Simmons continued under pressure, dropping about 5 points to a new low for the movement at 72. Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Columbian Carbon, DuPont, General Electric, Paramount and Western Union were among issues closing about 2 to 5 points lower. Industrial Rayon dropped 6 points to a new low for the year at 101. U. S. Steel closed a point lower.

Commodities were irregular, with cotton again dropping sharply. Closing quotations were about 83 a bale lower, making a loss of $12 in the past three weeks. Wheat moved over a wide range, but closed fractionally higher, helped by a bullish Farm Board statement and smaller Argentine exports. Corn also closed firm.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease, but sterling cables held steady at $4.86½.

$12,000,000 IN SALES SEES BONDS CLIMB

Busiest Day in 1930 Marked by Advances in Rails and Utilities.

INDUSTRIALS ARE FIRM

New York, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The ease in money which accompanied the reduction in the Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate was a favorable factor in today's bond market and prices moved moderately higher in the busiest session of the year. Sales crossed the $12,000,000 mark, nearly half a million above yesterday's total.

Time funds were quoted at 4½ per cent for the short maturities and 4¾ flat for the longer dates. These figures represented declines of about ¼ per cent. In response to this trend in interest charges, United States Government securities traded actively, but finished with some irregularity. The Fourth Liberty Loan sold off an eighth on the day, while the Liberty 3½s and the Treasury 4¼s of 1943-47 made tiny fractional advances.

First grade rails and the utilities had an upward trend, but the features of the domestic list were provided by some of the secondary carrier obligations. Seaboard Air Line issues were buoyant and very active, making gains of 2 to 2¾ points on the rise in the shares. Seaboard All Florida 6s, series B, shot up 8 points and the "A's" rose 3. Florida East Coast 5s were also strong, climbing 3¾ points. St. Paul, Denver & Rio Grande Western, Erie and Missouri Pacific listings reflected persistent accumulation.

Southern Railway Advances.

The $2,000,000 offering of Louisville & Nashville Railroad bonds was quickly oversubscribed. Activity in the listed rails of investment caliber embraced Canadian National 5s, Burlington 4½s, Great Northern 7s, New Haven 4½s, Pennsylvania generals 4½s, West Shore 4s and the Southern Railway group, all of which held firm.

Several of the utilities moved briskly in extensive trading. American Telephone 5s of 1965 crossed 101 and the 1960 maturity rose ¾. Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s and Western Union gold 5s were other favorites, the latter turning over to the extent of $130,000, principal amount, and losing a shade on the day. Utah Power & Light 5s were firm despite the announcement of an additional issue scheduled to appear next week.

The industrials were rather neglected and ruled steady. Chile Copper 5s, Goodrich 6½s, Goodyear 5s, Lorrillard 7s and Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s exhibited some vitality, but net changes proved to be inconsequential.

French 7½s Active.

It was another busy day for the French Republic bonds. The 7½s rallied half a point, but were unable to hold the gain and had a small net loss. A $200,000 block of these bonds changed hands, swelling the day's volume to about $670,000, par value. The 7s lost ⅜.

Other popular European loans were rather dull and there was evidence of minor profit taking from the recent advance, apparently on switching operations to domestic issues. British 5½s lost ½. Sweden 5½s gained the same amount.

With attention turning to bonds of more seasoned types, the stock privilege division was quiet. The American Telephone 4½s moved in good volume, selling up a point and then turning downward to close ⅛ lower. Both of the Alleghany 5s advanced a point.

W. & L. RELAY IN NEW YORK TONIGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 7.—Washington and Lee's crack mile relay team, champions for several years in Southern competition, left here tonight for New York, where it will enter a special invitation triangular race tomorrow in the famous Millrose meet at Madison Square Garden. Prior to leaving Coach Forest Fletcher had not fully made up his mind as to the make-up of his foursome, and carried extra men, expecting to study his individuals' condition after their arrival in New York.

The absence of Leigh Williams, star quarter-miler of the Generals, who has hit the tape in 49 seconds in both State and national events during his two years of competition, will probably be felt, but Williams' worth to the basket ball team, which faces a Southern Conference opponent here in Sewanee, together with the availability of high-class reserve material for the relay combination, made athletic authorities decide to hold him here this week-end.

Three Members of 1929 Team Available.

From last year's indoor quartet, which took second place in the same race in 1929, finishing behind Yale and ahead of Columbia, Fletcher has available Capt. Sandifer, Sheppard and Dickey. Ed Backus, captain of the 1929 combine, is the only man missing from last year's list of entries, and the battle for his position lies between Broderick, Dickey and Finklestein.

Sandifer appears a certainty to start at No. 1 position, where he ran in 1929, while either Sheppard or Broderick will likely be anchor man. The battle for the intermediate positions will not be finally decided until a short while before the race.

Dartmouth and Harvard will be Washington and Lee's opponents in the race this year, it has been announced.

Duke Five Battles N. C. Staters Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Feb. 7.—Armed with a new offensive and a fighting spirit, Duke will invade State College's home town tomorrow night and attempt to repeat what it has done once this season—take the Terrors for a ride.

However, that first ride of the season done here in the Duke gymnasium was as entertaining for one side as it was for the other. First Duke was ahead, then State, and the lead shifted throughout the first half. During the second period of play Duke took a lead that could not be headed and won by a 4-point margin.

That 4-point margin has been forgotten. Some attempt to give Duke an edge, but the Devils refuse to take it. They contend that the first game was anybody's game until the last gunshot and that the tilt tomorrow night likely will be the same way.

The game means a lot to Duke. If the Devils win the game with State and the following one with Davidson at Charlotte Monday night, the Big Five bunting will come to Durham for a rest, in all probability.

Randolph-Macon Wins Two Games on Trip

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., Feb. 7.—The Randolph-Macon Academy basket ball team under Capt. R. W. Garner, returned last night from their annual tour of the Valley of Virginia, playing three games and winning two.

They played Fishburne Military School, in Waynesboro, Monday night, winning with a score of 24 to 21. Flohr, Randolph-Macon's center was the outstanding player in this game.

On Tuesday night they met the strong team of Augusta Military Academy and defeated the team with a score of 26 to 21. The team played the Staunton Military Academy last night, losing that game.

The Randolph-Macon Cadets will be in action on the home court again Saturday night, when they will play the second game of the season with Daleville College. They defeated Daleville here in December.

Busy Season Planned For Tarheel Fencers

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Feb. 7.—The University of North Carolina Fencing Team, claimants to the Southern title last year, are planning an ambitious schedule for the winter and early spring. Tentative matches have been scheduled already with Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama, who also claimed the Conference title last year, and the Tarheels, led by Capt. Hinkey Hendlin, national junior champion, are lustily challenging every team in sight. Steps are being taken meanwhile to get fencing recognized as an intercollegiate sport at the university.

The principal question in the past has always been whether campus interest in fencing was sufficient to justify an intercollegiate team. A January novice tournament, won by W. G. Lowry, drew a participation of 50 men, and did much to dispel that doubt. The sport has definitely been placed on the calendar for intramural competition and it is hoped that the athletic council soon will pass favorably on the proposition to make it a varsity sport. Another tournament is to be held soon, and those in charge are expecting a participation of at least 100. A woman's fencing team for university coeds, which would be the first in the South, is also planned.

Horace Franklin Smith, Sportsman, Dies at 81

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Death today closed the career of Horace Franklin Smith, 81, who rose from the ranks to an enviable position among railroad executives and to a place of prominence in sporting circles of the South.

Mr. Smith, senior vice president of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway and president of the Southern Golf Association, which he helped organize, died at his home helped organize, died at his home of bronchitis, suffered about ten days ago.

His twenty-fifth anniversary as president of the Southern Golf Association was celebrated at Nashville during the Southern tournament last June.

Mr. Smith had served as president of the Belle Meade Country Club and the Nashville Golf and Country Club. He also was a member of the Hermitage Club.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence tomorrow afternoon. The body will be sent to Louisville, leaving here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Burial will be in Louisville Cemetery at Louisville Sunday morning.

SPARTANS SEEK GAME.

The Spartan Athletic Club 100-pounders are seeking games with A. A. U teams. Manager Jaffe is arranging the schedule at Adams 8230.

VA., TARHEEL RING BOUTS TONIGHT

Varsity, Frosh Teams Furnish Double-Header Card.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 7.—Members of Virginia's varsity and freshman boxing teams held their final workouts this afternoon in preparation for the double-header with the leather-pushers from the University of North Carolina, to be staged tomorrow night in Memorial Gymnasium. This event, the biggest card on the midwinter sports program, promises to attract a crowd of over 3,000 fight fans from all over Virginia.

Crayton Rowe, coach of the Tarheels, has six veterans back from last year's squad and a flashy heavyweight, Bill Koenig, hefty all-State tackle, who has turned punch-and-jab man in his senior year and promises to be the sensation of the season. He stands 6 feet 2, and carries 190 pounds.

Despite a mediocre showing to date, Virginia undergraduates have a feeling that the bouts tomorrow night will be close. In the 115-pound class, Wright, a newcomer, will face Evan Vaughan, veteran Carolina bantam, who was unable to compete against the V. M. I Cadets last week-end, due to a severe cold.

Sheffield-Fishburne Meet In Feather Class.

In the featherweight match the Tarheel representative will be Harry Sheffield, who will oppose Jack Fishburne, local 125-pounder, who was kept out of the Florida match here last Monday.

Capt. Bob Rainey, Cavalier lightweight, who has rested up for a fortnight, will be pitted against Noah Goodridge, another veteran of the Tarheel squad. This bout promises to be a thriller.

Capt. Archie Allen, Carolina's welterweight champion, will be opposed by Carter Myers, who did not appear against Florida, while the middleweight match will bring together Obie Davis, of Carolina, who defeated West, of the V. M. I. team, and McHugh, a new member of the Cavalier squad.

John Warren, veteran light-heavy and brother of the famous Add Warren, who turned professional, will be matched against Gentry, of Virginia, who has had two victories to his credit this season.

Big Bill Koenig, Carolina grid star, will appear in the unlimited class against Webb, who has yet to win a match this season.

Goldstein Unbeaten With Frosh Team.

Virginia is counting on a victory in the freshman boxing contest. Outstanding members of the Virginia first-year team are Bobby Goldstein, featherweight, formerly of McKinley High, Washington, D. C., who has a clean slate for the season, and Payne, middleweight champion while a student at Augusta Military Academy. Other promising boxers on the squad are Barber, Williams and Nunnally.

Virginia Frosh Bow To Tome Swimmers

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 7.—Tome's swimming team, undefeated this season, registered its seventh consecutive victory here this afternoon, defeating Virginia's first year tank men, 45 to 21.

The Port Deposit lads captured first place in every event.

Marshall Five Plays Salem Team Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

Huntington, W. Va., Feb. 7.—The Marshall quintet which has been setting fast pace for the conference championships will meet the Salem Five here tomorrow night in their second engagement of the season. In the former encounter the Big Green came out victorious and the Salem crew will be out, not only to wreck the title hopes of the Herd, but also for revenge.

The Salem Team has been shifted around considerably since the first meeting of the Herd and Tigers, and the Upstaters hope to present a much stronger combination here Saturday. The Salem mentor has unearthed some sophomore talent that he may start against the Herd.

There will be practically no change in the Green and White line-up when it goes against the former conference champs.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 7.—Episcopal High School Basket Ball Team will journey to Charlottesville to meet the fast Augusta Military Academy Five on the University of Virginia court tomorrow night in a preliminary to the college game. Coach Flemming has been drilling his boys at top speed and has left no stones unturned for this game, as it will have a large bearing on the State prep school title. After three defeats, the Cherry and Black Team will endeavor to get back in the win column. Eight players, manager and coach will make the trip to Charlottesville, Va.

The Pirate Athletic Club, which disbanded in 1927, will have a meeting Monday night to reorganize for the coming baseball season. Officers will be elected and other important matters will be discussed. The following are expected to be present: Lee, Wells, Jefferies, Fitton, Deavers, Whalen, Jones, Potter, Lynch, Cator, Hamilton, Giles, Breil, Scott, Sherwood, Padgett, Schreiner, Cardwell, Lyons, Violette, Hammersley, Thomas, Carter, Collum, Lucas, Munford, Foltz, Cockrell, Horne, Evans, Culver, Burton, Smith and Quigley.

The St. Mary's Celtics Basketers will play their first game in the Washington Independent League here Saturday night when they take on the fast United Typewriter Grays Team from Washington.

Bun Hull, formerly from Hagerstown, Md., was elected manager of the Alexandria Gazette Baseball Team at a meeting held last night to discuss plans for the coming season. The Scribes have had a baseball team for the past three years and have met with fair success.

The girls' bowling teams from this city will meet a team from Fredericksburg, Va., here Monday night in the Health Center Bowling Hall.

Stars Talking In Fancy Figures

Many Others Following Example of Babe Ruth.

Al Simmons Among Those Making Holdout Gestures.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WHILE there is no question but what Babe Ruth is the "all-American" holdout of the approaching baseball season and has hogged up the bulk of winter publicity by turning down a two-year contract calling for the same amount of money drawn by the President of the United States, the Yankees are not the only club having trouble in this respect.

Here in Washington, such star players as Goose Goslin, Sam Jones, Garland Braxton and Fred Marberry have failed to come to terms with Owner Clark Griffith and evidently are putting up good arguments.

In addition to Ruth, it is said that Pitcher Walt Hoyt, who annually makes holdout gestures, also is putting up an argument with President Jake Ruppert, while Outfielder Al Simmons, of the Athletics, is understood to have demanded a paltry $40,000 for his services in 1930, this being considerably out of line with the figures listed in Connie Mack's budget.

Grimes and Vance Want $25,000.

From out Pittsburgh way come stories that Pitcher Burleigh Grimes has told Owner Barney Dreyfus that he really cannot afford to toil for less than $25,000 during the coming season, with Dreyfuss declaring that he really cannot consider paying any such money, while "Dazzling Dazzy" Vance is putting up a great scrap to keep the Robins from reducing his 1929 stipend of 25 "grand." Vance did not earn half that amount last year, but, of course, promises much for 1930 and wants the Flatbush club to put up its cash against these promises.

Even the Philadelphia Nationals, who heretofore never had any players with nerve enough to demand real money, are having their troubles. Chuck Klein, the rookie who broke the senior circuit's home run record, naturally is demanding a big increase, as also is Lefty O'Doul, who believes that he should draw at least $17,000 for having led the league hitters. Last season, he drew $8,000, said to be the highest figure ever previously paid by the Phils.

There are, of course, any number of other salary arguments waxing hot at this time, but they may be classed as minor ones as compared with those named above.

Ferrell, Rookie, Craves Star's Salary.

The only tiff known involving a rookie is that between Pitcher Wesley Ferrell and the Cleveland Club "Wes," a first-year man in the majors, asked for a boost after the 1929 season ended. His terms finally were accepted, whereupon he changed his mind and said he wanted still more. It is understood that he has been able to think up higher and higher figures until now his demands are those of a full-fledged star.

While Ferrell's record last season was a brilliant one, it is an established fact that one year is not a real test; hence Business Manager Billy Evans wants his star rookie to go through at least one more season before talking big money. Evans has in mind the case of Willis Hudlin, also a member of the tribe. He won eighteen games as against twelve losses his first season under the big tent. Hudlin rejected the contract offered him the following season, demanding a big salary.

A compromise finally resulted, which gave Hudlin a nice raise. Not only did he fail to duplicate his first season's efforts, but he has never been able to duplicate them since.

Clubs Have Edge in Final Analysis.

While many are making holdout gestures, it's dollars to doughnuts that there will be few actual holdouts. In the final analysis, the ballplayer either has to accept the terms offered him by his club or drop out of organized baseball. And in what other walk of life can a diamonder get as much cash as baseball pays him?

EASTERN STAR MEETING.

The opening meeting of all bowlers interested in the Eastern Star Bowling League tournament, to be held next month, will be held tonight at the Lucky Strike Alleys at 7:30 o'clock. All those interested are invited to attend.

U. S. Track Stars Gather For Millrose A. A. Meet; Relays Draw G. U. and Md.

Elder Faces Leland in Sprints; 50 Teams in Mile Relays.

Hilltop Sends Mile and 2-Mile Teams to New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Picked track and field stars of the United States, Canada and two European countries assembled here today for the classic Millrose A. A. games at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Two of the fastest sprinters that ever churned a gridiron or a track will meet when Jack Elder, of Notre Dame, and Cy Leland, of Texas Christian University, clash in a 60-yard sprint with a 50-yard final to race it out for recognition as "the fastest football player."

Both made great names for themselves last fall by flashy runs for touchdowns. So that nothing will prevent them from having it out, Elder and Leland have been placed in the same heat at 60 yards. They must finish one-two to meet again in the 50-yard final.

Daley of Holy Cross Also Entered.

In the same event will be Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross; Chet Bowman, Newark A. C.; Howard Kriss, Cleveland A. C.; John Fitzpatrick, of the Canadian Olympic Team, and Leigh Miller, another crack Canadian.

In the famous "Millrose 600," middle distance feature annually since 1915, Bernie McCafferty, winner last year, matches strides with Pete Bowen, of the University of Pittsburgh, national quarter-mile champ.

RELAY teams representing Georgetown and Maryland compete in New York tonight in the Millrose A. A. indoor meet. Just which rival quartet will be pitted against the local collegians is not known even to Coach John D. O'Reilly, of Georgetown, nor to Gerry Eppley, the Old Line mentor.

Two relay teams will compete for the Hilltop institution. Rica, Carlin, Briggs and Burke have been named to carry the Blue and Gray in the mile event and Mara, Kelly, Downing and Julicher have been chosen to carry the baton over the two-mile route. Havell, White, Kinnamon and Linzey are slated to comprise Maryland's quartet, which may face the same rivals—Harvard and Penn—which Old Line relay teams have met in the Millrose games the last few years.

Georgetown will compete minus the services of two of its stars, Milstead and Cranley, both of whom were declared ineligible earlier in the week due to scholastic difficulties.

With the exception of its relay, Maryland will have but one other entrant. Quinn, who has shown good time in trials, will run in one or more of the dashes.

Coach O'Reilly looks for a continuance of the dual relay races between Holy Cross and the Hilltop. It is probable that the mile teams of these two schools will meet in one of the feature events.

Hunter Plays Seligson in Net Final

U. S. No. 2 Player in Easy Victory Over Rockafellow.

Seligson Wins From Hall in 3 Hard-Fought Sets.

By TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Frank Hunter and Julius Seligson, two of the hardest drivers in the game, reached the final round of the National Indoor Tennis Tournament today. Tomorrow they will fight it out for the championship.

Hunter, the New Rochelle, N. Y., veteran who is ranked second only to Bill Tilden in the country, is heavily favored to capture the title he held eight years ago. He and the Lehigh collegian have met four times in the past, and Seligson never has won.

Youth is on Seligson's side, however, and he demonstrated in the semi-finals this afternoon that he is close to his great form of 1928 when he won the intercollegiate championship and a ranking of ninth in the national.

Both Win in 3 Sets.

Both players reached the final to the tune of straight-set victories. Arrayed against J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., former Canadian indoor champion, Seligson, through powerful service and fierce driving off forehand and backhand, won by 6—4, 7—5, 6—2.

Hunter was easily the master in his semifinal match with Perrine Rockafellow, of New York, at 6—2, 6—1, 7—5.

The doubles finalists will be Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, Iowa, and Richard Murphy, Utica, N. Y., against Rockafellow and Merritt Cutler, New York. The latter team defeated Walter Swayhill and Stanley Harte, New York, 6—1, 2—6, 6—2, 7—9, 6—4, while Coggeshall and Murphy upset Hall and Kenneth Appel, South Orange, N. J., 6—4, 3—6, 9—7, 6—3.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 7.—The Sewanee Tigers guarded closely and rang up a series of baskets in the last three minutes of play to take a lightning fast game from V. M. I. here tonight, 31 to 22. There were four ties in the first half with the teams matching each other almost point for point. The visitors had a lead of 14 to 13 as the half ended. The guarding of both sides was so nearly airtight that nine minutes of play elapsed in the second half before Thigpen flashed under the basket to score for Sewanee. Yates followed suit, and then Bob Brown broke loose to put V. M. I. back in the running. The Cadets covered Dawson, Sewanee ace, so tightly that he failed to score from the floor, and V. M. I.'s high scorer, Bob Brown, was held to a single field goal. Capt. Hines and McCree, of Sewanee, and Bob Brown, of V. M. I., were forced out of the game by personal fouls.

Ring Tourney For Navy Opposed

Admiral Robison Believes Strain Is Too Great in Meet.

Middies Competed in Intercollegiates for Past 10 Years.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7.—Whether or not the Naval Academy Boxing Team will be permitted to compete in the intercollegiate tournament at the University of Pennsylvania late in March, appears to be hanging in the balance, according to information at the academy today.

Navy is a member of the league and has entered the title bouts regularly during the last ten years, but Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the academy, is said to be opposed to their entrance this year largely because of the strain it imposes on the fighters in striving for titular honors. However, there appears to be a chance that Admiral Robison will eventually yield. The absence of the Middies would undoubtedly be a big blow to the tourney, especially in view of their record of ten years of not having lost a dual meet. They have, however, bowed twice in tournaments, the Lions of Pennsylvania State being their conquerors.

M. I. T. Boxers on Scene for Match.

The Tars will entertain the mitt pushers of Massachusetts Institute of Technology here tomorrow night. The Engineers already are on the scene, and are staying at the academy as guests of the Middies and taking advantage of the facilities offered in the gymnasium for their final workouts.

Coached by Tommy Lawson, Tech has a representative team this year and the fighters expect to make things interesting for their hosts in at least three of the bouts. Lawson announced that O'Malley, 241-pounder, will arrive here in time to compete in the heavyweight division. O'Malley was intercollegiate titleholder a few years ago, but owing to studies has not fought regularly for two seasons.

Varsity Court Team Host to Virginia.

In addition to the ring contest the Middies will stage another big program in the afternoon. Varsity teams will engage City College of New York in swimming and water polo, Duke at wrestling, University of Virginia at basket ball, and Ohio State University in a shoulder-to-shoulder smallbore rifle match. The plebes will take on Manlius School of New York in basket ball and Virginia Military Institute freshmen in boxing.

Howard U. Quintet Beats Virginia State

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 7.—Howard University defeated Virginia State College, 29 to 16, for its third victory, in the colored intercollegiate athletic association. Williams, Beasley, Taylor and Hall starred for the Bison quintet. H. Johnson and Dabney played best for Virginia State.

French's Wins in Pro Debut Over Woodlawn

In a spirited nip-and-tuck battle in the Fort Myer Gym last night the French A. C. scored a 56-to-51 victory over the Woodlawn A. C. Quintet in the Independent Basket Ball League. Both teams were extended to the limit, the victors coming to the front in the last two minutes of play. The victory places the French Five on even terms with the Skinker Eagles in the standing of the teams.

The French Five held a 29-to-27 advantage at intermission, but the score was tied several times during the second half. Not until the end loomed in sight did the French tossers pull enough in front to clinch the verdict.

Barry and Colliflower accounted for 14 points each to lead in individual scoring.

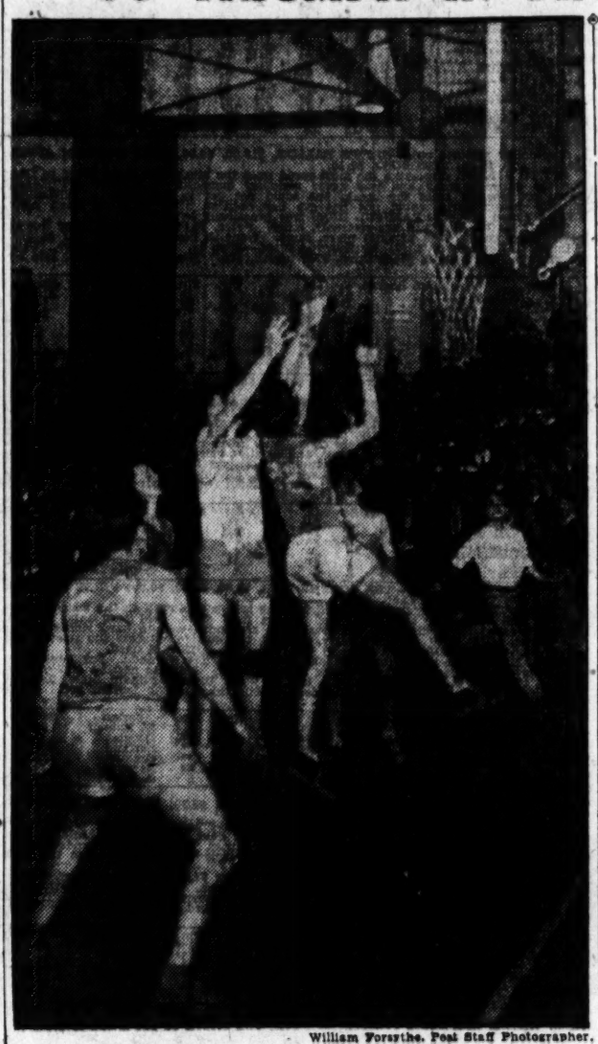
4,500 WATCH M'KINLEY QUINTET WAGE ANOTHER UPHILL BATTLE TO TRIUMPH IN FINAL PERIOD



William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer.

Action in the Tech-Eastern interhigh-school basket ball game yesterday is pictured above with the ball high in the air about to drop through the netting for an Eastern goal at the hands of Bill Noonan (No. 22).

Eastern Gains Futile 7-Point Lead in Third Period.

MacCartee, Olverson Heroes; Score Tied Four Times.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

FLASHING the same comeback qualities that have characterized its success all season, Tech clinched the 1930 interhigh basket ball title and its second major title of the scholastic year, when two baskets in the last two minutes of play gave it a 27-to-23 victory over Eastern yesterday before the largest crowd of the series, estimated at 4,500, gathered in the spacious McKinley Gymnasium.

When "J. B." Olverson potted the first of these final goals from a side position near the basket, he broke a 23-to-23 tie, which marked the culmination of a sustained Tech drive throughout the second half, which had overcome a 6-point lead of the Lincoln Parkers. And when Capt. Carl MacCartee, who played such an important part in the victory, dribbled past two enemy players 30 seconds later for another 2-pointer, he put the game once and for all beyond the reach of the Eastern Team, frantic, but unable, to score again.

MacCartee Outstanding Player.

MacCartee, playing his last series game for Tech, was literally a wonder, working the ball in and around the Eastern basket all afternoon and proving the one on whom his mates could always look when in need. The Maroon and Gray leader was the Gibraltar of the championship rock and led his team in a faultless fashion. His performance set a worthy example, which was closely followed by the other Tech players in their dash to the title.

The game, hailed as a championship classic, was all of that—and more. It revealed a team which was to successfully defend its title playing a cool, steady brand of ball in direct contrast to a group of players hurried, excited and at times erratic. Overanxious in their desire to score, Eastern players missed shot after shot at the beginning of the game when it seemed as if they could not fail to slip the ball through the loop, and although they eventually found the basket, the "muffing" of simple shots continued throughout the game.

Tech Employs Zone Defense.

Although Tech used its zone defense throughout the entire game for the first time this season, Eastern players slipped through on numerous occasions to place themselves in scoring positions, but either their shooting eyes or nervous condition hindered them throughout. Pot shots near or around the basket accounted for four of Eastern's six field goals in the first twenty minutes of play which, together with three fouls, gave them a 15 to 9 advantage at half-

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 7.—Virginia Polytechnic Institute Freshmen rallied in the final half here tonight to defeat Davidson College Freshmen, 26 to 21, in a thrilling nip and tuck court battle. The lead changed hands six times and the score was tied seven times until Hall, Seamon and Wolfe hit the basket in the final minutes to forge ahead.

Business Five Beats Bridgewater Jayvee

Special to The Washington Post.

Bridgewater, Va., Feb. 7.—Business High, of Washington, D. C., opened its road trip of two days in an auspicious manner here today, scoring over the Junior Varsity of Bridgewater College, 33 to 25, in a fast game.

Getting off to a fast start, the high school boys were never headed, at no time being forced to exert themselves, and leading at half time, 19-13. With the exception of Sinclair, every member of the winning team scored at least four points, with Capt. Spencer Chase, Bobby Lucas and Freddy Finley leading the attack with seven points each. Loftus located the loop three times from the floor.

Tarheels in Overtime Victory Over Virginia

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 7.—Three shots from the charity mark, two by Substitute Neiman in an extra 5-minute period, enabled North Carolina University's basketeers to defeat Virginia here tonight, 46 to 37.

The contest was the most thrilling seen here this season. One week ago tonight, the Cavaliers fought the North Carolina State Quint to a tie, only to lose out in the extra period when three regulars had been banished from the line-up.

Tonight Virginia put up its best battle of the year and really outplayed the Chapel Hill regulars. Foul shots proved the margin of victory, ten being made by the Tarheels as against three for the Cavaliers. Jones, Virginia center, lost an opportunity to win the game for his team when he missed a free shot in the last few seconds of the second half.

The Cavaliers fought valiantly throughout, taking the lead from the Tarheels near the close of the first half. Carolina rallied, however, and at half time had a two-point margin, 21 to 19.

North Carolina Frosh Beaten by Woodberry

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodberry Forest, Va., Feb. 7.—The University of North Carolina freshmen dropped a hard-fought game to Woodberry Forest on the local court this afternoon by a 2-point margin, the score standing 16-14 when the final whistle called off hostilities. The contest was featured throughout by airtight guarding on the part of the Orange quint, with a majority of the visitors' points coming from long-range tosses. Both teams missed a number of what appeared to be crip shots, but the balance in this falling swung heavily against Woodberry.

The locals found extreme difficulty in locating the loop and had one-half of their attempted shots rung true the victory would have been somewhat more decisive. The freshmen made a desperate attempt to rally in the closing moments of play, succeeding in overhauling the Foresters and knotting the count at 14-14. Minor saved the day for Woodberry when he came through with a double-decker to clinch victory. The play of Weaver, for Woodberry, and Hines, for Carolina, featured the game. Weaver was high scorer with 9 points to his credit.

TOM MURPHY TO ASSIST AT G. U.

Notre Dame Player to Aid Mills; Indoor Grid Drills Off.

WITH the announcement yesterday that Tom Murphy, varsity end at Notre Dame for several seasons, had enrolled in the law school at Georgetown and will assist in coaching football at the Hilltop, Director of Athletics Tom Mills indicated that he is well pleased with his staff and is now awaiting the advent of favorable weather in order that he might issue the first call for spring practice. No drills will be attempted until the weather permits outdoor work, Mills stated, abandoning his previous plan to start drills indoor.

Murphy, who is a native of Bridgeport, Conn., has been a member of the varsity team at Notre Dame the past three years and is well versed in the Rockne system. His addition to the Georgetown coaching staff is welcomed by Mills, who now has two former South Bend ends on his staff. John Colrick also played end the past three years.

Tim Moynihan On Hand.

Tim Moynihan, Notre Dame's great center of last fall, arrived here yesterday to aid Mills.

With the addition of Murphy to the football staff, and the arrival of Moynihan, it is probable that Colrick will be named varsity baseball coach for the approaching season. Mills had expected to have only Colrick here this spring to aid him in introducing the Notre Dame grid system, but now that Murphy and Moynihan are on the scene, Colrick, who starred at first base the past two seasons at Notre Dame, is Mills' probable choice for the varsity baseball coaching position.

Jake Goldblatt, Ex-Tech Star, Up to Old Tricks

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 7.—William and Mary's frosh basketers, mainly through the scoring of Jake Goldblatt, former Washington Tech High star, who accounted for half of his team's points, defeated Washington and Lee freshmen, 29 to 24. The teams kept on even terms up to the last few minutes of play when Goldblatt and Lynn scored 12 points while the losers scored but five.

It was the ability of Goldblatt to come through with the deciding points that aided Tech in winning the interhigh title in 1929.

FRANKLIN U. BEATEN BY GONZAGA

Purple Victor, 30-27, After 8-8 Score at Half-Time.

GONZAGA HIGH'S courtmen showed real class last night in staging one of the upsets of the season when they took the Benjamin Franklin tossers into camp, 30 to 27, in the Eye Street Gymnasium. By virtue of its exhibition against Gallaudet the night before the Franklin Quintet was rated a heavy favorite, but met a stubborn obstacle in the Purple Five.

After a slow first half, which ended 8-8, Coach Orrell Mitchell's men stepped out in the second half to outscore their rivals by three points, ringing up three more field goals than the losers were able to make in the last 20 minutes.

No Outstanding Star.

No one player was outstanding for the victors, the scoring being equally divided between the regular team, although McVean counted one more point than any of his mates. Seeing the game slipping from their grasp, the Franklin tossers resorted to desperate tactics which resulted in two of the losing players being forced from the game on four personal fouls. Keefer, with 12 points, was high man for the losers.

Second Son of "Big Ed" Walsh, Giant Collegian, Signed by Yanks

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees today announced the signing of Robert E. Walsh, son of "Big Ed" Walsh, former ace of the White Sox pitching staff. Young Walsh, who is 22 years old, 6 feet 4 inches in height and weighs 205 pounds, will report to Manager Shawkey with the first Yankee squad.

Since his brother, Ed Walsh, jr., left the University of Notre Dame to join the White Sox, young Robert has been a Notre Dame pitching star. Taught many of the tricks of the pitching trade by their accomplished father, before they entered college, the boys have been stars in intercollegiate baseball.

Robert Walsh is said to combine ability to hit with his pitching skill, and some scouts have suggested that he would be a success as a major league outfielder, if his pitching should fail to meet the exacting requirements of the big time.

Ed Walsh, sr., is now a scout for the White Sox.

The Yankees also announced that Henry Johnson, a pitcher who suffered last season from an injury to his spine, had advised the club that he had fully recovered and would leave tomorrow for Hot Springs, Ark., to take the baths preparatory to reporting at St. Petersburg, February 23.

Bubbles Hargrave, veteran catcher, was reported taking the baths at Dawson Springs, Ky., and getting in shape for active service.

ARCTURUS SHOWS WAY IN NEW ORLEANS FEATURE

Victory Makes Double for Russell.

Jockey Pilots Seth's Ballot Home First in Second.

Miss Watson's Entry Second and Third in Feature.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Arcturus, from the C. Graffagnini Stable, won the Varnado purse, the feature on today's program at the Fair Grounds. Miss Blanche Watson's Lord Braedelbane was second and her Kadiak was third. The winner paid $10.40 for a $2 mutuel ticket. Jockey Kenneth Russell rode Arcturus and the win completed a double for him, he bringing home Seth's Ballot in the second event.

Arcturus jumped into an immediate lead and won handily by a length. Lord Braedelbane raced close up during the early stages and closed ground under punishment. Kadiak tired.

Three Substitute Races on Havana Card.

Havana Race Track, Cuba, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Pronounced mudders were much in demand at Oriental Park this afternoon. Three of the original races programmed for today were declared off and substitutes provided. There was no outstanding feature in the new card and the platers had a golden opportunity of earning their way. The majority of winners had to be driven to the last ounce to attain their objectives.

Malcolm, racing for W. Mikel and Son, accounted for what was probably the best race of the day, a sprint over the ¾-mile ground. He stood a drive gamely under the energetic handling of Colvin, to lead home Dusky Maiden and Chantry. The winner was accorded some support and the result appeared a popular one. The victory, however, was a narrow one. Dusky Maiden finished again under pressure, on the outside. Chantry had no mishaps in the running and was a tired third.

Conacher, 8 to 1, Wins in Mud at Miami.

Miami Race Track, Fla., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Today's races were run over a very heavy track. The rain over the last 24 hours made the footing heavy and it required a staunch mud horse to negotiate the going. The Florida City Purse, a 6-furlong sprint resulted in an upset when the Montalvo Stud's Conacher, 8 to 1, took the measure of the even money favorite, Partisan. West Park was third Wave Top, second choice, was fourth.

West Park displayed good speed in the mud and rushed to the front, with Partisan and Conacher second and third, respectively. This order was maintained to the head of the stretch, where Partisan was sent to the front. He drew away to a clear lead, but faltered in the last sixteenth and Conacher, closing with a rush, took the race by a head. Partisan beat West Park by six lengths for the place. The time was 1:16 2-5.

Jockey Kurtsinger broke a small bone in his foot when he was unseated by The Runt before the start of the third race. He rode The Runt to second position in the race, but was forced to cancel his other mounts.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.

Plans for the mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Back to the District Association Wednesday night in the auditorium of the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall are being rapidly completed, according to a statement last night by Richard L. Eacho, vice president.

Among the speakers will be Representative Charles E. Lesh, of Kansas, and Jesse L. Suter, of the District of Columbia.

"The movement has now grown into an organization numbering more than 500, and it is our purpose to hold meetings in every section of the county in an effort to bring to the citizens of Arlington County the many advantages afforded by this section again becoming a part of the District of Columbia," said Mr. Eacho.

Recognizing the urgent need of a more modern street lighting system for the county, a movement has been started to create interest in its establishment in the business sections.

By those who are sponsoring the movement it is pointed out that with more modern lights in the business section the county authorities can extend the system along the other streets in the several sections as the revenues of the county permit.

Estimates of the cost of a system are now being prepared, and efforts will be made to bring it before the meeting of the board of supervisors on Saturday, February 15.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA was giving advice to the lovelorn.

One of her girl friends, it seems, is having a tough time of it making her boy friend come to terms. Luella, "meddling in a love affair?

"And what are you doing," I asked. "You'd better keep hands off!"

Luella stood and surveyed me, reading the paper.

"Trouble with you," she said, "is absolute ignorance."

"What?"

"You don't know anything at all about life—about love——"

"I know this much. Every time you interfere in other people's business——"

"This isn't business," she snapped; "it's love."

"Monkey business, then; that's what it is——"

"You shouldn't talk like that," she warned. "Love is sacred."

"And so's your Aunt Phoebe——"

"Leave Aunt Phoebe out of this. She's not in love."

"Who is?" I inquired.

* * * *

"THAT'S what I'm trying to tell you. Mary Jane came over this morning and told me she'd had a fight with Roger and that he and she are going to break off their engagement unless——"

"Unless what?"

"Unless I help 'em out; patch it up; fix it——"

"So that's it. You're going to mend a broken love affair—fix it. Now, listen here, young lady——"

She stomped her foot. "Don't you 'young lady' me. What I want you to do is call up Roger, invite him to lunch, and talk it over——"

"Talk what over?"

"Roger's quarrel with Mary Jane."

"Luella. Are you losing your mind? Whadda you think this fellow Roger would do if I butt into his affair——?"

"That's just it," she smiled. "You wouldn't be buttin' in, you'd be doing him a great favor, and he'd get down on his knees and thank you—if you fix it up for him, 'cause he's head over heels in love with Mary Jane——"

"I see. That's why he walked out on her——"

"He didn't walk out on her."

"What did he do? Run out on her?"

"All he did," said Luella, "was tell her he didn't love her any more——"

"Yet, he's head over heels in love with her. I'll be doggone!"

"You don't understand," sighed Luella, almost giving up.

* * * *

"NO, and neither do you. Nobody understands anything about love. Roger is head over heels in love with Mary Jane and so he tells her he doesn't love her any more. How do you figure that?"

Luella sank to the sofa, exhausted.

"Some day," she sighed, "you'll understand——"

"Understand what?"

"That God loveth a cheerful giver——"

Put in that light, I had to take Roger to lunch and give him some advice; which was done, cheerfully.

HIGHWAY WILL HAVE NEW TRAFFIC SIGNS

Silver Spring - Woodside Tract to Be Improved Before Winter Is Over.

FARMERS MEET TODAY

The task of providing street signs for all of the intersections of the Silver Spring-Woodside territory of Montgomery County has been undertaken by Ward W. Caddington, clerk to the northern suburban district commissioner, at the instruction of County Commissioner Lacy Shaw.

Because of a lack of signs it has been difficult to locate the streets of the section, and this has caused much trouble for delivery men and tradesmen as well as visitors to the residents of the area.

The signs are to be wooden posts, 4 feet high and 4 inches by 4 inches wide. The names of the streets will be printed in large letters down the sides of the potsts, which will be of such a height as to be readily discernible at night by headlight rays. Overhead signs were at first considered, but it was decided to use the wooden posts when it was pointed out that high signs are hard to read, especially at night.

The signs will be placed on two street corners at each intersection, so that they will be easily seen from the direction of usual traffic. Commissioners Shaw and Caddington are enthusiastic about the street signs, which will be completed by early spring.

The 57th annual convention of the farmers of the Olney, Sandy Spring and Colesville neighborhoods will be held today in the auditorium of the Sherwood High School, at Sandy Spring. The morning session will begin at 10 o'clock. The convention will be an all day affair. It is sponsored by the Senior Farmers Club, the Enterprise Club and the Montgomery Club. Clarence L. Gilpin is chairman.

Speakers at the convention will include Roland Rogers, landscape architect and assistant engineer of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission; Dr. Kenneth A. Clark, of the University of Maryland; Miss Lavinia Engle, president of the Maryland League of Women Voters; Josiah W. Jones, president of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau; O. W. Anderson, county agent, B. B. Powell and Charles Hines.

Contest Set for Today By Sky Climbers' Club

The first model contest this year of the Sky Climbers Club of America will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Gordon Junior High School, Wisconsin avenue and Thirty-fifth street. It will be an endurance test for the "Pete Weet" model.

Contestants will compete in two groups. The first group will be for boys from 8 to 11 years old, and the second for boys from 12 to 16 years of age. Six prizes will be presented by Saks & Co., headquarters of the club.

The title of the new song is "'Tis the Flag of My Country." Dr. Pierce wrote both the words and music. Each member of the congregation will be presented with a copy of the song.

SHERIFF BEGINS QUIZ IN SHOOTING ON ROAD

Indiscriminate Firing Along Baltimore Boulevard by Police Alleged.

RESIDENTS CITE FEARS

An investigation has been launched by the sheriff's office of Prince Georges County into charges of indiscriminate shooting on the Baltimore Boulevard by county police conveyed in a letter written by Dr. H. T. Willis, mayor of Hyattsville, to the Prince Georges County Commissioners.

Dr. Willis wrote to the county commissioners calling attention to the fact that residents of Hyattsville and its vicinity had been complaining to him against the practice of county police in firing on rumrunners' cars on the boulevard. The citizens claim that the practice is dangerous to their lives and safety and ask that the police be curbed.

The mayor made no recommendations of his own, but merely passed on to the county commissioners the views of his constituents. The boulevard is closely populated from Berwyn to the District line and the residents claim that they are afraid to venture out at nights for fear of being hit by a stray bullet.

The letter was received at the office of the county commissioners and was in turn forwarded to Sheriff Charles S. Early, who is chief of the county police, for action. Sheriff Early said last night that he had not had time to investigate the charges but that he would do so to determine if there had been lack of caution by police.

It was pointed out by police last night, however, that in every case involving shooting in the last few weeks, the shots were not fired until after the rumrunners had attempted to force the police from the road. The policemen feel that after such an attempt the pursued car driver has committed a felony and that they have a right to shoot in an effort to stop him.

The main case in view before the citizens is the shooting by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown at a truck loaded with alleged liquor earlier in the week as the truck approached the crest of the Hyattsville overhead bridge. In that instance, the occupants of the truck became frightened by the shots and jumped from their truck and ran, allowing the vehicle to back into the police car. The bridge was clear of traffic and is situated at a considerable height above the street level. This was about noon and there were a number of persons on the streets at the time.

Several other chases involving pistol fire were reported through the week, but these were all in the early hours of th morning when there was no traffic on the road. The police in each instance claimed that the driver of the car had attempted to run them from the road.

$100 Monthly Alimony Given Broker's Wife

Robert G. Fender, investment broker, of the Investment Building must pay his wife, Miss Juanita Fender, of 1632 S street northwest, $100 a month temporary alimony, according to an order signed yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Alfred A. Wheat. The court ruled that other grievances recited by the wife in her petition, among them that he had neglected to feed a Persian cat and a macaw parrot, can wait until the final hearing.

Mrs. Fender, in her bill, charged that her husband, whom she married December 24, 1927, had been intimate with a number of women during a recent visit to New York City. She also alleged that he had been addicted to whisky. Fender, according to the wife, has a net income of $30,000 a year.

PETITION ASKS NEW TOWN GOVERNMENT

Ward Plan Is Requested of Assembly by Fairfax Courthouse Folk.

152 SIGNED DOCUMENT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 54.

A petition circulated among voters of the Town of Fairfax Court House and which embodies a new form of government for the town has been sent to the State Assembly, signed by 152 of slightly more than 200 qualified voters in the town.

The new plan divides the town into four wards, the Vienna to Fairfax Station road forming the north and south dividing line and the Little River turnpike the east and west.

Each of the four new wards would elect its own member to the town council, and, in addition, a member at large and the mayor would be chosen by popular vote of the entire town. This would give the same number of members on the town council as at present, but it is claimed by the proponents of the plan that it would give a more equitable participation in the conduct of the municipal business by the voters.

Omer Hirst will be in charge of the ten-minute scout play that will be presented by four members of the troop. There will be many other features of the program which close with a scene by the entire troop in charge of Raymond and Edwin Lynch, which will represent the morning and evening activities which took place on the scouts' camping trip on the Shenandoah River last summer.

AUTO BILL PASSES IN VIRGINIA SENATE

Fuller Income Tax Measure Approved in House With Higher Exemptions.

EARLY CAUSES SURPRISE

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 7.—The Senate passed the Lesner State-wide automobile permit bill and its companion today, and the House, after battling over election law reforms, an administration affair, passed the Fuller income tax reduction measure, which, by raising exemptions, will relieve smaller income tax payers of a $300,000 burden, to be distributed at the rate of $3.75 to single persons and $16 for married persons.

The surprise of the day came in the Senate when Senator N. B. Early, chairman of the Senate committee on schools and colleges, protested the action his committee had taken during his absence, attending a funeral, by passing out his bill which would provide a liberal arts college for women at Charlottesville with the recommendation that it be not passed, after he had announced the committee would not meet until his return.

"In my 33 years in the Senate," he said, "I have never been so treated, and, Mr. President, I make the point that the bill is improperly before you."

Bill Is Recommitted.

Lieut. Gov. James H. Price ruled that he was right, and the Senate recommitted the two bills—one to establish the college at Chaslottesville, with the recommendation that it be not passed, and another that would continue the Halsey commission, directing that body, already on record against Charlottesville, to arrange for establishment of the college at or near Harrisonburg, Fredericksburg, Lynchburg or Roanoke. No action, Senator Early said, would be taken before Tuesday, the next regular meeting day.

Before adjournment for the weekend the Senate concurred in a House resolution limiting the introduction of general bills, with the exception of finance and local bills, to the time remaining before February 15, looking ahead to adjournment time, just one month away.

The controversial barbers bill, which was recommitted to the general laws committee on Monday, was reported out again this afternoon and will regain its place on the Senate calendar Monday.

Battle on Houser Bill.

The House battled over the Houser bill, as amended by committee, providing for a commission of nine to study and recommend needed changes. Delegate Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, chairman of the House privileges and elections committee, who two weeks ago opposed it by championing the Bear resolution which would have superseded it, came to its rescue and dubbed a motion to have it recommitted as "purely dilitory tactic for the embarrassment of the governor."

The bill was on its second reading, and after a motion to recommit it was lost, 34 to 46, it was advanced to its passage, on which it will be considered Monday, without a record vote.

The Senate passed thirteen bills, none of which were argued except the Lesner bills, and including one House bill, offered by Delegate John B. Dey, of Princess Anne, which would abolish the act providing for a county road board, which the county does not have.

Ball Bill Is Reported.

The Senate general laws committee reported the safety appliance bill with a resolution asking that a commission be named to study the situation in Virginia industry. It also reported the Ball bill, looking toward restablishment of the legislative reference bureau on a full-time basis, the director to be called on to take care of codifying the laws.

Among the bills introduced was one that would create a continuing commission, to begin functioning July 1, 1930, for the studying of comparative costs of county government.

Another, sponsored by Delegates Porter, Bear and Topping, would provide for a fire drill weekly in all schools and specify rather stringent regulations regarding the placing of fire exits in all schools with outward opening doors. Delegates Reid and Collings would amend the existing fire esaape bill to include school auditoriums that are on the second floor.

LADIES' NIGHT SET AT POTOMAC LODGE

Alexandria Organization to Stage Entertainment on February 14.

MASONS PLAN MEETING

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Potomac Lodge, No. 38, I. O. O. F., will give a ladies' night entertainment the night of February 14, beginning at 8 o'clock, in their hall on North Columbus street. A special committee is planning an extensive program, with a surprise feature that promises an evening of entertainment, music and fun.

W. Clifton Cunningham is chairman of the entertainment committee, and will be assisted by J. H. Hudson, W. H. Scott, W. R. Gorham and J. M. Viands. Mr. Cunningham has asked that reservations of tickets be made before February 12.

The supper committee is arranging the menu, and appropriate decorations for the hall, and a feature of the evening will be the awarding of fifteen prizes. A large attendance is expected.

The lodge held an important session last night at the hall, when the second degree of the order was conferred.

The annual convention of the George Washington National Masonic Memorial Association will be held here February 21 and 22, when the work of construction of the new memorial temple on Shooters Hill will be discussed, and plans made for construction during the year. A report of contributions during the past year will be made, and funds appropriated for carrying on the work for another year.

The session will open with a meeting of the board of directors in the Willard Hotel in Washington, the morning of February 20, at 10 o'clock.

The regular session will convene in the auditorium of the new temple at 10 o'clock the morning of February 21, when, after invocation, the delegates, who will be representatives of every grand jurisdiction in the United States, will be welcomed by the grand master of Masons in Virginia. The first day's session, both morning and afternoon, will be devoted entirely to business.

The second day's session, to be held in the lodge room of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, will adjourn with the election of officers at noon, and in the afternoon the delegates will make their annual pilgrimage to Mount Vernon, where a wreath will be placed on the tomb of Washington. In the evening the delegates will be guests of Alexandria-Washington Lodge at the annual banquet of the latter, in Armory Hall. Admission to this banquet will be by card only, but all resident Masons will be provided for.

Louis A. Watres, of Scranton, Pa., is the president of the memorial association, and J. Claude Keiper, of Washington, has been secretary since the organization.

The work on the memorial temple is progressing more rapidly than in previous years, and the building now shows indications of what the completed structure will be. It is proposed to complete it in time for its dedication during the celebration of the bicentennial of Washington's Birthday in 1932, and in order to accomplish this, a great deal of interior work must be done in the next two years. The past winter is the first in which work has been continued throughout the winter months.

The total cost of the structure and grounds will be approximately $5,000,000, funds for the work being contributed by Masons throughout the country.

The work of clearing the ground for the students' aviation training field which will be operated in conjunction with the Hoover Field, commercial flying field, has been practically completed, and hangars will be built for the training planes in the near future. The field is located just outside the city limits beyond Donaldson's store, and is considered to be an exceptional location because of its distance from the plane-filled skies nearer Washington. Its altitude, also, is high enough to minimize the danger and confusion of fog.

The operators of the field plan to have it in use by July 1. It will also be utilized by mail flyers as an emergency landing field.

Steam escaping from a heating plant in the home of Walter Martin, 32 Linden avenue, North Braddock, caused an alarm of fire to be turned in yesterday morning. The services of the fire department were not required, however.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Purcell Cuvillier, wife of the late Charles Cuvillier, who died Tuesday in Garfield Hospital, Washington, were conducted yesterday morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church by the Rev. Father McKeefrey. Interment was in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Lynchburg Woman, 90, Dies After Recent Fall

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Feb. 7.—Miss Fanny Early, about 90, died late Wednesday at the Memorial Hospital here, having been ill since she fractured a hip in a fall last December. She was a daughter of the late Bishop John Early, of the Methodist Church, who died in 1871. She was the last of her family and was a lifelong member of Court Street Methodist Church.

Miss Early lived at 700 Court street, a dwelling which was owned by her family for more than 100 years.

TOBACCO GROWERS WILL GET $500,000

Last of Association Leaf Is Sold and Distribution of Proceeds Planned.

RECEIVERS TO GO SOON

Richmond, Va., Feb. 7 (A.P.).—M. L. Corey, a receiver of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, announced today that the last of the association tobacco has been sold and that approximately $500,000 will be available soon for distribution among the members of the former cooperative body in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Mr. Corey said the receivers will be discharged, probably by June 1 or July 1. The final lot of tobacco in the hands of the receivers, consisting of approximately 8,000,000 pounds, was sold in a single lot. The name of the purchaser and the price received were not made public.

In announcing the sale of the last of the tobacco held by the receivers, Mr. Corey said they are working on a plan for distribution of the proceeds.

"We have already begun the accounting," he said, "in connection with the distribution among the growers, and hope to have all matters cleared up so that the receivers can be discharged by June 1 or not later than July 1 of the current year. Such a surplus as exists will be divided among the pools entitled to share in it. Some of these pools have been overpaid in the past and some have been underpaid. The overpaid pools will naturally not share in the final distribution."

When the association was thrown into receivership in 1926 the inventory showed 72,000,000 pounds of tobacco. The receivers, it is said, have disposed of this entirely for approximately $10,500,000. The total indebtedness of the association amounting to $9,562,000, including the expenses of the receivership and the debts to the Federal Intermediate Bank of Baltimore, have been paid from this amount.
